Residential Context Of Health:

Journal of Social Issues, The Residential Context of Health Terry A. Hartig, Roderick Lawrence, 2003-08-01

Psychological and social processes that connect health with housing come into focus in this collection of original papers. Eminent European and North American scholars provide conceptual and analytical tools useful for further enhancing our understanding of the relations among housing, residence, and health. Features articles by eminent European and North American scholars which investigate the psychological and social processes that connect health with housing. Explores how social ecological factors set the boundaries for the activities individuals engage in regarding their health and housing. Provides conceptual and analytical tools to further enhance understanding of the relationships between housing, residence, and health.

The SAGE Handbook of Housing Studies David F Clapham, William A V Clark, Kenneth Gibb, 2012-04-20. Cross disciplinary and critical in its approach. The SAGE Handbook of Housing Studies is an elucidating look at the key issues within the field. It covers the study of housing retrospectively but also analyses the future directions of research and theory, demonstrating how it can contribute to wider debates in the social sciences. A comprehensive introductory chapter is followed by four parts offering complete coverage of the area. Markets examines the perception of housing markets, how they function in different contexts, and the importance of housing behaviour and neighbourhoods. Approaches looks at how other disciplines, economics, geography, and sociology, have informed the direction of housing studies. Context traces the interactions between housing studies and other aspects of society, providing context to debate housing through issues of space, social welfare, and the environment. Policy is a multi-disciplinary and comprehensive take on the major policy issues and the causes and possible solutions of housing problems such as regeneration and homelessness. Edited by leading names in the field and including international contributions, the book is a stimulating, wide-ranging read that will be an invaluable resource for academics and researchers in geography, urban studies, sociology, social policy, economics, and politics.

International Encyclopedia of Housing and Home, 2012-10-09. Available online via SciVerse ScienceDirect or in print for a limited time only. The International Encyclopedia of Housing and Home, Seven Volume Set, is the first international reference work for housing scholars and professionals that uses studies in economics and finance, psychology, social policy, sociology, anthropology, geography, architecture, law, and other disciplines to create an international portrait of housing in all its facets, from meanings of home at the microscale to impacts on the macro economy. This comprehensive work is edited by distinguished housing expert Susan J Smith together with Marja Elsinga, Ong Seow Eng, Lorna Fox O'Mahony, and Susan Wachter, and a multi-disciplinary editorial team of 20 world-class scholars in all. Working at the cutting edge of their subject, liaising with an expert editorial advisory board, and engaging with policy makers and professionals, the editors have worked for almost five years to secure the quality, reach, relevance, and coherence of this work. A broad and inclusive table of contents signals or testifies to detailed investigation of historical and theoretical material as well as in depth analysis of current issues This seven volume set contains over 500 entries listed alphabetically but grouped into seven thematic sections including methods and approaches economics and finance environments home and homelessness institutions policy and welfare and well being Housing professionals both academics and practitioners will find The International Encyclopedia of Housing and Home useful for teaching discovery and research needs International in scope engaging with trends in every world region The editorial board and contributors are drawn from a wide constituency collating expertise from academics policy makers professionals and practitioners and from every key center for housing research Every entry stands alone on its merits and is accessed alphabetically yet each is fully cross referenced and attached to one of seven thematic categories whose wholes far exceed the sum of their parts Tackling Wicked Problems Through the Transdisciplinary Imagination Valerie A. Capturing Value in Digital Health Eco-Systems Felix Lena Stephanie,Ravi S.

Sharma,2021-11-10 The United Nations Sustainable Development Goals call for the establishment of Good Health and Well-being and target a universal digital healthcare ecosystem by 2030. However, existing technology infrastructure is ineffectual in achieving the envisioned target and requires massive reconfiguration to achieve its intended outcome. This book suggests a way forward with fair and efficient digital health networks that provide resource efficiencies and inclusive access to those who are currently underserved. Specifically, a fair and efficient digital health network that provides a common platform to its key stakeholders to facilitate sharing of information with a view to promote cooperation and maximise benefits. A promising platform for this critical application is cloud technology with its offer of computing as a utility and resource sharing. This is an area that has attracted much scholarly attention as it is well suited to foster such a network and bring together diverse players who would otherwise remain fragmented and be unable to reap the benefits that accrue from cooperation. The fundamental premise is that the notion of value in a digital health ecosystem is brought about by the sharing and exchange of digital information. However, notwithstanding the potential of information and communication technology to transform the healthcare industry for the better, there are several barriers to its adoption, the most significant one being misaligned incentives for some stakeholders. This book suggests, among other findings, that e-health in its true sense can become fair and efficient if and only if a regulatory body concerned assumes responsibility as the custodian of its citizens' health information so that collaboration for value will replace competition for revenue as the new axiom in delivering the public good of healthcare through digital networks.

Pandemic of Perspectives Rimple Mehta, Sandali Thakur, Debaroti

Chakraborty, 2022-11-30 This volume brings together academics, activists, social work practitioners, poets, and artists from different parts of the world during the Covid-19 pandemic. It sheds light on how the pandemic has exposed the inequities in society and is shaping social institutions, affecting human relationships, and creating new norms with each passing day. It examines how people from diverse societies and fields of work have come to conceptualise and imagine a new world order based on the principles of social and ecological justice, care, and human dignity. It prioritises the realm of imagination, creativity, and affect in understanding social formations and in shaping societies beyond the positivist approaches. Documenting the myriad experiences and responses to the pandemic, the volume foregrounds varied processes of making meaning, understanding, impulses, resistances, and coping mechanisms, and building solidarities. Further, it also acts as a tool of memory for future generations and articulations of artistic, political, socio-cultural, scientific, of hope and perseverance. This spectrum of expressions intends to value visceral experiences, build solidarities, and find solace in art. Its uniqueness lies in the way it brings together a much-needed interface between science, social sciences, and humanities. A compelling account on our contemporary lives, the volume will be of great interest to scholars of sociology and social anthropology, politics, art, and aesthetics, psychology, social work, literature, health, and medical sciences.
