What works in early grade literacy instruction Jennae Bulat,Margaret Dubeck,Paula Green,Karon Harden,Catherine Henny,Mónika Mattos,Alison Pflipsen,Ana Robledo,Yasmin Sitabkhan,2017-02-28 Over the past decade RTI International has pursued the goal of quality inclusive differentiated early grade literacy instruction in nearly 30 early grade reading or early grade literacy programs in low and middle income LMI countries Across our diverse portfolio we have supported Ministries of Education Ministries in diverse contexts in their development and implementation of research based early grade literacy programs and have learned important lessons based on our experience working with Ministries to design develop and implement early grade literacy programs This paper describes the core elements that we have found to improve early grade literacy instruction and learner outcomes the approach to teaching Teach the availability of quality relevant learner materials Text the effective use of instructional time Time the use of formative assessment to guide instruction Test and provision of instruction in the most effective language Tongue This paper focuses on the acquisition of literacy in alphabetic and alphasyllabic languages in the early primary years most typically academic levels 1 through 3 and the kinds of exposures instruction and support learners need to become fully literate These are the elements of a literacy program that can be taught that should be present in teaching and learning materials and in teacher trainings and that relate specifically to what happens in a classroom. Many more factors contribute to literacy acquisition. However, we focus on the core elements in this paper to delve deeper and facilitate a richer discussion about these components. No one size fits all approach to the development and implementation of literacy programs exists; the local context and constraints of any implementation can require adaptation and adjustments. In many cases, the fully diversified approach to early grade literacy instruction described in the classroom scenario has not yet been achieved. However, we hope that this compilation of lessons learned and best practices achieved through our experiences will help to further the efforts of all to provide high quality effective literacy instruction to all learners, particularly those in LMI countries.

Developing Voice Through the Language Arts Kathryn Henn-Reinke, GERALYN A. CHESNER, 2007. Let every voice be heard. Developing Voice Through the Language Arts shows prospective teachers how to use the language arts to connect diverse students to the world around them and help them develop their own literate voices. This book considers the integrated nature of the primary language arts: reading, writing, listening, speaking, viewing, and visually representing. Authors Kathryn Henn-Reinke and GERALYN A. CHESNER encourage preservice and inservice teachers to take a reflective, balanced approach in preparing to teach language arts.

Learning to Read and Write in One Elementary School Connie Juel, 2012-12-06. When a fourth grade student Jenny was asked about reading, she stated, "I love to read; you get real neat ideas. I really like books about animals and biographies. I'm writing my autobiography now." Oh, I also really like Judy Blume books. Her enthusiasm for reading is evident as she tells you about the Judy Blume book she just read, Are You There God? It's Me, Margaret (1970). Jenny reads almost every night at home. Jenny's classmate, through 4 years of elementary school, Anna responds when asked about reading, "I hate to read; it's boring." Anna says she never reads at home. She says she'd rather watch television or play with friends. Anna would even rather clean her room than read. She explains, "I'd rather clean my room because it makes the room look neat. Reading makes my head hurt because it's so boring and no fun." Jenny and Anna attended a large neighborhood elementary school in Austin, Texas. The school is located in a lower socioeconomic status (SES) area of small houses, duplexes, and apartments. About 45% of the children at the school are Hispanic, 35% are African American, and 20% are Anglo. The school consistently ranks among the lowest schools in the district on standardized reading achievement tests. Upon entering first grade, neither Jenny nor Anna could read the words that were to appear in their first preprimer reader.

Handbook on the Science of Early Literacy Sonia Q. Cabell, Susan B. Neuman, Nicole Patton Terry, 2024-04-25. Synthesizing the best current knowledge about early literacy, this comprehensive handbook brings together leading researchers from multiple disciplines. The volume identifies the instructional methods and areas of focus shown to be most effective for promoting young children's PreK-2 growth in reading, writing, oral language, and the connections among them. In 33 chapters, the Handbook covers conceptual foundations, development and instruction of both code and meaning-related literacy skills, professional development, and family engagement supporting equity across populations and learning beyond
