Abrams, 2012-11-29 RICHARD M ABRAMS a retired U C Berkeley professor of modern U S history recreates the many games some of them now all but extinct played in the city streets daily by boys and girls during the turbulent era of the Great Depression the Second World War and the increasingly prosperous post war environment Abrams was born in Brooklyn in 1932 when cramped urban living quarters were commonplace and limited income constricted access to organized sports venues and equipment His was an outdoor generation forced to depend on inventive use of scarce resources From many conversations over the years with his children colleagues friends and students he came to realize how few people today have any idea of the kinds of recreation that filled daily life for young city people in the years of his own youth Street Games is a combination of Abrams s reminiscences of the games he played and his placement of those activities in the social history of the period often highlighting its contrast with the world we know today The work is compelling informative and fast paced in its description of a mostly lost piece of history It is also fascinating for its speculations about such things as the hidden meaning of It in games of tag the small regard for safety helmets face masks seat belts and the complex character of racism and ethnic tensions in those times One reader of the manuscript remarked I have not read in many years anything that gave me so much pure sustained pleasure RICHARD M ABRAMS was educated in the public schools of Brooklyn He earned his BA MA and Ph D degrees at Columbia University He began his teaching career at Columbia in 1957 He moved to the University of California in Berkeley in 1961 where he taught until retiring in 2007 He is married to Marcia Ash Abrams and they have three children and four grandchildren He has been a visiting professor of history in London Moscow Beijing and Innsbruck and has lectured widely in Europe and Asia His other books include Conservatism in a Progressive Era The Burdens of Progress and most recently America Transformed

Lewis,2010-09-29 When we were children we made our own fun is a frequent comment from those who were children in pre television times But what games activities and amusements did children enjoy prior to the mid 1950s Recollections of older Canadians selections from writings by Canadian authors and letters written to the children s pages of agricultural publications indicate that for most children play was then as now an essential part of childhood Through play youngsters developed the physical mental and emotional skills that helped them cope with life and taught them to get along with other children In both rural and urban settings children were generally free to explore their environment They were sent outdoors to play by both parents and teachers Their games were generally self organized and physically active with domestic animals acting as important companions and playmates Children frequently made their own toys and equipment and since playing rather than winning was important most children were included in games Special days holidays and organizations for children and youth provided welcome breaks from daily routines Their lives were busy but there was always time for play always time for fun Norah Lewis has provided an entertaining view of the toys games and activities in Canada and pre confederate Newfoundland from approximately 1900 through 1955 Her book will be of interest to historians educators and sociologists as well as anyone who lived through or wants to know more about those early years in Canada and the games children used to play The City where Crime is Play John Collier,Edward Morley Barrows,1914 The American and English Annotated Cases ,1907 Baltimore Bulletin of Education ,1929 What I've Learned Christopher T.
