Selected writings: complete short stories, Typee [and] Billy Budd, foretopman Herman Melville, 1952      Selected Writings Herman Melville, 1952      Speaking through the Mask Norma Claire Moruzzi, 2018-09-05 Hannah Arendt was famously resistant to both psychoanalysis and feminism Nonetheless psychoanalytic feminist theory can offer a new interpretive strategy for deconstructing her equally famous opposition between the social and the political Supplementing critical readings of Arendt's most significant texts including The Human Condition On Revolution Rahel Varnhagen The Origins of Totalitarianism Eichmann in Jerusalem and The Life of the Mind with the insights of contemporary psychoanalytic feminist and social theorists Norma Claire Moruzzi reconstitutes the relationship in Arendt's texts between constructed social identity and political agency Moruzzi uses Julia Kristeva's writings on abjection to clarify the textual dynamic in Arendt's work that constructs the social as a natural threat Joan Riviere's and Mary Ann Doane's work on feminine masquerade amplify the theoretical possibilities implicit in Arendt's own discussion of the public political mask In a bold interdisciplinary synthesis Moruzzi develops the social applications of a concept the mask Arendt had described as limited to the strictly political realm a new conception of political agency as social masquerade traced through the marginal but emblematic textual figures who themselves enact the politics of social identity      Richard Wright Michel Fabre, 1990 This bibliography of Richard Wright's library and reading serves as a key to understanding the development philosophies and aesthetics of this great writer and provides accurate information for the study of intertextuality in his works Richard Wright born in Mississippi in 1908 was largely self taught His only formal schooling was high school As he recounts in Black Boy he used a white friend's library card at the Memphis Public Library where blacks were not allowed That books were almost living companions for Wright is easily understandable Through books and later through relationships with writers he broadened his perspectives his understanding of society and the very craft of writing In the history of Richard Wright perhaps more than with other writers a knowledge of what he actually read and of what authors he preferred is essential in explaining his intellectual development Michel Fabre Wright's biographer and foremost Wright scholar details the volumes in Wright's library and the facts of Wright's reading habits This listing of books that formed and influenced him includes second hand books he bought while living in extreme poverty in Chicago some borrowed books never returned books purchased in New York and Paris books Wright deemed required reading for a growing novelist gift books and others in a comprehensive list on such subjects as contemporary American literature classic European works criminology psychiatry and social sciences In compiling this listing Fabre goes beyond the actual contents of Wright's library for he includes also titles drawn from references in Wright's works and from accounts of people who knew him and his reading habits Included also is an appendix that collects for the first time reviews written by Wright his prefaces forewords and blurbs They show his appreciation of diverse genres and styles although his ideological commitment remained the same In them one sees Wright as an author ready to help younger writers black and white American and French      Adult Catalog: Authors Los Angeles County Public Library,1970      Catalog of Copyright Entries. Melville's Complaint Richard Dean Smith,1991 This volume presents a chronological examination of Melville s books in regard to his use of medical subjects that reveals his attitudes about illness and medicine Melville included many physicians and medical descriptions in his works as well as a number of medical metaphors which reflect the changes occurring in science and medicine in America during the first half of the nineteenth century Melville suffered no exotic or mystifying diseases however his sailing experiences undoubtedly brought him into contact with many diseased and disfigured individuals In some of his works medicine and medical conditions play a central role in the development of his stories and are discussed at length In others medical matters are used as metaphors to illustrate personal characteristics and for humor
