New Life For The College Curriculum:

New Life for the College Curriculum Jerry G. Gaff, 1991-11-06 Gaff's central thesis that curricular change is a necessary but not sufficient condition for lasting general education reform should be tacked on the door of every faculty committee that ever set out to improve undergraduate education Russell Edgerton President American Association for Higher Education

New Life for Historically Black Colleges and Universities Vann R. Newkirk, 2014-01-10 In December 2008 Georgia state senator Seth Harp ignited controversy when he proposed merging two historically Black colleges with nearby predominantly white colleges to save money Less than a year later Mississippi governor Haley Barbour sought to unite Mississippi's three predominantly Black colleges These efforts kindled renewed interest in historically Black colleges and universities HBCUs across the nation and the globe In this study HBCU officials and faculty attempt to identify the challenges that HBCUs face explore the historic origin of HBCU management systems and identify models of success that will improve the long term viability of the HBCU By analyzing HBCUs within a larger framework of American higher education and the cultural context in which HBCUs operate these essays introduce a new paradigm in the quest to ensure that HBCUs continue to play an important role in the education of Americans of all races

From New Mills to New Life Joshua Spencer, 2009-10-28 In this scintillating heart wrenching and tear eliciting autobiography From New Mills to New Life Joshua Spencer shares his extraordinary experiences from birth to his fiftieth year It starts in Albion Montego Bay where the author was born but where he spent the least of his life of half of a century It then extends to several other areas of his native land but finds as its pivot a small impoverished district known as New Mills where he spent much time in a little shamble he called home with his grandmother A home that lacked the basic facilities and necessities such as electricity and water From New Mills to New Life radiates back and forth to its pivot but in an orderly sequential fashion until it culminates in Canada It exposes all the challenges and successes that the author experiences in both jurisdictions including family challenges being on the verge of bankruptcy and so on It describes quite liberally his weaknesses and his strengths those challenges he conquers and those he approaches optimistically in the future You will cry intermittently laugh regularly and even get deeply saddened sporadically as you share in this masterpiece From New Mills to New Life

Reconstructing Undergraduate Education Robert B. Innes, 2004-07-22 This book is designed to introduce professors and administrators in higher education to the philosophical theoretical and research support for using a constructivist perspective on learning to guide the reconstruction of undergraduate education It presents an original framework for systematically linking educational philosophy and learning theories to their implications for teaching practice In this volume Innes summarizes the sources he found most useful in developing his own set of teaching principles and course development process and makes an argument for a particular perspective on learning transactional constructivism which is consistent with the philosophy of John Dewey and supported by current theory and research in learning science Transactional constructivism a combined approach builds on the strengths of two competing views psychological constructivism and the sociocultural perspective Reconstructing Undergraduate Education Using Learning Science to Design Effective Courses overviews the philosophical and theoretical underpinnings of the teaching model that is the focus of the volume presents a summary of Dewey's educational philosophy and connects his work to current theory and research in learning science examines psychological constructivism one of the basic positions within the range of learning theories that takes a constructivist perspective offers a case study example of a course designed and taught from this perspective reviews the sociocultural and the transactional constructivist perspectives explores the quality of dialogue and disciplinary discourse in the classroom an issue that is critical to the success of models derived from a transactional constructivist perspective on learning and explores broader issues related to reform in higher education This volume is a vital resource for all professionals involved in undergraduate education The Education Gospel W. Norton Grubb, Marvin Lazerson, 2009-07-01 In this hard hitting history of the gospel of education W Norton Grubb and Marvin Lazerson reveal the allure and the fallacy of the longstanding American faith that more schooling for more people is the remedy for all our social and economic problems and that the central purpose of education is workplace preparation Resources in Education ,1998

Classifying Science Rick Szostak, 2007-11-03 Classification is the essential first step in science The study of science as well as the practice of science will thus benefit from a detailed classification of different types of science In this book science defined broadly to include the social sciences and humanities is first unpacked into its constituent elements the phenomena studied the data used the theories employed the methods applied and the practices of scientists These five elements are then classified in turn Notably the classifications of both theory types and methods allow the key strengths and weaknesses of different theories and methods to be readily discerned and compared Connections across classifications are explored should certain theories or phenomena be investigated only with certain methods What is the proper function and form of scientific paradigms Are there certain common errors and biases in scientific practice associated with particular phenomena data theories or methods The classifications point to several ways of improving both specialized and interdisciplinary research and teaching and especially of enhancing communication across communities of scholars The classifications also support a superior system of document classification that would allow searches by theory and method used as well as causal links investigated A Cyclopedia of Education Paul Monroe, 1911 The Integration of the Humanities and Arts with Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine in Higher Education National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Policy and Global Affairs, Board on Higher Education and Workforce, Committee on Integrating Higher Education in the Arts, Humanities, Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, 2018-06-21 In the United States broad study in an array of different disciplines arts humanities science mathematics engineering as well as an in depth study within a special area of interest have been defining characteristics of a higher education But over time in depth study in a major discipline has come to dominate the curricula at many institutions This evolution of the curriculum has been driven in part by increasing specialization in the academic disciplines There is little doubt that disciplinary specialization has helped produce many of the achievement of the past century Researchers in all academic disciplines have been able to delve more deeply into their areas of expertise grappling with ever more specialized and fundamental problems Yet today many leaders scholars parents and students are asking whether higher education has moved too far from its integrative tradition towards an approach heavily rooted in disciplinary silos These silos represent what many see as an artificial separation of academic disciplines This study reflects a growing concern that the approach to higher education that favors disciplinary specialization is poorly calibrated to the challenges and opportunities of our time The Integration of the Humanities and Arts with Sciences Engineering and Medicine in Higher Education examines the evidence behind the assertion that educational programs that mutually integrate learning experiences in the humanities and arts with science technology engineering mathematics and medicine STEMM lead to improved educational and career outcomes for undergraduate and graduate students It explores evidence regarding the value of integrating more STEMM curricula and labs into the academic programs of students majoring in the humanities and arts and evidence regarding the value of integrating curricula and experiences in the arts and humanities into college and university STEMM education programs The Chautauqua Movement John Heyl Vincent, 1886 The New England Magazine, 1898 Presidential Lecture Series on Academic Values, 1993 The Champions of Change , Creating Interdisciplinary Campus Cultures Julie Thompson Klein, 2009-12-09 Praise for Creating Interdisciplinary Campus Cultures Klein s analysis shows convincingly that from research in the sciences to new graduate level programs and departments to new designs for general education interdisciplinarity is now prevalent throughout American colleges and universities Klein documents trends traces historical patterns and precedents and provides practical advice Going directly to the heart of our institutional realities she focuses attention on some of the more challenging aspects of bringing together ambitious goals for interdisciplinary vitality with institutional budgetary and governance systems A singular strength of this book then is the practical advice it provides about such nitty gritty issues as program review faculty development tenure and promotion hiring and the political economy of interdisciplinarity We know that readers everywhere will find this book simultaneously richly illuminating and intensively useful from the foreword by Carol Geary Schneider president Association of American Colleges and Universities Klein reveals how universities can move beyond glib rhetoric about being interdisciplinary toward pervasive full interdisciplinarity Institutions that heed her call for restructured intellectual environments are most likely to thrive in the new millennium William H Newell professor Interdisciplinary Studies Miami University and executive director Association for Integrative Studies In true interdisciplinary fashion Julie Klein integrates a tremendous amount of material into this book to tell the story of interdisciplinarity across the sciences social sciences and humanities And she does so both from the theoretical perspective of understanding interdisciplinarity and from the practical vantage of doing interdisciplinarity This book is a must read for faculty and administrators thinking about how to maximize the opportunities and minimize the challenges of interdisciplinary programming on their campuses Diana Rhoten director Knowledge Institutions Program and director Digital Media and Learning Project Social Science Research Counsel
