Paul E H Davis and the Irish Land Question In his challenging new book Paul E H Davis offers an entirely new critique of how novelists in nineteenth century Ireland had to act both as writers and historians in their attempts to find a solution to what became the Irish Land Question Challenging the widely held nationalist view that Irish novelists of this period had little or nothing to offer Davis slots these castaway novelists into a new identifiable category the agrarian novelists The book is divided into three parts Part One considers novelists writing between the Union and the Famine Maria Edgeworth Gerald Griffin John and Michael Banim and William Carleton Part Two looks at how the agrarian novel emigrates with reference to the novels of Charles Kickham and to the Irish novels of Anthony Trollope Part Three considers how some agrarian novelists specifically Thomas Moore and Bram Stoker felt the solution lay not in the real world but in the world of fantasy An exceptional book on why the agrarian novelists deserve to be valued for their unique perception of Ireland in the nineteenth century Misery and Ecstasy Murphy Wallace,2024-11-26 I m broken Haunted by trauma from my past that defines every moment of my present She s the lifeline tugging me free from an endless abyss I m content to drown in With every protest I wage she digs deeper into my frigid soul chipping away at the thick layer of ice surrounding it until every piece of me is laid bare She fights with everything she has to make me whole again And I surrender my entire existence to her Now she s mine Mine to love Mine to please Mine to protect But despite my connections and experience there are some threats even I can t protect her from Because not every villain is human And not every war can be won Sex and the intelligent women Manfred F.
