Meta-Learning in Computational Intelligence Norbert Jankowski, Włodzisław Duch, Krzysztof Grąbczewski, 2011-06-10

Computational Intelligence CI community has developed hundreds of algorithms for intelligent data analysis but still many hard problems in computer vision signal processing or text and multimedia understanding problems that require deep learning techniques are open Modern data mining packages contain numerous modules for data acquisition pre processing feature selection and construction instance selection classification association and approximation methods optimization techniques pattern discovery clusterization visualization and post processing A large data mining package allows for billions of ways in which these modules can be combined No human expert can claim to explore and understand all possibilities in the knowledge discovery process This is where algorithms that learn how to learn come to rescue Operating in the space of all available data transformations and optimization techniques these algorithms use meta knowledge about learning processes automatically extracted from experience of solving diverse problems Inferences about transformations useful in different contexts help to construct learning algorithms that can uncover various aspects of knowledge hidden in the data Meta learning shifts the focus of the whole CI field from individual learning algorithms to the higher level of learning how to learn This book defines and reveals new theoretical and practical trends in meta learning inspiring the readers to further research in this exciting field

Complex Kleinian Groups Angel Cano, Juan Pablo Navarrete, José Seade, 2012-11-05 This monograph lays down the foundations of the theory of complex Kleinian groups a newly born area of mathematics whose origin traces back to the work of Riemann Poincaré Picard and many others Kleinian groups are classically discrete groups of conformal automorphisms of the Riemann sphere and these can be regarded too as being groups of holomorphic automorphisms of the complex projective line CP^1 When going into higher dimensions there is a dichotomy Should we look at conformal automorphisms of the n sphere or should we look at holomorphic automorphisms of higher dimensional complex projective spaces These two theories are different in higher dimensions In the first case we are talking about groups of isometries of real hyperbolic spaces an area of mathematics with a long standing tradition In the second case we are talking about an area of mathematics that still is in its childhood and this is the focus of study in this monograph This brings together several important areas of mathematics as for instance classical Kleinian group actions complex hyperbolic geometry crystallographic groups and the uniformization problem for complex manifolds
