Sexuality and Aging Jennifer Hillman, 2012-03-27 Despite continuing ageist beliefs that sexuality is a privilege designed only for the young and physically healthy research continues to indicate that the majority of older adults maintain interest in sexuality and may engage in fulfilling sexual behavior well into their last decade of life Unfortunately many professionals remain unaware of general knowledge of elderly sexuality including the expected and normal physiological changes that can occur within the context of both male and female aging The presence of chronic illness and other medical problems certainly can influence the expression of an aging adult s sexuality and emergent research suggests that there are effective ways to cope with menopause heart disease arthritis incontinence diabetes sleep disorders breast cancer prostate cancer and erectile dysfunction ED among others Dramatic changes have taken place within the last decade alone in terms of non surgical treatment for incontinence and ED with forms of sex therapy biofeedback and PDE 5 inhibitors Regrettably many aging adults and their care providers remain unaware of their increased risk factors for STDs including HIV infection via lack of knowledge changes in the vaginal lining and typical declines in immune function Estimates suggest that by the year 2020 more than half of all individuals living with HIV will be over the age of 50 Although some high quality professional books are available for clinicians they tend to be disjointed research bibliographies edited volumes on a narrowly focused aspect of elderly sexuality or texts that are more than 10 years old With the extent of new information available regarding sexuality and aging an up to date empirically based text is necessary

Clinical Perspectives on Elderly Sexuality Jennifer L. Hillman, 2013-03-14 Throughout my clinical training and practice I have been surprised by the number of times that sexual issues have emerged as an unexpectedly central feature in my work with older adults I can vividly remember my own internal reaction on hearing one of my elderly female patients tell me that she was date raped a few years after the death of her elderly husband when she was 68 years old I can see in my mind's eye the blood splattered on the floor of an inpatient unit from an elderly man who smashed his arm through a window furious that his antidepressant medication made it impossible to climax through masturbation On a much less dramatic but equally important note I think about the elderly amputee who told me softly about his fears of resuming sexual activity with his wife of 25 years I also think about the elderly woman whose inability to take herself shopping to find fashionable comfortable clothes to fit over her hunched shoulders and large breasts helped precipitate a serious depression In sum I learned early on that elderly sexuality is not just about how many times a week someone makes love It is my hope that sharing these experiences and introducing the related theories research and interventions will assist other clinicians in dealing with these often challenging and clinically demanding situations Without my patients this text would not have been possible
