your classroom today P.S. Megan McMorris, 2009-09-14 Have you ever had something you wanted to say to a friend but couldn't? Ever wished you could go back in time to say something you didn't? Female friendships are some of the most powerful and beautiful relationships in our lives but it can sometimes be hard to express our true sentiments to these friends. Whether it be pride, fear, feelings, or circumstance that stand in the way, each of us likely has something we wish we could say to someone but haven't. In P.S. Megan McMorris collects these sentiments as an anthology of unsent letters written by a range of women. For the friend who's been there for you through everything, the friend you've lost touch with, or the friend you've wished you could help, P.S. offers a chance to express the unspoken. A thought-provoking collection, P.S. is sure to resonate with women readers of all ages from different walks of life. The Emperor Has No Clothes Tema Okun, 2010-10-01 The Emperor Has No Clothes: Teaching About Race and Racism to People Who Don't Want to Know offers theoretical grounding and practical approaches for leaders and teachers interested in effectively addressing racism and other oppressive constructs. The book draws both on the author's extensive experience teaching about race and racism in classroom and community settings and from the theory and practice of a wide range of educators, activists, and researchers committed to social justice. The first chapter looks at the toxic consequences of our western cultural insistence on profit, binary thinking, and individualism to establish the theoretical framework for teaching about race and racism. Chapter two investigates privileged resistance, offering a psycho-social history of denial, particularly as a product of racist culture. Chapter three reviews the research on the construction and reconstruction of dominant culture, both historically and now, in order to establish sound strategic approaches that educators, teachers, facilitators, and activists can take as we work together to move from a culture of profit and fear to one of shared hope and love. Chapter four lays out the stages of a process that supports teaching about racist, white supremacy culture, explaining how students can be taken through an iterative process of relationship-building, analysis, planning, action, and reflection. The final chapter borrows from the brilliant, brave, and incisive writer Dorothy Allison to discuss the things the author knows for sure about how to teach people to see that which we have been conditioned to fear. Knowing, the chapter concludes, with how to encourage and support collective and collaborative action as a critical goal of the process.
