society is structured From the dominant neoliberal perspective social problems arise from individuals making poor choices From a critical perspective however these social troubles are caused by structural social inequalities Disparities in economic social and political power that is relations of power based on class race gender and sexual orientation are the central structural element of capitalist patriarchal colonialist societies The contributors to Power and Resistance use this critical perspective to explore Canadian social issues such as poverty colonialism homophobia violence against women climate change and so on This sixth edition adds chapters on the corporatization of higher education the lethal impacts of colonialism democracy the social determinants of health drug policy and sexual violence on campus

Women and Urban Crimes Doel Mukherjee, 2005 The book deals with the magnitude of crimes against women in the developed and the developing World context Through two empirical case studies the spatial context of crime has been explained especially how social economic parameters and the environment can play a role to promote crime and disorder in a city Crime remedy is through good legislation NGO s working on women s issues the government while making policies and the media need to find ways to strengthen legislation to protect the vulnerable women

Violence and the Female Imagination Paula Ruth Gilbert, 2006-03-31 In the past twenty years Quebec women writers including Aline Chamberland Claire D Suzanne Jacob and H l ne Rioux have created female characters who are fascinated with bold sexual actions and language cruelty and violence at times culminating in infanticide and serial killing Paula Ruth Gilbert argues that these Quebec feminist writers are re framing gender Violence and the Female Imagination explores whether these imagined women are striking out at an external other or harming themselves through acts of self destruction and depression Gilbert examines the degree to which women are imitating men in the outward direction of their anger and hostility and suggests that such tough women may be mocking men in their macho exploits of sexuality and violence She illustrates the ways in which Quebec female authors are feminizing violence or re envisioning gender in North American culture Gilbert bridges methodological gaps and integrates history sociology literary theory feminist theory and other disciplinary approaches to provide a framework for the discussion of important ethical and aesthetic questions

The Montreal Massacre Peter Eglin, Stephen Hester, 2006-01-01 The Montreal Massacre A Story of Membership Categorization Analysis adopts an ethnomethodological viewpoint to analyze how the murder of women by a lone gunman at the Ecole Polytechnique in Montreal was presented to the public via media publication over a two week period in 1989 All that the public came to know and understand of the murders the murderer and the victims was constituted in the description and commentaries produced by the media What the murders became therefore was an expression of the methods used to describe and evaluate them and central to these methods was membership category analysis the human practice of perceiving people places and events as members of categories and to use these to explain actions This is evident in the various versions comprising the overall story of the Massacre it was a crime it was a tragedy it was a horror story The killer s story is also based on his own categorial analysis he said his victims were feminists The media commentators formulated the significance of the murders in categorical terms it implicated a wider problem that of violence against women and thus the reasons for the murders were shown to be categorical matters As a contribution to sociology and as a demonstration of the significance of ethnomethodology for understanding social life the book reveals the methodical and particularly categorical character of how sense is made of events such as this and how such methodical and categorical resources are central to human interaction Understanding Societies Gillian

Discrimination and Denial Clayton James Mosher, 1998-01-01 Champion sprinter Donovan Bailey said it and this book confirms it While racism may not be as blatant in Canada as in the United States it does exist Members of visible minority groups are discriminated against in employment housing and access to public services The increasing visibility of hate groups and calls to restrict immigration mark the growing tension Racist attitudes against Asians and Blacks in particular have seeped into the criminal justice system Ironically since 1960 it has been illegal in Ontario to track crime by race making it difficult for researchers to collect data The media our primary source of information has sensationalized crimes where minority groups are implicated Clayton Mosher uses historical data and media reports to expose racism in Canada's social legal and criminal justice systems He considers the social contexts of discrimination legislation directed against minority groups law enforcement and court outcomes At last we are offered an objective assessment of racism in Canada Discrimination and Denial is essential reading for judges lawyers police officers social policy makers and community leaders Interpretations of recent events such as the shooting of officer Todd Baylis by a fugitive alien and gang style slayings in Toronto's Chinatown are guaranteed to heat up the embers of public debate
