Young Criminal Lives: Life Courses and Life Chances from 1850 Barry Godfrey,Pamela Cox,Heather Shore,Zoe Alker,2017-10-26 Young Criminal Lives is the first cradle to grave study of the experiences of some of the thousands of delinquent difficult and destitute children passing through the early English juvenile reformatory system The book breaks new ground in crime research speaking to pressing present day concerns around child poverty and youth justice and resonating with a powerful public fascination for family history Using innovative digital methods to unlock the Victorian life course the authors have reconstructed the lives families and neighbourhoods of 500 children living within or at the margins of the early English juvenile reformatory system Four hundred of them were sent to reformatory and industrial schools in the north west of England from courts around the UK over a fifty year period from the 1860s onwards Young Criminal Lives is based on one of the most comprehensive sets of official and personal data ever assembled for a historical study of this kind For the first time these children can be followed on their journey in and out of reform and then through their adulthood and old age The book centres on institutions celebrated in this period for their pioneering new approaches to child welfare and others that were investigated for cruelty and scandal Both were typical of the new kind of state certified provision offered from the 1850s on to children who had committed criminal acts or who were considered vulnerable to predation poverty and the inheritance of criminal dispositions The notion that interventions can and must be evaluated in order to determine what works now dominates public policy But how did Victorian and Edwardian policy makers and practitioners deal with this question By what criteria and on the basis of what kinds of evidence did they judge their own successes and failures Young Criminal Lives ends with a critical review of the historical rise of evidence based policy making within criminal justice It will appeal to scholars and students of crime and penal policy criminologists sociologists and social policy researchers and practitioners in youth justice and child protection Charity and Mutual Aid in Europe and North America since 1800 Bernard Harris,Paul Bridgen,2012-04-06

International in perspective the essays in this volume are primarily concerned with two facets of the mixed economy of welfare charity and mutual aid Emphasizing the close relationship between these two elements and the often blurred boundaries between each of them and commercial provision contributors raise crucial questions about the relationship between rights and responsibilities within the mixed economy of welfare and the ties which bind both the donors and recipients of charity and the members of voluntary organisations The volume critically assesses the relationships between the statutory and voluntary sectors in a variety of national settings including Britain the United States the Netherlands Sweden Norway Canada and Germany during the last two hundred and fifty years making the book as topical as it is significant A History of Doughty's Hospital, Norwich, 1687-2009 Nigel Goose,Leanne Moden,2010 Based on primary resources and interviews with current residents and recent trustees this well researched history traces the growth and progress of Doughty's Hospital an almshouse in Norwich England while examining the various philanthropic initiatives and social policies in Britain as a whole From the hospital's foundation at the bequest of the departed William Doughty in 1687 to its present condition this record considers key aspects of the hospital's development including its residents staff financial management and rules and regulations With chapters on the 18th 19th and 20th centuries this account makes a valuable contribution to the history of social welfare

Transactions of the Royal Historical Society: Volume 9 Royal Historical Society,1999-12-09 Volume 9 of the RHS Transactions contains essays based around the theme oral history memory and written tradition Transactions of the Royal Historical Society: Volume 10 Royal Historical Society,2001-02 Volume 10 of the Transactions contains essays based on the British Irish Union of 1801

Uniting in Measures of Common Good Darren Ferry,2008 In a compelling and comprehensive treatment of the nineteenth century voluntary association movement Darren Ferry situates these organizations within the much larger framework of the construction of collective liberal identities He shows that by attempting to transcend the political religious class and ethnic divisions of their constituencies voluntary societies acted as cultural mediators in the reproduction transmission and contestation of liberal values throughout central Canadian society Ferry examines a wide selection of voluntary societies mechanics institutes mutual benefit organizations agricultural associations temperance societies and literary and scientific associations He reinterprets the history of these organizations in terms of their own internal tensions over liberal doctrines and the effect of social cultural and economic change and compares the effects of liberalism on rural and urban associations and on societies in both English and French Canada Anchored with an array of archival documentation minute books lectures associational periodicals personal papers pamphlets and tracts Uniting in Measures of Common Good illuminates the experience of ordinary Canadians with the voluntary association movement and as well as the relations of the movement with the larger liberal society Medicine, Charity and Mutual Aid Peter Shapely, 2016-04-29 The history of the voluntary sector in British towns and cities has received increasing scholarly attention in recent years Nevertheless whilst there have been a number of valuable contributions looking at issues such as charity as a key welfare provider charity and medicine and charity and power in the community there has been no book length exploration of the role and position of the recipient By focusing on the recipients of charity rather than the donors or institutions this volume tackles searching questions of social control and cohesion and the relationship between providers and recipients in a new and revealing manner It is shown how these issues changed over the course of the nineteenth century as the frontier between the state and the voluntary sector shifted away from charity towards greater reliance on public finance workers contributions and mutual aid In turn these new sources of assistance enriched civil society encouraging democratization empowerment and social inclusion for previously marginalized members of the community The book opens with an introduction that locates medicine charity and mutual aid within their broad historiographical and urban contexts Twelve archive based inter related chapters follow Their main chronological focus is the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries which witnessed such momentous changes in the attitudes to and allocation of charity and poor relief However individual chapters on the early modern period the eighteenth century and the aftermath of the Second World War provide illuminating context and help ensure that the volume provides a systematic overview of the subject that will be of interest to social urban and medical historians
