Researching Cultural Difference:

Cross-Cultural Research Methods in Psychology David Matsumoto, Fons J. R. van de Vijver, 2010-10-11 Cross cultural research is now an undeniable part of mainstream psychology and has had a major impact on conceptual models of human behavior Although it is true that the basic principles of social psychological methodology and data analysis are applicable to cross cultural research there are a number of issues that are distinct to it including managing incongruities of language and quantifying cultural response sets in the use of scales Cross Cultural Research Methods in Psychology provides state of the art knowledge about the methodological problems that need to be addressed if a researcher is to conduct valid and reliable cross cultural research It also offers practical advice and examples of solutions to those problems and is a must read for any student of culture

Understanding Culture Robert S. Wyer, Chi-yue Chiu, Ying-yi Hong, 2013-05-13 This volume contains contributions from 24 internationally known scholars covering a broad spectrum of interests in cross cultural theory and research This breadth is reflected in the diversity of the topics covered in the volume which include theoretical approaches to cross cultural research the dimensions of national cultures and their measurement ecological and economic foundations of culture cognitive perceptual and emotional manifestations of culture and bicultural and intercultural processes In addition to the individual chapters the volume contains a dialog among 14 experts in the field on a number of issues of concern in cross cultural research including the relation of psychological studies of culture to national development and national policies the relationship between macro structures of a society and shared cognitions the integration of structural and process models into a coherent theory of culture how personal experiences and cultural traditions give rise to intra cultural variation whether culture can be validly measured by self reports the new challenges that confront cultural psychology and whether psychology should strive to eliminate culture as an explanatory variable organizational behavior Researching 'Race' and Ethnicity Yasmin Gunaratnam, 2003-08-07 Gunaratnam's framework is rich in its examination and synthesis of approaches to the study of race. The reward for the reader who does pick up the book is that the author deftly articulates the complicated view of research on race first from the quantitative perspective and then skilfully moves the reader to issues of race in qualitative research. Studies in Ethnicity and Nationalism This is a welcome book for those engaged in policy and empirical work with an active research agenda. There is a level of theoretical sophistication in the text which is often missing from texts concerned with methods in this area. Race Relations Abstracts The particular value of this book to readers lies in the discussion of race, ethnicity and research issues within a political and social context. The author states her intention to explore some of the theoretical and practical dilemmas of researching race and ethnicity. This is without question achieved. I recommend it as essential reading for those concerned with increasing their awareness of issues relating to race, ethnicity and research practice. Nurse Researcher This is a thought provoking and challenging book which demonstrated the fractured and fluid nature of difference and power in the research process. Importantly it offers a guide to the ways in which research can be effectively and productively used in challenging the status quo. Diversity in Health and Social Care Researching Race and Ethnicity provides an innovative discussion of the methodological, epistemological and ethical challenges of doing qualitative research that is informed by questions of race, ethnicity and social difference. By identifying and challenging categorical thinking and many longstanding assumptions about the meanings of race and ethnicity, the author gets to the heart of many of the everyday dilemmas and difficulties that researchers confront in the field but are rarely theorised or openly discussed. Yasmin Gunaratnam's insistence that race and ethnicity are a significant part of all qualitative research and are not the specialist concerns of those whose work is explicitly focussed upon race provokes a radical rethinking of current methodological debates. How do racial and ethnic categories inform our approaches to research? How does the racialised identity of the researcher and the research participants affect the research interaction and the knowledge that we produce? What are the assumptions that are made about racialised subjectivity and inter subjectivity? How can we make sense of accounts in which race and ethnicity are silent or are non manifest? How can we work ethically across difference? In examining these and other questions, the wide ranging discussions in the book are animated by examples drawn from the author's ethnographic research with white and minoritized research participants. Through these examples, readers will be able to engage with some of the complexities of research relationships, power relations and ethical concerns about engagement, disconnection and complicity in research. The attention that the book gives to the excluded experiences of minoritized researchers will be of particular value to many readers. Researching Race and Ethnicity is essential reading for students and academics in the social sciences. Research Methods in Intercultural Communication Zhu Hua, 2016-01-19 Research Methods in Intercultural Communication introduces and contextualizes the most important methodological issues in the field for upper level undergraduate and graduate students. Examples of these issues are which paradigms and how to research multilingually interculturality and ethnically Provides the first dedicated and most comprehensive volume on research methods in intercultural communication research in the last 30 years Explains new and emerging methods as well as more established ones These include Matched Guise Technique Discourse Completion Task Critical Incident Technique Critical Discourse Analysis Ethnography Virtual Ethnography Corpus Analysis Multimodality Conversation Analysis Narrative Analysis Questionnaire and Interview Assists readers in determining the most suitable method for various research questions conceptualizing the research process interpreting results and drawing conclusions Supports students from start to finish with key terms suggestions for further reading research summaries and sound guidance from experienced scholars and researchers
