Managing Innovation in Japan Chihiro Watanabe, 2009-04-21 This book summarizes highlights of the investigation of An Elucidation of the Role of Institutional Systems in Characterizing Technology Development Trajectories A Global Comparative Analysis of Manufacturing Technology and Information Technology in the Enhancement of Business Practice supported by Grant in Aid for Scientific Research S by Japan's Ministry of Education Culture Sports Science and Technology Japan Society for Science Policy over the period 2002-2006 Background and objectives of the investigation are summarized as follows a Japan ranks far below the level of the USA with respect to the development and utilization of information technology IT in the information society that emerged in the 1990s b This can be attributed to a vicious cycle between Japan's non elastic institutions insufficient utilization of the potential benefits of IT and economic stagnation c The source of such a vicious cycle can be derived from the fundamental differences of the characterizing process of technology between manufacturing technology MT and IT during their diffusion processes This investigation attempted to elucidate this mechanism Noteworthy findings obtained include a MT has been developed largely by the supply side and its functionality is established during the stage of its supply to the market In contrast IT is strongly driven by the demand side and its functionality is created through diffusion in a self propagating way This contrast can be clearly observed in the dramatic advancement of Japan's mobile phone industry in the late 1990s      Managing Globalization David A. Kelly, Ramkishen S. Rajan, Gillian H. L. Goh, 2006 Difference Makers: Stories of Those Who Dared is a different sort of book. It features many big names from corporate titans to ministers to social entrepreneurs. But it is not just a compilation of feel-good success stories and minting millions. It is a celebration of the human spirit of daring drive and doggedness to make a difference. The endeavors within will make you tear, chortle, sigh, reflect and renew your faith that all things are possible. It is guaranteed to make a difference to your life.

Regional Innovation Systems Hans-Joachim Braczyk, Philip Cooke, Martin Heidenreich, 2003-09-02 Since 1995 there has been a worldwide innovation-led boom and subsequent slump meaning enormous change in regional economies. The new edition registers this change and provides an interesting test of the robustness of the original arguments.

Managing Globalization: Lessons From China And India Gillian Hui Lynn Goh, David Anthony Kelly, Ramkishen S. Rajan, 2006-10-30 The dynamics of a global economy is being reshaped by the economic emergence of two Asian giants, China and India. How the world's two most populous countries manage globalization as they pursue economic reform and liberalization will impact significantly their societies, the rest of Asia and the world. This book brings together articles by first-rate scholars of China and India to share and discuss their research findings in four areas: Challenges, Opportunities and Responses to Globalization; Social Security and Governance; National Security in the age of Globalization; and Ethnicity and Identity in the New World. The book includes an opening address by Singapore's Minister Mentor Lee Kuan Yew from his speech on Managing Globalization: Lessons from China and India delivered at the official opening of the Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy on 4 April 2005.

Principles of International Economic Law Matthias Herdegen, 2013-01-10 Principles of International Economic Law gives a comprehensive overview of the central topics in international economic law with an emphasis on the interplay between the different economic and political interests on both the international and domestic levels. The book sets the classic topics of international economic law: WTO law, investment protection, commercial law and monetary law in context with human rights, environmental protection, good governance and the needs of developing countries. It thus provides a concise picture of the current architecture of international economic law. Topics covered range from codes of conduct for multinational enterprises to the human rights implications of the exploitation of natural resources. The book demonstrates the economic foundations and economic implications of legal frameworks. It puts into profile the often complex relationship between, on the one hand, international standards on liberalization and economic rationality and, on the other, state sovereignty and national preferences. It describes the new forms of economic cooperation which have developed in recent decades, such as the growing number of transnational companies in the private sector and forms of cooperation between states such as the G8 or G20. Providing a perfect introductory text to the field of international economic law, the book thoroughly analyses legal developments within their wider political, economic or social context.

Warner,2013-09-13 This edited book in twelve chapters on covers a wide range of regional and national cultures as well as perspectives exploring how these might shape both theory and practice in the field of international human resource management Business Policy and Strategic Management G. V. Satya Sekhar,2013-12-30 The knowledge of business policy and techniques of strategic management is the need of the hour to prospective business managers The present competitive environment has brought several drastic changes in policy making and strategic management Hence there is necessity of theoretical understanding about the business policy as well as strategic management Most of the organizations have started adopting strategic management system This book focuses on conceptual approach to the subject as well as some select case studies which make a foundation to the knowledge of strategic management Entrepreneurship,

Technological Upgrading and Innovation Policy in Less Developed and Peripheral Regions Ivano Dileo,Manuel González-López,2019-01-01 This special issue of the journal tries to shed light on how innovation processes occur in less developed regions by examining which factors affect these processes and how they differ substantially between the less developed and the more developed areas in Europe There are significant differences in innovation capacity among the lagging peripheral and the more developed regions Recently the downgrading of traditional manufacturing and districts based models in Europe has also highlighted the importance of enhancing relationships between the global and local regional networks of entrepreneurs and innovators The transfer of resources alone is not enough to create competitive regional economies in aglobal world In this regard innovation policy may be crucial in designing new paths for development and increasing innovation in peripheral regions The issue consists of six articles All of the papers focus on analyzing various aspects of the less developed and peripheral areas within aEuropean context and look at innovation issues from different research perspectives and methods In particular four papers are related to innovation in SMEs and Smart Specialisation Strategy innovation and the regional allocation of coordination participation in projects across EU regions innovation policy and firm absorptive capacities and innovation linkages with path development in rural areas One article is based on the relationship between family firms and the propensity to invest in innovation comparing the more and less developed macro geographical areas The final paper concerns the nexus between policy planning and the local business ecosystems innovative and competitive competence The first paper by Lukasz Arendt and Wojciech Grabowski focuses on indirectly assessing the impact of innovation policies conducted in Polish NUTS 2 regions within the framework of Regional Innovation Systems and Smart Specialisation Strategy Interestingly the authors combine firm level data with meso data in a multilevel setting and observe that Polish SMEs in less developed regions mostly depend on in house capabilities rather than on regional innovative potential to introduce different types of innovations Another observation is that Polish SMEs are more likely to innovate if they have an RD department a higher quality of labor realized investments and they use ICT Finally regional policies in these less developed regions should focus more on linking firm level factors with regional innovation systems so as to enhance companies innovation capacity The article by Pedro Varela V zquez Manuel Gonz lez L pez and Mar a del Carmen S nchez Carreira presents a consistent descriptive analysis concerning the regional allocation of coordination and participation in projects under the 6th and 7th Framework Programmes FPs as well as the funds allocated by the ongoing Horizon 2020 By comparing the 6th and 7th FPs the authors show the existence of a slight reduction in the disparities in particular due to the higher participation of regions from Spain Portugal and Italy The results show some interesting insights as it emerges that developed regions account for most of the participation in projects and funds from the FP instruments Concerning less developed regions an uneven geographical distribution of projects and funds leads to the reinforcement of pre existing industrial and innovation hubs The third paper is by Marco Pini The author investigates whether in less developed regions family businesses run by outside managers show a higher propensity to innovate investing in Industry 4.0 than those where the managers are family members This research focuses on the impact of digital innovation between the less developed Italian regions Southern and the more developed regions the Centre North The results show that in Southern Italy family businesses are more likely to invest in digital technologies when the firm is run by an external manager and spends on RD However in less developed regions RD requires new competencies and capabilities Hence innovation policies should be based on specific innovation patterns defined within individual regions not only in terms of RD incentives but also in encouraging a policy mix approach that is not entirely based on RD and technology issues The fourth paper written by Agn Paliokait refers to the regional innovation paradox i.e. the low absorption capacity of public funds for innovation shown by less developed region The author has carried out an analysis of innovation policies applied to central and eastern European countries between 2007 and 2013 She finds that policies hardly promote structural changes as they mainly focus on improving the capacities of mature sectors and on adopting existing technologies In this sense the results suggest that a more tailored approach to innovation capacity building is needed taking into account the current capacity levels within the target groups The fifth paper by Merli Reidolf and Martin Graffenberger analyses the role of local resources for firm innovation and path development in rural areas Based on the case of Estonia they find that rural resources physical human immaterial social and community and financial have the potential to extend and upgrade regional development paths and to enrich existing paths with additional functions However merely relying on rural resources to facilitate substantial changes in regional paths does not suffice Finally the sixth paper which has been written by Charis Vlado and Dimos Chatzinikolaou analyses the case of business ecosystem policy from a physiological and evolutionary perspective the so called Strategy Technology and Management which represents the organic center of the produced innovation inside a socioeconomic organism By studying the case of the Eastern Macedonia and Thrace region one of the less developed regions in Greece they present an introductory and qualitative field research The authors outline a new possible direction for policy planning and implementation in order to expand the local business ecosystems innovative and competitive competence especially in the context of a less developed region by the usage of the ILDI Institutes of Local Development and Innovation mechanism We would sincerely like to thank the authors for their contributions to this special issue The articles offer us the opportunity to evaluate various facets underneath innovation issues within the context of different peripheral areas We also thank all the reviewers for their commitment and for contributing to improving the quality and reliability of the articles Finally our special thanks go to the Editor in Chief Prof Anna Ujwary Gil for her tireless and valuable effort in producing this journal And lastly we hope that all of our readers around the world find these articles an inspiration to conduct more research on these topics in the future

Enterprises, Industry and Innovation in the People's Republic of China Alberto Gabriele, 2020-04-06 This book analyses and critically evaluates the development of two key components of China's economy the network of productive enterprises and the national innovation system from the inception of market oriented reforms to the present day The approach is a partly novel one albeit inspired to classical political economy rooted in the structure and evolution of social relations of production and exchange and of the institutional setting in these two crucial domains The main findings are twofold First the role of planning and public ownership far from withering has been upheld and qualitatively enhanced especially throughout the most recent stages of industrial reforms Second enterprises are increasingly participating along with universities and research centers in a concerted and historically unparalleled effort to dramatically upgrade China's capacity to engage in indigenous innovation As a result China's National Innovation System has been growing and strengthening at a pace much faster than that of the national economy as a whole The book also presents a speculative and provisional perspective on the validity and meaning of the claim that the country's socioeconomic system is indeed a form of socialism with Chinese characteristics It will be of interest to students and scholars researching China politics and development economics

World Development Report 2022 World Bank, 2022-06-13 The COVID 19 pandemic triggered the largest global economic crisis in more than a century In 2020 economic activity contracted in 90 percent of countries the world economy shrank by about 3 percent and global poverty increased for the first time in a generation Governments responded rapidly with fiscal monetary and financial policies that alleviated the worst immediate economic impacts of the crisis Yet the world must still contend with the significant longer term financial and economic risks caused by or exacerbated by the pandemic and the government responses needed to mitigate its effects World Development Report 2022 Finance for an Equitable Recovery examines the central role of finance in the economic recovery from COVID 19 Based on an in depth look at the consequences of the crisis most likely to affect low and middle income economies it advocates a set of policies and measures to mitigate the interconnected economic risks stemming from the pandemic risks that may become more acute as stimulus measures are withdrawn at both the domestic and global levels Those policies include the efficient and transparent management of nonperforming loans to mitigate threats to financial stability insolvency reforms to allow for the orderly reduction of unsustainable debts innovations in risk management and lending models to ensure continued access to credit for households and businesses and improvements in sovereign debt management to preserve the ability of governments to support an equitable recovery
