Martina Wagner-Egelhaaf, 2019-01-29 Autobiographical writings have been a major cultural genre from antiquity to the present time. General questions of the literary as e.g. the relation between literature and reality, truth and fiction, the dependency of author, narrator and figure or issues of individual and cultural styles etc. can be studied preeminently in the autobiographical genre. Yet the tradition of life writing has in the course of literary history developed manifold types and forms. Especially in the globalized age where the media and other technological cultural factors contribute to a rapid transformation of lifestyles, autobiographical writing has maintained even enhanced its popularity and importance. By conceiving autobiography in a wide sense that includes memoirs, diaries, self-portraits and autofiction as well as media transformations of the genre, this three-volume handbook offers a comprehensive survey of theoretical approaches, systematic aspects and historical developments in an international and interdisciplinary perspective. While autobiography is usually considered to be a European tradition, special emphasis is placed on the modes of self-representation in non-Western cultures and on inter- and transcultural perspectives of the genre. The individual contributions are closely interconnected by a system of cross-references. The handbook addresses scholars of cultural and literary studies, students as well as non-academic readers.

Archetypes of Conversion Anne Hunsaker Hawkins, 2014-03-07 This sensitive and imaginative study explores the phenomenon of conversion in three major religious autobiographies: the Confessions of Saint Augustine, Grace Abounding by John Bunyan and Thomas Merton's The Seven Storey Mountain. These three religious figures could hardly be more different, and yet as Hawkins shows, their conversion narratives are remarkably similar in patterns of theme, figure and action. This archetypal approach is particularly appropriate to spiritual autobiography, which is less concerned with self than with soul and which seeks to relate the individual to a divine reality that is universal and timeless. Hawkins' approach to these texts is sophisticated yet free of jargon and doctrinaire psychologizing. Here archetypal analysis becomes not an end in itself but also a means to investigate the complexity of the individual text. Hawkins' archetypal analysis serves not only to discern continuities but also to explore cultural, ideological and psychological variations. Adapting William James's distinction between crisis and lysis, conversion, Hawkins shows that the conversion paradigm central to each autobiography determines its religious meaning, its formal structure and its archetypal emphases. The author approaches the phenomena of conversion with a blend of critical detachment and imaginative sympathy. She is always careful to honor the authenticity of religious experience and for this reason her commentary succeeds in illuminating it. The result is an interdisciplinary study that will appeal to the psychologist and literary critic as well as the student of religion. But these narratives of conversion offer paradigms that apply to any deeply significant change, for they are of interest and concern to all readers seeking to find meaning in their lives. Hawkins makes us feel both the immediacy and the permanence of these texts for what is human in them speaks to what is human in us.

The Confessions of Saint Augustine Richard Severson, 1996-11-25 The modern scholarly verdict about the Confessions has been nothing short of sensational This work documents the story of 20th century criticism and praise for Augustine's classic an ancient text that has grown in stature like few other Western classics Disciplines such as psychology literature and religion plus many others all claim it as their own The first chapter of this study puts modern Confessions scholarship into historical context The other chapters are devoted to autobiographical studies literary influences philosophical interpretations psychology spirituality and theological themes Of interest to scholars and students in many disciplines At the end of the 19th century a new critical spirit of inquiry and scholarship helped to change how we think about religious texts The new criticism uncovered problems with Augustine's Confessions he may have dramatized events concerning his conversion to Christianity for example Yet this work has proved to be relevant in the 20th century like few other ancient texts That such variegated attention has been devoted to it is testimony to Augustine's enduring legacy His stature in Western civilization is of the first order comparable to Homer and Virgil Plato and Aristotle Moses and Paul

Modes of Thought David R. Olson, Nancy Torrance, 1996-09-28 Modes of Thought addresses a topic of broad interest to the cognitive sciences Its central focus is on the apparent contrast between the widely assumed psychological unity of mankind and the facts of cognitive pluralism the diverse ways in which people think and the developmental cultural technological and institutional factors which contribute to that diversity Whether described in terms of modes of thought cognitive styles or sensibilities the diversity of patterns of rationality to be found between cultures in different historical periods between individuals at different stages of development remains a central problem for a cultural psychology Modes of Thought brings together anthropologists historians psychologists and educational theorists who manage to recognise the universality in thinking and yet acknowledge the cultural historical and developmental contexts in which differences arise

Mysticism and Vocation James R.

Horne,2006-01-01 We tend to think that a person who is both reasonable and moral can have a good life What constitutes a life that is not only good but superlative or even marvellous or holy Those who have such lives are called sages heroes or saints and their lives can display great integrity as well as integration with a transformative Spiritual Presence Does it follow that saints are perfect people Is there a common vision that impels them to seek holiness In a controversial interpretation of mysticism Horne suggests that there is no single formula for the meaning of life and no one story that displays it to us Mysticism rather than being just a visionary perception then becomes a problem solving process that brings about a creative transformation of the personality at a critical stage in life He suggests also that saints may be imperfect morally and describes true saints as double minded they are serious in a playful way Mysticism and Vocation illuminates our understanding of saintly lives by explicating their mystical characteristics and extending discussions of mysticism to explain its role in active lives In discussing important decisions that go beyond conventional morality it adds to recent philosophical arguments by Charles Taylor Alasdair MacIntyre Iris Murdoch Bernard Williams and others to the effect that morality should be defined more broadly to deal with the human condition This book will be of interest to students of philosophy and religious studies in both graduate and undergraduate programs The Literary Uses of the Rhetoric of Science ,1989 Telling Women's Lives Judy Long,1999-05 For centuries the great man format and masculine discourse of biography and autobiography have eclipsed women If we accept this history we remain ignorant of Lady Sarashina a Japanese woman of the Han period whose book survives from the 11th century We overlook Margaret Cavendish and Dame Julian two early English autobiographers And we fail to consider sufficiently slave narratives oral histories or lesbian coming out stories Telling Women s Lives assesses existing traditions of autobiography and biography in search of a method capable of conveying the distinctive content of women s lives while retaining the tenor of feminine subjectivity Drawing on feminist research methodologies of the past two decades as well as anthropology and sociology Long paves the way for the formulation of an emergent feminist methodology for telling women s lives This highly original study seeks to revise and recreate the genre so as to accommodate a feminine discourse narrator reader and subject The messiness of women s lives the daily work and detail that men have programmatically excluded acquires new meaning as Long develops here an innovative theory of sociobiography Handbook of Social Psychology Jan E.
