Celeste Connally, author of Act Like a Lady, Think Like a Lord Maritime Antiques Alan Major, 1981 The Life and Times of a Merchant Sailor Jason M. Burns, 2012-12-06 Historical archaeologists are in a unique position to analyze both historical documents and archaeological data in order to generate hypotheses and draw conclusions. In this work, the data not only provided the history of the ship Catharine but also the economic, social, and political environments in which the ship was built and employed. This work focuses not only on the shipwreck and the wrecking event but on the history and archaeology of a single ship. With this expanded view, the research also delves into international shipbuilding, the struggle for dominance in the ship trade in the 19th century. This book will be of interest to underwater historical and cultural archaeologists, social historians, cultural heritage managers, and archaeologists working in the southeastern United States. Marine Art & Antiques Joseph Welles Henderson, Rodney P. Carlisle, 1999 Over the years, Welles Henderson, the author of this intriguing book, noted that the majority of maritime museums throughout the world placed their emphasis on ship paintings, ship models, figureheads, navigation equipment, nautical tools, and weapons but gave little insight into the daily life of the ordinary sailor. For over four decades, therefore, he has been collecting material in an attempt to fill the gap. This has been a great challenge as comparatively few real-life depictions of shipboard activities and the life of a sailor at sea were made during the eighteenth and much of the nineteenth century. There are countless ship portraits but very little of the human interest side of the sailor afloat. While many well-known expeditions, including that of Captain James Cook, had artists accompany them, practically all their depictions were of flora, fauna, landscapes, and local inhabitants rather than of shipboard life. Finding a piece here and a piece there, however, Welles Henderson has painstakingly succeeded in putting together a fascinating mosaic of the life of a sailor from the time of his going off to sea until his death on board or on shore. Bulletin - U.S. Coast Guard Academy Alumni Association United States Coast Guard Academy, Alumni Association, 1992
