Quiet Days In Burgundy:

The House of Commons Emma Crewe, 2020-05-31 The House of Commons is one of Britain's mysterious institutions constantly in the news yet always opaque In this ground breaking anthropological study of the world's most famous parliament Emma Crewe reveals the hidden mechanisms of parliamentary democracy Examining the work of Members of Parliament including neglected areas such as constituencies and committees this book provides unique insights into the actual lives and working relationships of parliamentarians Why do the public loathe politicians but often love their own MP the author asks The antagonistic facade of politics irritates the public who tend to be unaware that backstage democracy relies on MPs consulting compromising and cooperating across political parties far more than is publicly admitted As the book shows this is only one of myriad contradictions in the labyrinths of power Based on unprecedented access and two years of interviews and research in the Palace of Westminster and MPs constituencies The House of Commons An Anthropology of MPs at Work challenges the existing scholarship on political institutions and party politics Moving beyond the narrow confines of rational choice theory and new institutionalism Emma Crewe presents a radical alternative to the study of British politics by demonstrating that all of its processes hinge on culture ritual and social relations A must read for anyone interested in political anthropology politics or the Westminster model

The Oxford Handbook of Political Leadership

R. A. W. Rhodes, Paul 't Hart, 2014-05-29 Political leadership has made a comeback It was studied intensively not only by political scientists but also by political sociologists and psychologists Sovietologists political anthropologists and by scholars in comparative and development studies from the 1940s to the 1970s Thereafter the field lost its way with the rise of structuralism neo institutionalism and rational choice approaches to the study of politics government and governance Recently however students of politics have returned to studying the role of individual leaders and the exercise of leadership to explain political outcomes The list of topics is nigh endless elections conflict management public policy government popularity development governance networks and regional integration In the media age leaders are presented and stage managed spun DDLas the solution to almost every social problem Through the mass media and the Internet citizens and professional observers follow the rise impact and fall of senior political officeholders at closer quarters than ever before This Handbook encapsulates the resurgence by asking where are we today It orders the multidisciplinary field by identifying the distinct and distinctive contributions of the disciplines It meets the urgent need to take stock It brings together scholars from around the world encouraging a comparative perspective to provide a comprehensive coverage of all the major disciplines methods and regions It showcases both the normative and empirical traditions in political leadership studies and juxtaposes behavioural institutional and interpretive approaches It covers formal office based as well as informal emergent political leadership and in both democratic and undemocratic polities

Bourgeois Politics in France, 1945-1951

Richard Vinen, 2002-07-11 This 1995 book is a general study of politics and society in the Fourth Republic and is founded on extensive primary research It approaches the period in terms of successful conservatism rather than thwarted reform maintaining that conservatism in France was a more subtle dynamic force than has previously been appreciated Not the preserve of any one single party conservative ideas were often defended by institutions outside the realm of explicit politics altogether such as business associations civil service departments and the law courts It is proposed that conservatives did not simply return to French politics in 1945 untouched by the events of the previous five years The experiences of Vichy the occupation and the purges produced new kinds of political synthesis making conservatives more dynamic and receptive to change than their progressive opponents

The Little Czech and the Great Czech Nation Ladislav Holy,1996-08-28 When Ladislav Holy precipitately left Czechoslovakia for the UK in 1968 he was already one of the leading anthropologists in Central Europe In the following decades he made important field studies in Africa Since 1986 he has been engaged in research in the Czech Republic and he brings to this timely study of national identity the skills of a seasoned researcher a cosmopolitan perspective and the insights of an insider Drawing on historical and literary sources as well as ethnography he analyses Czech discourses on national identity He argues that there were specifically Czech aspects to the communist regime and to the velvet revolution and paying particular attention to symbolic representations of what it means to be Czech he explores how notions of Czech identity were involved in the debates surrounding the fall of communism and the emergence of a new social system

Anthropology in the City Dr Giuliana B Prato,Dr Italo Pardo,2012-09-01 With half of humanity already living in towns and cities and that proportion expected to increase in the coming decades society both Western and non Western is fast becoming urban and even mega urban As such research in urban settings is evidently timely and of great importance Anthropology in the City brings together a leading team of anthropologists to address the complex methodological and theoretical challenges posed by field research in urban settings clearly identifying the significance of the anthropological paradigm in urban research and its centrality both to mainstream academic debates and to society more broadly With essays from experts on wide ranging ethnographic research from fields as diverse as China Europe India Latin and North America and South East Asia this book demonstrates the contribution that empirically based anthropological analysis can make to our understanding of our increasingly urban world The Oxford Handbook of Politics and Performance Shirin M. Rai, Milija Gluhovic, Silvija Jestrovic, Michael Saward, 2021-02-19 Political scientists and political theorists have long been interested in social and political performance. Theatre and performance researchers have often focused on the political dimensions of the live arts. Yet the interdisciplinary nature of this labor has typically been assumed rather than rigorously explored. Further, it is crucial to bring the concepts of theatre and performance deployed by other disciplines such as psychology, law, political anthropology, sociology, among others into a wider as well as deeper interdisciplinary engagement. Embodying and fostering that engagement is at the heart of this new handbook. The Handbook brings together leading scholars in the fields of Politics and Performance to map out the evolving interdisciplinary engagement. The authors, drawn from a wide range of disciplines, investigate the relationship between politics and performance to show that certain features of political transactions shared by performances are fundamental to both disciplines and that they also share to a large extent a common communicational base and language. The volume is organized into seven thematic sections: the interdisciplinary theory of politics and performance; performativity and theatricality; protest; regulation; resistance; change; authority; identities; race; gender; sexuality; class; citizenship; indigeneity; sites; states; borders; markets; law; religion; scripts; accountability; authority and legitimacy; security; ceremony; sustainability; body; voice and gesture; representation; leadership; participation; rhetoric; disruption and affect; media; care; love; empathy; comedy; populism; memory.

The Body Impolitic Michael Herzfeld, 2004 The Body Impolitic is a critical study of tradition, not merely as an ornament of local and national heritage but also as a millstone around the necks of those who are condemned to produce it. Michael Herzfeld takes us inside a rich variety of small town Cretan artisans' workshops to show how apprentices are systematically thwarted into learning by stealth and guile. This harsh training reinforces a stereotype of artisans as rude and uncultured. Moreover, the same stereotypes that marginalize artisans locally also operate to marginalize Cretans within the Greek nation and Greece itself within the international community. What Herzfeld identifies as the global hierarchy of value thus frames the nation's ancient monuments and traditional handicrafts as evidence of incurable backwardness. Herzfeld's sensitive observations offer an intimately grounded way of understanding the effects of globalization and of one of its most visible offshoots, the heritage industry on the lives of ordinary people in many parts of the world today.

The Rise and Fall of Community Studies Robert Parkin, 2025-09-01 Since its inception about a century ago, the anthropology of Europe has transitioned from studies of settled communities shaped by fieldwork traditions elsewhere to a focus on more mobile and virtual communities. This book provides a partial retrospective on the field, offering a rich collection of ethnographic summaries from across the continent. It will be of interest to students and academics seeking a survey of this branch of anthropology, whether for private study or university courses.

Marianne in Chains Robert Gildea, 2004-06 In France, the German occupation is called simply the dark years. There were only the good French who resisted and the bad French who collaborated. Marianne in Chains is a broad and provocative history drawing on previously unseen archives, firsthand interviews diaries and eyewitness accounts uncovers the complex truth of the time Robert Gildea's groundbreaking study reveals the everyday life in the heart of occupied France the pressing imperatives of work food transportation and family obligations that led to unavoidable compromise and negotiation with the army of occupation

Ritual and Religion in the Making of Humanity Roy A. Rappaport, 1999-03-25 Roy Rappaport argues that religion is central to the continuing evolution of life although it has been displaced from its original position of intellectual authority by the rise of modern science His book which could be construed as in some degree religious as well as about religion insists that religion can and must be reconciled with science Combining adaptive and cognitive approaches to the study of humankind he mounts a comprehensive analysis of religion's evolutionary significance seeing it as co-extensive with the invention of language and hence of culture as we know it At the same time he assembles the fullest study yet of religion's main component ritual which constructs the conceptions which we take to be religious and has been central in the making of humanity's adaptation The text amounts to a manual for effective ritual illustrated by examples drawn from anthropology history philosophy comparative religion and elsewhere

Anthropology and History in Franche-Comté Robert Layton, 2000-12-21 This is a study of continuity and change in rural France based on fieldwork carried out over a period of 25 years and on historical documents spanning more than 300 years Producer co-operatives have existed in Franche Comté since the thirteenth century Communities there unlike modern English villages are highly corporate Robert Layton explores the relationships between inheritance rules management of common land household labour and inter household relations as well as the impact on villages of national politics and economy Comparison with other regions of Western Europe allows a reinterpretation of the eighteenth century enclosures in England Layton presents a dialogue between ethnography and social theory and argues for a revision of the theories of Marx Giddens and Bourdieu so as to better explain the mechanisms of continuity change and adaptation in social life

Interpretive Political Science R. A. W. Rhodes, 2017-07-20 Interpretive Political Science is the second of two volumes featuring a selection of key writings by R A W Rhodes Volume II looks forward and explores the interpretive turn and its implications for the craft of political science especially public administration and draws together articles from 2005 onwards on the theme of the interpretive turn in political science Part I provides a summary statement of the interpretive approach and Part II develops the theme of blurring genres and discusses a variety of research methods common in the humanities including ethnographic fieldwork life history and focus groups Part III demonstrates how the genres of thought and presentation found in the humanities can be used in political science It presents four examples of such blurring at work with studies of applied anthropology and civil service reform women's studies and government departments and storytelling and local knowledge The book concludes with a summary of what is edifying about an interpretive approach and why this approach matters and revisits some of the more common criticisms before indulging in plausible conjectures about the future of interpretivism The author seeks new and interesting ways to explore governance high politics public policies and the study of public administration in general Volume I collects in one place for the first time the main articles written by Rhodes on policy networks and governance between 1990 and 2005 and explores a new way of describing British government focusing on policy making and the ways in which policy is put into practice

One Discipline, Four Ways Fredrik Barth, Andre Gingrich, Robert Parkin, Sydel Silverman, 2010-03-17 One Discipline Four Ways offers the first book length introduction to the history of each of the four major traditions in anthropology British German French and American The result of lectures given by distinguished anthropologists Fredrik Barth Andre Gingrich Robert Parkin and

Sydel Silverman to mark the foundation of the Max Planck Institute for Social Anthropology this volume not only traces the development of each tradition but considers their impact on one another and assesses their future potentials Moving from E B Taylor all the way through the development of modern fieldwork Barth reveals the repressive tendencies that prevented Britain from developing a variety of anthropological practices until the late 1960s Gingrich meanwhile articulates the development of German anthropology paying particular attention to the Nazi period of which surprisingly little analysis has been offered until now Parkin then assesses the French tradition and in particular its separation of theory and ethnographic practice Finally Silverman traces the formative influence of Franz Boas the expansion of the discipline after World War II and the fault lines and promises of contemporary anthropology in the United States Truffles and Trash Kelly

Alexander,2024-10-29 On a fragile planet with spreading food insecurity food waste is a political and ethical problem Examining the collaborative sometimes scrappy institutional and community efforts to recuperate and redistribute food waste in Brussels Belgium Kelly Alexander reveals it is also an opportunity for new forms of sociality Her study plays out across a diverse set of locations including a food bank with ties to the EU a social restaurant serving low cost meals made from supermarket surplus by an emergent immigrant labor force and a social inclusion program in an urban market with a zero food waste pop up cafe Alexander argues that these efforts in concert with innovative policy effectively recirculate wasted food to new publics and produce what she terms a spectrum of edibility According to Alexander these models face challenges including reproducing the very power dynamics across race class and citizenship status they seek to circumvent They also mirror the challenges of the everyday operations of the European social welfare state which is increasingly reliant on NGOs to meet provisioning promises Yet she finds that they also move the needle forward to reduce food waste across one city providing an example for major urban centers around the world Rites of the Republic Mark Ingram,2011-01-01 In this fascinating exploration of citizenship and the politics of culture in contemporary France Ingram examines two theatre troupes in Provence charting the evolution of new models for society and citizenship in a rapidly changing France
