Self And Subjectivity:

Self and Subjectivity Kim Atkins, 2008-04-15 Self and Subjectivity is a collection of seminal essays with commentary that traces the development of conceptions of self and subjectivity in European and Anglo American philosophical traditions including feminist scholarship from Descartes to the present

Subjectivity and Selfhood Dan Zahavi, 2008-08-29 What is a self Does it exist in reality or is it a mere social construct or is it perhaps a neurologically induced illusion The legitimacy of the concept of the self has been questioned by both neuroscientists and philosophers in recent years Countering this in Subjectivity and Selfhood Dan Zahavi argues that the notion of self is crucial for a proper understanding of consciousness He investigates the interrelationships of experience self awareness and selfhood proposing that none of these three notions can be understood in isolation Any investigation of the self Zahavi argues must take the first person perspective seriously and focus on the experiential givenness of the self Subjectivity and Selfhood explores a number of phenomenological analyses pertaining to the nature of consciousness self and self experience in light of contemporary discussions in consciousness research Philosophical phenomenology as developed by Husserl Heidegger Sartre Merleau Ponty and others not only addresses crucial issues often absent from current debates over consciousness but also provides a conceptual framework for understanding subjectivity Zahavi fills the need given the recent upsurge in theoretical and empirical interest in subjectivity for an account of the subjective or phenomenal dimension of consciousness that is accessible to researchers and students from a variety of disciplines His aim is to use phenomenological analyses to clarify issues of central importance to philosophy of mind cognitive science developmental psychology and psychiatry By engaging in a dialogue with other philosophical and empirical positions says Zahavi phenomenology can demonstrate its vitality and contemporary relevance

The Paradox of Subjectivity David Carr, 1999-06-03 Much effort in recent philosophy has been devoted to attacking the metaphysics of the subject Identified largely with French post structuralist thought yet stemming primarily from the influential work of the later Heidegger this attack has taken the form of a sweeping denunciation of the whole tradition of modern philosophy from Descartes through Nietzsche Husserl and Existentialism In this timely study David Carr contends that this discussion has overlooked and eventually lost sight of the distinction between modern metaphysics and the tradition of transcendental philosophy inaugurated by Kant and continued by Husserl into the twentieth century Carr maintains that the transcendental tradition often misinterpreted as a mere alternative version of the metaphysics of the subject is in fact itself directed against such a metaphysics Challenging prevailing views of the development of modern philosophy Carr proposes a reinterpretation of the transcendental tradition and counters Heidegger s influential readings of Kant and Husserl He defends their subtle and complex transcendental investigations of the self and the life of subjectivity In Carr s interpretation far from joining the project of metaphysical foundationalism transcendental philosophy offers epistemological critique and phenomenological description Its aim is not metaphysical conclusions but rather an appreciation for the rich and sometimes contradictory character of experience The transcendental approach to the self is skillfully summed up by Husserl as the paradox of human subjectivity being a subject for the world and at the same time being an object in the world Proposing striking new readings of Kant and Husserl and reviving a sound awareness of the transcendental tradition Carr s distinctive historical and systematic position will interest a wide range of readers and provoke discussion among philosophers of metaphysics epistemology and the history of philosophy Foucault, Subjectivity, and Identity Robert M. Strozier, 2002 An examination of the notions of subject and self from the Sophists to Foucault Although the writings of Foucault have had tremendous impact on contemporary thinking about subjectivity notions of the subject have a considerable history In Foucault Subjectivity and Identity Robert Strozier examines ideas of subject and self that have developed throughout western thought He expands Foucault's idea of the subject as historically determined into a wide ranging treatment of ideas of subjectivity extending from those expressed by the ancient Sophists to notions of the subject at the end of the twentieth century Strozier examines these traditions against the background of Foucault's work especially Foucault's later writings on the history of self relation and the subject and his idea of historical subjectivity in general Strozier explores various periods of western thought notably the Hellenistic era the early Italian Renaissance and the seventeenth century to show that almost every treatment of subjectivity is related to the Sophist idea of the originating Subject Drawing on a wide spectrum of writings by Epicurus and Seneca Petrarch and Montaigne Dickens and Conrad Fr

Being No One Thomas Metzinger, 2004-08-20 According to Thomas Metzinger no such things as selves exist in the world nobody ever had or was a self All that exists are phenomenal selves as they appear in conscious experience The phenomenal self however is not a thing but an ongoing process it is the content of a transparent self model In Being No One Metzinger a German philosopher draws strongly on neuroscientific research to present a representationalist and functional analysis of what a consciously experienced first person perspective actually is Building a bridge between the humanities and the empirical sciences of the mind he develops new conceptual toolkits and metaphors uses case studies of unusual states of mind such as agnosia neglect blindsight and hallucinations and offers new sets of multilevel constraints for the concept of consciousness Metzinger's central question is How exactly does strong consciously experienced subjectivity emerge out of objective events in the natural world His epistemic goal is to determine whether conscious experience in particular the experience of being someone that results from the emergence of a phenomenal self can be analyzed on subpersonal levels of description He also asks if and how our Cartesian intuitions that subjective experiences as such can never be reductively explained are themselves ultimately rooted in the deeper representational structure of our conscious minds Peirce's Approach to the Self Vincent M. Colapietro, 1988-12-20 Based on a careful study of his unpublished manuscripts as well as his published work this book explores Peirce's general theory of signs and the way in which Peirce himself used this theory to understand subjectivity Peirce's views are presented not only in reference to important historical James Saussure and contemporary Eco Kristeva figures but also in reference to some of the central controversies regarding signs Colapietro adopts as a strategy of interpretation Peirce's own view that ideas become clarified only in the course of debate

The Intercorporeal Self Scott L. Marratto, 2012-06-05 Challenging a prevalent Western idea of the self as a discrete interior consciousness Scott L Marratto argues instead that subjectivity is a characteristic of the living expressive movement establishing a dynamic intertwining between a sentient body and its environment He draws on the work of the French philosopher Maurice Merleau Ponty contemporary European philosophy and research in cognitive science and development to offer a compelling investigation into what it means to be a self

Self-Awareness and Alterity Dan Zahavi, 2020-07-15 In the rigorous and highly original Self Awareness and Alterity Dan Zahavi provides a sustained argument that phenomenology especially in its Husserlian version can make a decisive contribution to discussions of self awareness Engaging with debates within both analytic philosophy Elizabeth Anscombe John Perry Sydney Shoemaker Hector Neri Castañeda David Rosenthal and contemporary German philosophy Dieter Henrich Manfred Frank Ernst Tugendhat Zahavi argues that the phenomenological tradition has much more to offer when it comes to the problem of self awareness than is normally assumed As a contribution to the current philosophical debate concerning self awareness the book presents a comprehensive reconstruction of Husserl's theory of pre reflective self awareness thereby criticizing a number of prevalent interpretations In addition Zahavi also offers a systematic discussion of a number of phenomenological insights related to the issue of self awareness including analyses of the temporal intentional reflexive bodily and social nature of the self The new edition of this prize winning book has been updated and revised and all quotations have been translated into English It also contains a new preface in which Zahavi traces the developments of the debates around self awareness over the last twenty years and situates this book in the context of his subsequent work

Self and Other Dan Zahavi, 2014 Dan Zahavi engages with classical phenomenology philosophy of mind and a range of empirical disciplines to explore the nature of selfhood He argues that the most fundamental level of selfhood is not socially constructed or dependent upon others but accepts that certain dimensions of the self and types of self experience are other mediated Exploring the Self, Subjectivity, and Character across Japanese and Translation Texts Senko K. Maynard, 2022-01-17 From the perspective of philosophical contrastive pragmatics this study investigates our multiple selves as manifested in how we use language Based on analyses of original and translation texts of Japanese and English literary works the Japanese self is proposed as being fundamentally empty and yet richly populated with multiple subjective aspects characters and characteristics Incorporating the concept of emptiness drawn from Japanese philosophical traditions and postmodernism primarily developed in the West selves evidenced in grammar style and variation are investigated applying interpretive resources of linguistic subjectivity character and character speak Expressive gaps found in source and target texts across two languages lead us toward different ontological views and guide us to engage in the rethinking of the concept of self Annual Review of Cybertherapy and Telemedicine, 2009 B. Flood,2018-10-17 The Metaphysical Foundations of Love Aquinas on Participation Unity and Union offers a systematic treatment of St Thomas Aquinas s account of the metaphysical relations of unity to union and unity to participation in God as the key structuring elements to the nature of love and friendship In general Aquinas identifies love as the source and summit of the life of each human being Everything in the created realm issues forth from God s creative love and the ultimate end of all human persons is the greatest possible union with God Aquinas contends that the love of friendship allows for the greatest union between two persons thus the greatest union with God takes the form of friendship with him
