The Shadow of the Past F. E. Mills Young, 2019-12-13 F E Mills Young's The Shadow of the Past is a profound exploration of memory and identity intricately weaving together themes of nostalgia, trauma, and the intricate dance between personal history and collective memory. Employing a rich lyrical style characteristic of early 20th-century narrative prose, Young utilizes a tapestry of flashbacks and internal monologue to delve into the psyche of his characters. The work is steeped in the literary context of modernism, reflecting the era's preoccupation with the fragmented nature of human experience and resonating with the existential inquiries posed by contemporaneous authors regarding the passage of time and its indelible effect on the human spirit. F E Mills Young, a keen observer of social dynamics and the complexities of human relationships, draws from his own experiences growing up in a rapidly changing society. His literary pursuits were largely influenced by his background in psychology and literature, offering a unique lens through which he examines the interplay of individual struggle against broader societal shifts. This personal connection imbues the narrative with authenticity, enhancing its emotional resonance and depth. Readers seeking a contemplative journey into the intricacies of memory and the elements that shape our identities will find The Shadow of the Past a compelling addition to their literary repertoire. Young's masterful storytelling invites readers to reflect on their own pasts, urging them to confront the shadows that shape their present and future.

A Shadow in the Past Melanie Robertson-King, 2018-11-12 When a contemporary teen is transported back in time to the Victorian era, she becomes A Shadow in the Past. Nineteen-year-old Sarah Shand finds herself in Victorian-era Aberdeenshire, Scotland, and has no idea how she got there. Her last memory is of being at the stone circle on the family farm in the year 2010. Despite having difficulty coming to terms with her situation, Sarah quickly learns she must keep her true identity a secret. Still, she feels stifled by the Victorians' confining social practices, including arranged marriages between wealthy and influential families, and confronts them head-on to suffer the consequences. When Sarah realizes she has fallen in love with the handsome Laird of Weetshill, she faces an agonizing decision: Does she try to find her way back to 2010 or remain in the past with the man she loves?

De Smet South Dakota 1890 Young women growing up in DeSmet live by two rules: don't go out in a snowstorm and don't give your heart to Cap Garland Young. Mariah Patterson only managed to obey one. Orphaned and having devoted her youth to scrapping out a life with her brother Charles, Mariah finds herself with no interesting suitors or means of support. Throwing caution to the wind, she seizes an opportunity to lay her feelings at Cap's feet, even though she knows Cap sees the world through the torch he carries for Laura Ingalls. Mariah is certain her love for Cap will be strong enough to break both bonds, and she's willing to risk everything to prove it.
