Giles Matthew Hole, 1837 A Christian Utopia Stephen J. Gaudet, 2017-01-26 In the first century of the Common Era the Romans could boast of being the most pious society in the known world They possessed a highly structured societal organization with a well defined hierarchy where everyone knew their place and the personal and interpersonal duties associated therewith It was understood that their success was due in large part to maintaining a relationship with the gods Yet at the same time social inequality and lack of justice for its members was ubiquitous and merely part of the fabric of that society Into this milieu steps Saul of Tarsus later known as the Apostle Paul Based upon the authentic corpus of Paul a new utopian society was envisaged a society based on equality and justice for all not just for the elite This eschatological community is in sharp contrast with Imperial Rome Following the death of Paul writers invoking Paul s authority by claiming that their texts were authored by the apostle himself continued writing letters to various Christian communities However their texts differed in significant ways from Paul s vision Yet these corrupted texts have survived and influenced the development of Christianity for two millennia It is imperative to retrieve the true vision of Paul for a world in serious need of that eschatological vision *Fifteen Sermons, preached at the Rolls Chapel: to which is added, a Charge to the Clergy of Durham ... With an introductory essay, by the Rev. R. Cattermole, B.D., and an appendix, containing an analysis of the author's moral and religious systems, &c., &c., by Bishop Halifax. position as Christians in the world including both our privileges and responsibilities to impact individual lives communities and entire nations He provides timely teaching on how to Take spiritual initiative in your area of influence Identify with God's purposes and extend His kingdom in the world Wage spiritual warfare and defeat the schemes of the devil Utilize the weapons of prayer fasting praise and testimony Become a history changer for a better world We have the means to alter the course of events in our cities and nations according to God's will transforming lives and changing the course of history
