The Restructuring of Hong Kong Industries and the Urbanization of Zhujiang Delta, 1979-1989 François Soulard, 1997

Hong Kong Stephen Chiu, Tai-Lok Lui, 2009-06-09 Hong Kong is a small city with a big reputation. As mainland China has become an economic powerhouse, Hong Kong has taken a route of development of its own, flourishing as an entrepot and a centre of commerce and finance for Chinese business, then as an industrial city and subsequently a regional and international financial centre. This volume examines the developmental history of Hong Kong, focusing on its rise to the status of a Chinese global city in the world economy. Chiu and Lui's analysis is distinct in its perspective of the development as an integrated process involving economic, political and social dimensions, and as such this insightful and original book will be a core text on Hong Kong society for students.

Hong Kong's History Tak-Wing Ngo, 2002-09-11 Rewriting Hong Kong's history from the bottom up, the chapters investigate vital but hitherto obscured aspects of the colony's rise. They cover the Chinese collaboration with the colonial regime, legal discrimination and intimidation, rural politics, social movements, government business relations, industrial policy, flexible manufacturing and colonial historiography. Drawing together contributions from historians, sociologists and political scientists, the book highlights the role played by a variety of social actors in Hong Kong's history and differs both from recent celebrations of British colonialism and anti-colonial Chinese nationalism.

A l'ombre de Hong Kong Thierry Sanjuan, 1997 L'arrière-pays de Hong Kong a connu une profonde transformation de son tissu économique de ses paysages et de ses équilibres régionaux depuis le début des formes chinoises. Sa dynamique locale, la proximité de Hong Kong et le soutien de Pékin dans les années 1980 lui ont permis de se développer plus rapidement que toutes les autres régions côtières. Dans l'orbite de Hong Kong, le delta de la Rivière des Perles est aujourd'hui devenu l'un des principaux pôles économiques de l'Asie orientale et il est appelé le cinquième dragon asiatique du siècle prochain. Différents types de développement économique et social apparaissent ici suivant les sous-ensembles deltaïques : une industrie rurale prépondérante dans les districts centraux, un fort rôle des joint-ventures dans les Zones Économiques Spéciales de Shenzhen et Zhuhai et un secteur privé grandissant. Cette évolution s'est également accompagnée d'une intense urbanisation avec une multiplication des bourgs et des activités non agricoles. Surtout, le développement a entraîné de nouveaux problèmes régionaux : afflux des migrants de l'intérieur des terres continentales, inégalités sociales et spatiales, gaspillage de l'espace et pollution, insuffisance de la production énergétique. growth since 1978 after the introduction of economic reforms and the open policy in China. Its subsequent development is in many ways closely related with that of Hong Kong. In fact, far-reaching economic integration has taken place between Hong Kong and the Zhujiang Delta. After China's entry to the WTO on December 11, 2001, such economic integration will be further strengthened. A world-class city region is being formed around the Hong Kong and Zhujiang Delta area. Pressing issues and concerns of effective resource management, governance and sustainability are emerging due to accelerated industrialization, urbanization, globalization and regional integration. They will affect the future development and prosperity of the region. The book is a collective effort by leading scholars from Hong Kong, Mainland China, USA and Germany and offers updated and in-depth analyses of economic integration, migration, urbanization, regional development, resource management and urban regional governance in the Hong Kong-Zhujiang Delta region in the context of development and transformation of Hong Kong and Mainland China.
