Durbin,2012-12-06 Nearly everyone agrees that life has changed in our technological society whether the contrast is with earlier stages in Western culture or with non Western cultures Modernization is just one of various terms that have been applied to the process by which we have arrived at the peculiar lifestyle typical of our age whatever the term for the process almost all analysts agree in finding technology to be one of its key ingredients This is the judgment of critics of all sorts anthropologists historians literary figures sociologists theologians Volume 4 in the Philosophy and Technology series brings the perspectives of philosophers to bear on the issue of characterizing contemporary life mainly in high technology societies Some of the philosophers look at the issue directly Others focus on work life or on the living arrangements that surround or condition or offer refuge from work life in technological society Still others reflect on particular technologies especially biotechnology and computer technology that are increasingly affecting both work and family life There is also a paper on the nature of thinking in technological praxis along with two papers on whether it is appropriate to export this sort of thinking to Third World countries and another paper on the issue of responsibility in technology which would have fit better in volume 3 of the series entitled Technology and Responsibility 1987 Finally volume 4 closes with a broad ranging bibliography that takes work and technology as its focus Human Behavior and Environment Irwin Altman,Joachim F. Wohlwill,2013-11-11 This is the first in a series of volumes concerned with research encompassed by the rather broad term environment and behavior The goal of the series is to begin the process of integration of knowledge on environmental and behavioral topics so that researchers and professionals can have material from diverse sources accessible in a single publication The field of environment and behavior is broad and interdisciplinary with researchers drawn from a variety of traditional disciplines such as psychology sociology anthropology geography and other social and behavioral sciences and from the biological and life sciences of medicine psychiatry biology and ethology The interdisciplinary quality of the field is also reflected in the extensive involvement of environmental professionals from architecture urban planning landscape architecture interior design and other fields such as recreation and natural resources to name just a few At present the field has a somewhat chaotic flavor with research being carried out by a variety of scholars who publish in a multitude of outlets Many researchers and practitioners are unaware of the state of knowledge regarding a specific topic because of the unavailability of integrated reference materials There are only a handful of books dealing with environment and behavior most of them unintegrated collections of readings with only an occasional systematic analysis of some facet of the field
