Descartes's dictum that it is the ability to speak that distinguishes human from beast Turing proposed to test whether machine and person were indistinguishable in regard to verbal ability He was not as is often assumed answering the question Can machines think but proposing a more concrete way to ask it Turing's proposed thought experiment encapsulates the issues that the writings in The Turing Test define and discuss The first section of the book contains writings by philosophical precursors including Descartes who first proposed the idea of indistinguishability tests The second section contains all of Turing's writings on the Turing Test including not only the Mind paper but also less familiar ephemeral material The final section opens with responses to Turing's paper published in Mind soon after it first appeared The bulk of this section however consists of papers from a broad spectrum of scholars in the field that directly address the issue of the Turing Test as a test for intelligence Contributors John R Searle Ned Block Daniel C Dennett and Noam Chomsky in a previously unpublished paper Each chapter is introduced by background material that can also be read as a self contained essay on the Turing Test
