Rethinking School Choice Jeffrey R. Henig, 1995-07-24 Advocates of school vouchers and other choice proposals couch their arguments in the fashionable language of economic theory Choice initiatives at all levels of government have succeeded it is claimed because they shift responsibility for education reform from government to market forces This timely book disputes the appropriateness of the market metaphor as a guide to education policy School Choice In The Real World

Evidence shows that the increasing privatization of K 12 education siphons resources away from public schools resulting in poorer learning conditions underpaid teachers and greater inequality But as Robert Asen reveals here the damage that market based education reform inflicts on society runs much deeper At their core these efforts are antidemocratic Arguing that democratic communities and public education need one another Asen examines the theory driving privatization popularized in the neoliberalism of Milton and Rose Friedman as well as the case for school choice promoted by former secretary of education Betsy DeVos and the controversial voucher program of former Wisconsin governor Scott Walker What Asen finds is that a market based approach holds not just a different view of distributing education but a different vision of society When the values of the market choice competition and self interest shape national education that policy produces individuals Asen contends with no connections to community and no obligations to one another The result is a society at odds with democracy Probing and thought provoking School Choice and the Betrayal of Democracy features interviews with local on the ground advocates for public education and offers a countering vision of democratic education one oriented toward civic relationships community and equality This book is essential reading for policymakers advocates of public education citizens and researchers School Choice Alan Wolfe,2009-02-09

School choice has lately risen to the top of the list of potential solutions to America s educational problems particularly for the poor and the most disadvantaged members of society Indeed in the last few years several states have held referendums on the use of vouchers in private and parochial schools and more recently the Supreme Court reviewed the constitutionality of a scholarship program that uses vouchers issued to parents While there has been much debate over the empirical and methodological aspects of school choice policies discussions related to the effects such policies may have on the nation s moral economy and civil society have been few and far between School Choice a collection of essays by leading philosophers historians legal scholars and theologians redresses this situation by addressing the moral and normative side of school choice The twelve essays commissioned for a conference on school choice that took place at Boston College in 2001 are organized into four sections that consider the relationship of school choice to equality moral pluralism institutional ecology and constitutionality Each section consists of three essays followed by a critical response The contributors are Patrick McKinley Brennan Charles L Glenn Amy Gutmann David Hollenbach S J Meira Levinson Sanford Levinson Stephen Macedo John T McGreevy Martha Minow Richard J Mouw Joseph O

School Choice and the Question of Accountability Emily Van Dunk, Anneliese M. Dickman, 2008-10-01 This timely book refocuses the debate about school choice programs with a nonpartisan assessment of the nation's largest and longest running private school voucher program the high profile Milwaukee experiment and finds that the system undercuts the promise of school choice The authors argue that the Milwaukee experiment has not resulted in the one element necessary for school choice to be effective an accountability system in which good schools thrive and poor schools close They show that most ingredients of a robust market are missing Well informed consumers parents are not the norm State fiscal incentives are counterproductive and competition among public and choice schools is difficult to discern They conclude that school choice could succeed if certain conditions were met and they offer guidelines to strengthen accountability and repair the voucher system

Policy Entrepreneurs and School Choice Michael Mintrom, 2000-04-26 Rapid and controversial the spread of school choice initiatives across the United States has radically changed political debate about public education In this book Michael Mintrom explores the complex world of open enrollment policies charter schools and voucher plans to reveal how and why school choice has become a major issue and he draws important conclusions about how innovative individuals can spur significant change in the policy arena Policy entrepreneurs individuals who take up a cause and make it part of the political agenda have largely remained background figures without clear definition in the policymaking literature This book is the first comprehensive and systematic treatment of the concept of policy entrepreneurship providing an important foundation for explaining how policy proposals are initiated considered and adopted Mintrom uses the emergence of school choice in state politics to examine how policy change originates He shows how policy entrepreneurs have been instrumental in placing school choice onto state legislative agendas despite the lack of compelling evidence about its merits and how they use social networks reframe policy issues and attempt to shift the sites of policy debate Blending innovative theory with both qualitative and quantitative investigation Mintrom explains how energetic individuals made school choice a real choice In doing so he changes our broader understanding of how policy is formed

Choosing Schools Mark Schneider, Paul Teske, Melissa Marschall, 2002-04-07 School choice seeks to create a competitive arena in which public schools will attain academic excellence encourage individual student performance and achieve social balance In debating the feasibility of this market approach to improving school systems analysts have focused primarily on schools as suppliers of education but an important question remains Will parents be able to function as smart consumers on behalf of their children Here a highly respected team of social scientists provides extensive empirical evidence on how parents currently do make these choices Drawn from four different types of school districts in New York City and suburban New Jersey their findings not only stress the importance of parental decision making and involvement to school performance but also clarify the issues of school choice in ways that bring much needed balance to the ongoing debate The authors analyze what parents value in education how much they know about schools how well they can match what they say they want in schools with what their children get how satisfied they are with their children's schools and how their involvement in the schools is affected by the opportunity to choose They discover most notably that low income parents value education as much as if not more than high income parents but do not have access to the same quality of school information This problem comes under sensitive thorough scrutiny as do a host of other important topics from school performance to segregation to children at risk of being left behind

New Schools for a New Century Diane Ravitch, Joseph P. Viteritti, 1997-01-01 As we cross the threshold of a new century which approaches are likely to improve public education In this book distinguished scholars discuss recent innovations charter schools contracting arrangements and choice designed to liberate educators from burdensome bureaucratic controls and improve the level of opportunity for all children Focusing on the problems in cities where far too many children have been denied access to quality institutions the authors examine the lessons to be learned from Catholic schools site based management private entrepreneurs and specific developments in three cities New York Milwaukee and Chicago The authors though realistic about the political and institutional obstacles that stand in the way of meaningful change foresee the demise of the one size fits all approach to schooling They envision a system of schools that is dynamic diverse performance based and accountable one that is supportive of professionals responsive to creativity intolerant of failure and committed to high educational standards for all children Contributors Louann Bierlein Anthony Bryk John Chubb Chester Finn Paul Hill Valerie Lee Paul Peterson Diane Ravitch Joseph P Viteritti Priscilla Wohlstetter
