Peter Bernard Clarke, 1999 Containing some 1500 entries this new bibliography will be widely welcomed for its comprehensive brief and for the sub section profiling principal NRMs converging history beliefs and practices main publications braches worldwide and membership Crested Kimono Matthews Masayuki Hamabata, 1991-08 Matthews

Hamabata got off to an unpromising start when he first arrived in Japan to study influential business families An unmarried third generation Japanese American graduate student he was there to learn about business executives in their roles as male principals and heads of households Some Japanese were less than hospitable and often downright rude to him and the souvenirs bearing the Harvard University emblem that he had brought along for gifts proved to be inappropriate within the highly ritualized system of Japanese gift giving In this engaging and personal narrative we watch Hamabata in the first disappointing six months of his fieldwork as he attempts to map the boundaries of culture class and sexuality I became my own biggest fieldwork problem he writes Was I inside or out When I thought I was in I was actually out but when I acknowledged the fact that I was out I was let in He soon recognized the importance of marital and filial relations in transmitting power in the business world and he began to direct his study to examining the social and emotional lives of all members of the Japanese ie household and the way they affect business activity and ownership He takes us behind the scenes of the family enterprise to see how the multiple layers of reality biological social religious emotional and symbolic relate and cause dilemmas for ie members Names locations and other details have been altered for the sake of anonymity We meet the Moriuchis the Itoos the Okimotos people who must constantly balance their own personal desires against the good of the ie Many telling vignettes illustrate a central tension in their lives their need for love power and emotional expression versus the constraints of traditional attitudes toward their ancestors public honor the economic enterprise and the obligation to continue the ie over time A grandfather stubbornly refuses to hand over the reins of succession to the next generation creating an impossible situation that eventually tears apart an economic empire as well as the fabric of various interrelated families Economic familial and religious factors figure in a clash for succession between the person who possesses the ancestral tablets and the head of the enterprise A daughter must reconcile personal love with arranged marriage Ambitions for the son in line for succession war with the realization that this spoiled incompetent young man may well ruin the ie A fascinating portrait of everyday life told with vibrant sensitivity as well as humor this book is full of the vitality of common Flowing Bridges, Quiet Waters David K. Reynolds, 1989-07-03 This book is the first to discuss experiences of the Morita and Naikan ways of life in the Western World Although Morita and Naikan are therapies perspectives on neurotic habits and their correction the vision is educational rather than medical The approach offers a way of acknowledging feelings while engaging in constructive living With roots in Zen the principles of this constructive living were formulated over 80 years ago by Shoma Morita a Japanese psychiatrist Like Zen these principles are thoroughly grounded in the reality of the here and now Morita's methods are aimed at the person who suffers from anxiety shyness phobias and obsessions that often manifest in physical symptoms such as headaches insomnia stomach disorders and heart palpitations However the techniques are available and beneficial to people at widely different stages of self development not just to those whose lives are plagued by neurotic suffering Reynolds offers a look at the adaptations necessary to transform and transport these Japanese methods into techniques useful to Westerners Cultural psychological insights are presented by the author who is both an anthropologist and clinician Flowing Bridges offers a unique case study of directed change of a psychotherapeutic system What is Eastern what is Western and what is commonly human becomes more clear from this example of importation of Japanese ideas into the West For psychotherapists there are extensive accounts of hands on treatment methods For those interested in adding these very effective techniques the first person accounts of a variety of contributors will be helpful Positive Solitude Rae André, 1991 A holistic approach to the challenge of loneliness loss of community and failed relationships
