Patterns Of Economic Restructuring For Eastern Europe:

Patterns of Economic Restructuring for Eastern Europe S. I. Cohen, 1993 The economies of Eastern European countries under communist rule for the last four decades or more are presently faced with a number of interdependent but yet distinct policy issues The issues concern the normal structural patterns for Eastern Europe the size of transitional gaps the choice between steady and shock approaches the scale and scope of privatization and the form and pace of external re integration in the world economy The present volume is devoted to an exposition of these policy issues and the propagation of several analytical devices which are found useful The volume reports on the construction and analysis of six Social Accounting Matrices for Eastern and Western European countries Corresponding models featuring general equilibrium and structural restrictions for Eastern Europe are found relevant in this context The research underlying the contributions to this volume was supported by a generous grant from the Commission of the European Communities in the context of the Community Action for Cooperation in the field of Economics ACE

Transformation in Eastern Europe and the Distribution of Income Anthony Barnes Atkinson, John Micklewright, 1992-10 This book first published in 1992 examines the distribution of income under Communism in Eastern Europe and its implications for economic transformation Economic Developments in Countries of Eastern Europe United States. Congress. Joint Economic Committee. Subcommittee on Foreign Economic Policy, 1970 East-Central European Economies in Transition John P. Hardt, Richard F. Kaufman, 2016-09-16 This volume makes JEC commissioned expert studies of economic developments in East Central Europe available to business people educators and students Coverage includes economic political and social reform issues regional relations and the impact of Western assistance programmes

International Trade and Restructuring in Eastern Europe János Gács, 2013-11-11 János Gács and Georg Winekler In recognition of the key position of international trade in the transition and the need for concentrated discussions of topical trade issues the International Institute for Applied Systems Analysis IIASA organized an international conference on International Trade and Restructuring in Eastern Europe which took place in Laxenburg Austria on 19 and 21 November 1992 The Austrian National Bank joined IIASA to co sponsor the event Participants of the conference were experts of international economics and trade policy from East and West policy makers and representatives of international organizations like the IMF the Commission of the European Communities the OECD and the European Bank for Reconstruction and Development EBRD The papers prepared for the event and the lively discussions during the conference itself prove that the topics are intellectually challenging and timely for policy makers It has widely been recognized that international economic relations play a crucial role in the transition of countries of Central and Eastern Europe. The scope, speed and success of the efforts to transform the formerly centrally planned economies to market economies have increasingly become dependent on the pattern these countries have in their relation to the rest of the world. Transition comprises three major processes: macro stabilization, marketization and restructuring. The success of these three hinges to a large extent on the response of these economies to the new conditions set by international trade and exchange regimes.

Economic Reform and Political Change in Eastern Europe Judy Batt, 1988-06-21. Economic reform, the introduction of elements of the market into a planned economy, has been the central political problem for socialist states for at least three decades. This book seeks to elucidate the nature of the problem through a reconsideration of the general theoretical issues and through a comparative analysis of the practice of economic reform in two countries: Czechoslovakia and Hungary.

Economic Adjustment and Reform in Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union Franklyn D. Holzman, 1988. Economic reform, structural adjustment, macroeconomic stabilization and participation in the world economy are interconnected aspects of the same issue: the long-term economic viability of centrally planned economies in the rapidly changing economic environment of the modern world. Any economic strategy that focuses on only one or two of these aspects at the expense of the others is likely to fail; yet even strategies that build on all of these bases may well fail unless political leaders can muster exceptional skill, garner international support and enjoy some good luck. The contributions to this volume reflect the recent research on this issue by various specialists on the economies of the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe. Each author emphasizes macroeconomic stabilization, structural adjustment, participation in the larger world economy or economic reform.

Economic Transition in Central and Eastern Europe Daniel Gros, Alfred Steinherr, 2004-03-25. Analysing the key problems facing the transition countries in Central and Eastern Europe, this accessible book describes the legacy of the central planners, the progress achieved so far and the need for further reforms. It documents the outstanding successes and failures and analyses why certain approaches to transition have worked and others have not. It tests where transition is over and shows how some countries have graduated from transition to integration through their efforts to join the European Union (EU). It discusses the costs and benefits of the eastern enlargement of the EU. The specific experiences of German unification, the Soviet Union's disintegration and Russia's complex reforms are examined, as are the specific issues that need to be addressed in the Balkans. The book concludes by indicating how the expanding EU could help the poor performers through inclusion in a continent-wide integrated economic area.

The Successes and Failures of Economic Transition H. Gabrisch, J. Hölscher, 2006-08-25. This book takes a macroeconomic approach to the issue of transformation from communist economies into market economies. At the centre of the analysis stands the role of the state and the definition within a dramatically changing environment. Particular emphasis is given to the emerging role of money and the financial sector.

Transformation of Cities in Central and Eastern Europe F. E. Ian Hamilton, Kaliopa Dimitrovska Andrews, Nataša

Pichler-Milanović, 2005 Annotation This volume is one in a series initiated by the United Nations University Institute of Advanced Studies on the inter relationship between globalisation and urban transformation It identifies and describes the inter and intra urban transformations of Central and Eastern European cities and considers their pre 1945 historic legacies the socialist period and their contemporary transition towards market oriented and democratic systems The dramatic changes since 1989 including the collapse of Communist ideology the break up of the Soviet Union Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia the end of the Cold War and the impact of globalisation and European integration have reconfigured this region and affected their re integration into European and global networks This book first examines the similarities and differences between significant Central and Eastern European cities comparing the differing patterns of historical context and socialist legacies before 1990 and the impacts of internal and external forces on re shaping these cities and their paths of transformation since 1990 It also examines the role of contemporary planning within the overall development of Central and Eastern European cities The conclusion demonstrates the similarities and differences between Central and Eastern European cities and their re integration into global networks
