representation of the new woman in Communist Chinese fiction of the earlier twentieth century was paradoxically one of the ways in which male writers of the era explored negotiated and laid claim to their own emerging identity as modern intellectuals Specifically Feng argues that male writers such as Lu Xun Yu Dafu Ba Jin and Mao Dun created fictional women as mirror images of their own political inadequacy but that at the same time this was also an egocentric ploy to affirm and highlight the modernity of the male author This gender biased attitude was translated into reality when women writers emerged Whereas unfair gender biased criticism all but stifled the creative output of Bing Xin Fang Yuanjun and Lu Yin Ding Ling s dogged attention to narrative strategy allowed her to maintain subjectivity and independence in her writings that is until all writers were forced to write for the collective Feng addresses both the general and the specialized audience of fiction in early twentieth century Chinese fiction in three ways for scholars of the May Fourth period Feng redresses the emphasis on the simplistic gender neutral representation of the new women by re reading selected texts in the light of marginalized discourse and by an analysis of the evolving strategies of narrative deployment for those working in the area of feminism and literary studies Feng develops a new method of studying the representation of Chinese women through an interrogation of narrative permutations ideological discourses and gender relationships and for studies of modernity and modernization the author presents a more complex picture of the relationships of modern Chinese intellectuals to their cultural past and of women writers to a literary tradition dominated by men

Time, Space, and Gender in the Nineteenth-Century British Diary R. Steinitz, 2011-10-24 Through close examinations of diaries diary publication and diaries in fiction this book explores how the diary s construction of time and space made it an invaluable and effective vehicle for the dominant discourses of the period it also explains how the genre evolved into the feminine emotive private form we continue to privilege today

Lyrics Sting, 2009-07-16 From the first Police album Outlandos D Amour through Sacred Love here are the collected lyrics written by Sting along with his commentary Publishing my lyrics separately from their musical accompaniment is something that I ve studiously avoided until now The two lyrics and music have always been mutually dependent in much the same way as a mannequin and a set of clothes are dependent on each other separate them and what remains is a naked dummy and a pile of cloth Nevertheless the exercise has been an interesting one seeing perhaps for the first time how successfully the lyrics survive on their own and inviting the question as to whether song lyrics are in fact poetry or something else entirely And while I ve never seriously described myself as a poet the book in your hands devoid as it is of any musical notation looks suspiciously like a book of poems So it seems I am entering with some trepidation the unadorned realm of the poet I have set out my compositions in the sequence they were written and provided a little background when I thought it might be illuminating My wares have neither been sorted nor dressed in clothes that do not belong to them indeed they have been shorn of the very garments that gave them their shape in the first place No doubt some of them will perish in the cold cruelty of this new environment and yet others may prove more resilient and become perhaps more beautiful in their naked state I can't predict the outcome but I have taken this risk knowingly and while no one in their right mind should ever attempt to set The Waste Land to music in the hopeful words of T S Eliot These fragments I have shored against my ruins Sting from the Introduction
