Abuzar Khairi

Introduction:

After the invasion of Chingiz Khan in Central Asian region and Khorasan area, many scholars, Sufi saints, Udaba, Ulema and other migrated towards South Asian region. Within the South Asian region, Kashmir is a part of northern India, which is very close to the some part of the Turkestan region. Till 14th century, Kashmir was originally a land occupied by the Brahmins. Syed Ali Hamadani gave special attention towards the people of the Kashmir. He was well aware about the country's social condition, economic situation and religious affairs before coming to Kashmir. He arrived there as a reformer with a team of seven hundred experts in various fields of activity. Among them were artisans and craftsmen who introduced people to the arts like carpet-weaving and paper machine that helped their economic condition.

His message of equality and respect for human life liberated men and women from the control of priests and from tyrannous practices like sati. His influence spread far and wide on account of his deep scholarship and spiritual attainments and even more because of his simultaneous attention to spiritual enlightenment and material well-being of people. Today he is remembered as Amir-e- Kabir (the great commander), Shah-e- Hamadan (king of Hamadan) and the Ali Sani. On the occasion of his 700th anniversary, Tajikistan has taken initiative to celebrate the anniversary of Mir Syed Ali Hamadani, a great sufi saint and scholar as well as social reformer. Several places, he was quoted by great philosopher and poet Allama Iqbal for his works on spirituality and Sufism.

He traced his patrimony through his father, Syed Shihabuddin, to Imam Zain-ul-Abedein and finally to Hazrat Ali. The family tree of his mother, Syeda Fatimah, with seventeen links, reached Muhammad. Since his childhood, he proved his genius. He was an expert of Arabic and Persian languages, and his writings are found in these scripts. At a very young age he memorized the whole part of Holy Quran. When he was only twelve years old his maternal uncle, Hazrat Alauddin Simnani introduced him to sheikh Muzdaqani, a renowned saint of the time, who, after teaching him to elementary principles of Sufism. Muzdaqani trained him through the severe tests and thus removed pride and haughtiness from him and inculcated in him virtues of humility.

After the death of Alauddin Simnani, he came to complete his further knowledge and to improve scholarship under the great sheikh Muzdaqani till his completion of education. Like most of his predecessors, Saiyid Mir Ali Hamadani travelled very extensively. His Kashmir journey was established a remarkable chapter in the life the local inhabitants. He opened a
