New York and Toronto Novels after Postmodernism Caroline Rosenthal, 2011 Cities are material and symbolic spaces through which nations define their cultural identities The great cities that have arisen on the North American continent have stimulated the imaginations of the United States and Canada in very different ways This first comparative study of North American urban fiction starts out by delineating the sociohistorical and literary contexts in which cities grew into diverging symbolic spaces in American and Canadian culture After an overview of recent developments in the cultural conception of urban space the book takes New York and Toronto fiction as exemplary for exploring representations of the urban after postmodernism It analyzes four twenty first century novels two set in New York Siri Hustvedt s What I Loved and Paule Marshall s The Fisher King and two set in Toronto Carol Shields s Unless and Dionne Brand s What We All Long For While these texts continue to echo the specific traditions of nation building and canon formation in the United States and Canada they also share certain features All of them investigate the affective crossroads of the city while returning to a more realistic mode of representation Caroline Rosenthal is Professor of American Literature at the Friedrich Schiller University in Jena Germany

Extra-Ordinary Men Nicola Rehling,2010-06-21 Extra Ordinary Men analyzes popular cinematic representations of white heterosexual masculinity as the ordinary form of male identity one that enjoys considerable economic social political and representational strength Nicola Rehling argues that while this normative position affords white heterosexual masculinity ideological and political dominance such ordinariness also engenders the anxiety that it is a depthless vacuous and unstable identity At a time when the neutrality of white heterosexual masculinity has been challenged by identity politics this insightful volume offers lucid accounts of contemporary theoretical debates on masculinity in popular cinema and explores the strategies deployed in popular films to reassert white heterosexual male hegemony through detailed readings of films as diverse as Fight Club Boys Don t Cry and The Matrix Accessible to undergraduates but also of interest to film scholars the book makes a distinctive contribution to our understanding of the ways in which popular film helps construct and maintain many unexamined assumptions about masculinity gender race and sexuality The Contemporary African

Neculai,2014-03-06 Interdisciplinary in nature this project draws on fiction non fiction and archival material to theorize urban space and literary cultural production in the context of the United States and New York City Spanning from the mid 1970s fiscal crisis to the 1987 Market Crash New York writing becomes akin to geographical fieldwork in this rich study Majority Cultures and the Everyday Politics of Ethnic Difference B.

Zaborowska,2018-03-29 The last sixteen years of James Baldwin s life 1971 87 unfolded in a village in the South of France in a sprawling house nicknamed Chez Baldwin In Me and My House Magdalena J Zaborowska employs Baldwin s home space as a lens through which to expand his biography and explore the politics and poetics of blackness queerness and domesticity in his complex and underappreciated later works Zaborowska shows how the themes of dwelling and black queer male sexuality in The Welcome Table Just above My Head and If Beale Street Could Talk directly stem from Cheever's influence on the writer. The house was partially torn down in 2014. Accessible heavily illustrated and drawing on interviews with Baldwin's friends and lovers unpublished letters and manuscripts Me and My House offers new insights into Baldwin's life writing and relationships making it essential reading for all students scholars and fans of Baldwin. Urban Triage James Kyung-Jin Lee, 2004 In the 1980s America witnessed an explosion in the production popularity and influence of literary works by people of color and a decade long economic downturn that severely affected America's inner cities and the already disadvantaged communities of color that lived there. Marked by soaring levels of unemployment homelessness violence drug abuse and despair this urban crisis gave the lie to the American dream particularly when contrasted with the success enjoyed by the era's iconic stockbrokers and other privileged groups whose fortunes increased dramatically under Reaganomics. In Urban Triage James Kyung Jin Lee explores how these parallel trends of literary celebration and social misery manifested themselves in fictional narratives of racial anxiety by focusing on four key works: Alejandro Morales's The Brick People John Edgar Wideman's Philadelphia Fire Hisaye Yamamoto's A Fire in Fontana and Tom Wolfe's The Bonfire of the Vanities. Each of these fictions he finds addresses the decade's racial ethnic and economic inequities from differing perspectives. Morales's revisions of Chicano identity Yamamoto's troubled invocation of the affinities between African Americans and Asian Americans the problematic connections between black intellectuals and the black community aired by Wideman and Wolfe's satirization of white privilege. Drawing on the fields of literary criticism public policy sociology and journalism Lee deftly assesses the success with which these multicultural fictions engaged in the debates over these issues and the extent to which they may actually have alienated the very communities that their creators purported to represent. Challenging both the uncritical celebration of abstract multiculturalism and its simpleminded vilification Lee roots Urban Triage in specific instances of multiracial contact and deeply informed readings of works that have been canonized within ethnic studies and of those that either remain misunderstood or were misguided from the start. James Kyung Jin Lee is assistant professor of English and Asian American studies at the University of Texas at Austin.

Razing Africville Jennifer Nelson, 2009-05-16 In the 1960s the city of Halifax razed the black community of Africville under a program of urban renewal and slum clearance. The city defended its actions by citing the deplorable living conditions in Africville ignoring its own role in the creation of these conditions through years of neglect and the refusal of essential services. In the 1980s the city created a park on Africville's former site which has been a place of protest and commemoration for black citizens since its opening. As yet however the city has not issued a formal apology to Africville residents and has paid no further compensation. Razing Africville examines this history as the prolonged eviction of a community from its own space. By examining a variety of sources urban planning texts city council documents news media and academic accounts Jennifer J Nelson illustrates how Africville went from a slum to a problem to be solved and more recently to a public space in which past violence is rendered invisible Reading historical texts as a critical map of decision making she argues that the ongoing measures taken to regulate black bodies and spaces amount to a geography of racism Through a geographic lens therefore she manages to analyse ways in which race requires space and how the control of space is a necessary component of delineating and controlling people A much needed re examination of an important historical example Razing Africville applies contemporary spatial theory to the situation in Africville and offers critical observations about the function of racism

Gentrification in Contemporary Fiction James Peacock,2025-05-15 Focusing on literary representations of gentrification this book analyses twenty first century anglophone novels by authors from the United States Canada India the United Kingdom and Australia Literary texts so adept at revealing the experiences and emotions of individuals within communities are also important vehicles for exploring the complex relationships between individuals and the wider social economic and political forces that lead to urban transformations including gentrification These complexities are best revealed this book argues by proceeding from a forensic examination of characters domestic buildings and spaces Examining novels from a broad range of writers including Zadie Smith Jonathan Lethem Aravind Adiga Michael Chabon and Irvine Welsh this book makes a powerful case for the importance of literature in helping to understand the lived experience of gentrification

Whiteness, Class and the Legacies of Empire K. Tyler,2012-04-11 This book explores why it is white ethnicity has been rendered invisible arguing that contemporary people s conceptions of themselves are conditioned by and derive from the unknown and forgotten legacy of a colonial past that cannot be confined to the past

Falling Down Jude Davies,2013-12-04 Falling Down 1993 caused controversy because of its depiction of violence and vigilantism and was accused of racism in its portrayal of a Korean shopkeeper Jude Davies explores the film s production and reception context arguing that it was marketed as a deliberate provocation to a growing uncivility in American society

Claiming Space Cheryl Teelucksingh,2006-05-29 Claiming Space Racialization in Canadian Cities critically examines the various ways in which Canadian cities continue to be racialized despite objective evidence of racial diversity and the dominant ideology of multiculturalism Contributors consider how spatial conditions in Canadian cities are simultaneously part of and influenced by racial domination and racial resistance Reflecting on the ways in which race is systematically hidden within the workings of Canadian cities the book also explores the ways in which racialized people attempt to claim space These essays cover a diverse range of Canadian urban spaces and various racial groups as well as the intersection of ethnicity class gender and sexuality Linking themes include issues related to subjectivity and space the importance of new space that arises by challenging the dominant ideology of multiculturalism and the relationship between diasporic identities and claims to space
