Krämer's EU Environmental Law Ludwig Krämer, Christopher Badger, 2024-05-30 The new edition of this essential book details the present state of EU environmental law as it has developed over the last 50 years The author was personally involved in its making and enforcement having worked for more than 30 years in the environmental department of the European Commission The book therefore provides unique insights into this complex field The book discusses in detail governance and other horizontal issues such as competence questions the division of power between the EU and its Member States the individual right to a clean environment and the integration of environmental requirements into other EU policies such as energy transport agriculture fisheries trade and tourism New chapters elaborate on the relationship between UK and EU law after Brexit written by Christopher Badger and on the global effect of EU environmental law and policy Other chapters deal with climate change biodiversity water protection air and noise pollution products and waste Implementation of EU law in the Member States and the prominent role of the EU Court of Justice with its more than 1 100 environmental judgments are discussed as well as an overall assessment of EU law and policy in environmental matters and its perspectives to 2030 under the 8th EU environmental action programme At a time of globalisation the book is indispensable reading for students researchers and practising lawyers alike

Where the Waters Divide Michael Mascarenhas, 2012-07-13 This timely and important scholarship advances an empirical understanding of Canada's contemporary Indian problem Where the Waters Divide is one of the few book monographs that analyze how contemporary neoliberal reforms in the manner of deregulation austerity measures common sense policies privatization etc are woven through and shape contemporary racial inequality in Canadian society Using recent controversies in drinking water contamination and solid waste and sewage pollution Where the Waters Divide illustrates in concrete ways how cherished notions of liberalism and common sense reform neoliberalism also constitute a particular form of racial oppression and white privilege Where the Waters Divide brings together theories and concepts from four disciplines sociology geography Aboriginal studies and environmental studies to build critical insights into the race relational aspects of neoliberal reform In particular the book argues that neoliberalism represents a key moment in time for the racial formation in Canada one that functions not through overt forms of state sanctioned racism as in the past but via the morality of the marketplace and the primacy of individual solutions to modern environmental and social problems Furthermore Mascarenhas argues because most Canadians are not aware of this pattern of laissez faire racism and because racism continues to be associated with intentional and hostile acts Canadians can dissociate themselves from this form of economic racism all the while ignoring their investment in white privilege Where the Waters Divide stands at a provocative crossroads. Disciplinarily it is where the social construction of water, an emerging theme within Cultural Studies and Environmental Sociology, meets the social construction of expertise, one of the most contentious areas within the social sciences. It is also where the political economy of natural resources, an emerging theme in Development and Globalization Studies, meets the Politics of Race Relations, an often understudied area within Environmental Studies. Conceptually the book stands where the racial formation associated with natural resources reform is made and remade and where the dominant form of white privilege is contrasted with anti-neoliberal social movements in Canada and across the globe.

OECD Environmental Performance Reviews: Australia 2007 OECD, 2008-03-19. OECD's periodical review of Australia's environmental policies and programmes. This edition reviews progress since the last review in 1998 and in relation to the 2001 OECD Environmental Strategy. Global Approaches to Site Contamination Law Elizabeth Brandon, 2012-11-13. The book describes the complex and variable laws addressing site contamination, reviewing existing international, regional, and national law of relevance to site contamination. It also offers detailed case studies of national approaches to the issue and goes on to explore avenues for promoting the development of comprehensive domestic laws on site contamination with a focus on the role of international law and actors. A detailed discussion analyzes such variations as a binding international legal instrument, a non-binding instrument, and a model framework for site contamination management. The text includes recommendations regarding the key elements needed for regulating site contamination at the national level. The author also offers an appropriate and feasible timetable for international action to promote better national law and policy regarding contaminated sites.

Environmental Law in Serbia Vid Vukasović, Dragoljub Todić, 2017-06-20. Derived from the renowned multi-volume International Encyclopaedia of Laws, this book provides ready access to legislation and practice concerning the environment in Serbia. A general introduction covers geographic considerations, political, social, and cultural aspects of environmental study, the sources and principles of environmental law, environmental legislation, and the role of public authorities. The main body of the book deals first with laws aimed directly at protecting the environment from pollution in specific areas such as air, water, waste, soil, noise, and radiation. Then a section on nature and conservation management covers protection of natural and cultural resources such as monuments, landscapes, parks, and reserves, wildlife, agriculture, forests, fish, subsoil, and minerals. Further treatment includes the application of zoning and land use planning rules on liability and administrative and judicial remedies to environmental issues. There is also an analysis of the impact of international and regional legislation and treaties on environmental regulation. Its succinct yet scholarly nature, as well as the practical quality of the information it provides, make this book a valuable resource for environmental lawyers handling cases affecting Serbia. Academics and researchers, as well as business investors and the various international organizations in the field, will welcome this very useful guide and will appreciate its value in the study of comparative environmental law and policy.
