Making Indigenous Citizens:

Making Indigenous Citizens Maria Elena García, 2022 Set against conventional views of Peru as a place where indigenous mobilization has been absent this book examines the complex contentious politics between intercultural activists local Andean indigenous community members state officials non governmental organizations and transnationally educated indigenous intellectuals It examines the paradoxes and possibilities of Quechua community protests against intercultural bilingual education official multicultural policies implemented by state and non state actors and the training of authentic indigenous leaders far from their home communities Focusing on important local sites of transnational connections especially in the highland communities of Cuzco and on an international academic institute for the study of intercultural bilingual education this book shows how contemporary indigenous politics are inextricably and simultaneously local and global In exploring some of the seeming contradictions of Peruvian indigenous politics Making Indigenous Citizens suggests that indigenous movements and citizenship are articulated in extraordinary but under explored ways in Latin America and beyond

Making Citizenship Work Rodolfo Rosales, 2022-08-24 Making Citizenship Work seeks to address questions of how a community reaches a place where it can actually make citizenship work A second question addressed is What does citizenship represent to different communities Across thirteen chapters a collection of experts traverse multiple disciplines in analyzing citizenship from different points of access Each chapter revolves around the premise that empowerment of communities and individuals within the community comes in different forms and is governed by multiple needs and visions Authors utilize case studies to demonstrate the different roles that communities from a broad sector of our society adopt to accomplish constructing democratic processes that reflect their goals needs and cultures Concurrently authors address the structural obstacles to the empowerment of communities arguing that the democratic process does not and cannot accommodate the diverse communities of society within a single universalistic model of citizenship They conclude that fundamentally citizenship is not simply a legal right an obligation a state of rights but a practice an action on the behalf of community Making Citizenship Work challenges conventional thinking about politics while also encouraging readers to go beyond the box that deters us from visualizing a human society It is an ideal book for undergraduate and graduate courses in political science sociology history social work and Ethnic Studies

new power and groups as diverse as Australian Aborigines Ecuadorian Quichuas and New Zealand Maoris have found their own distinctive and assertive ways of living in the present world Indigenous Experience Today draws together essays by prominent scholars in anthropology and other fields examining the varied face of indigenous politics in Bolivia Botswana Canada Chile China Indonesia and the United States amongst others The book challenges accepted notions of indigeneity as it examines the transnational dynamics of contemporary native culture and politics around the world Making a Place for the Future in Maya Guatemala John P. Reconfiguring Citizenship Mehmoona Moosa-Mitha, 2016-03-23 Citizenship as a status assumes that all those encompassed by the term citizen are included albeit within the boundaries of the nation state Yet citizenship practices can be both inclusionary and exclusionary with far reaching ramifications for both nationals and non nationals This volume explores the concept of citizenship and its practices within particular contexts and nation states to identify whether its claims to inclusivity are justified This will show whether the exclusionary dimensions experienced by some citizens and non citizens are linked to deficiencies in the concept country specific policies or how it is practised in different contexts The interrogation of citizenship is important in a globalising world where crossing borders raises issues of diversity and how citizenship status is framed This raises the issue of human rights and their protection within the nation state for people whose lifestyles differ from the prevailing ones Besides highlighting the importance of human rights and social justice as integral to citizenship it affirms the role of the nation state in safeguarding these matters It does so by building on Indigenous peoples insights about linking citizenship to connections to other people and the environment and arguing for the inalienability and portability of citizenship rights guaranteed collectively through international level agreements These issues are of particular concern to social workers given that they must act in accordance with the principles of democracy equality and empowerment However citizenship issues are often inadequately articulated in social work theory and practice This book redresses this by providing social workers with insights knowledge values and skills about citizenship practices to enable them to work more effectively with those excluded from enjoying the full rights of citizenship in the nation states in which they reside

From Prohibited Immigrants to Citizens Jonathan Klaaren,2017-10-31 Jonathan Klaaren blends legal and social history in this engaging account of early conceptions of South African citizenship He argues that distinctively South African notions of citizenship and nationality come out of the period 1897 to 1937 through legislation and official practices employing the key concept of prohibited immigrant and seeking to regulate the mobility of three population groups African Asian and European Further he makes the case that the regulation and administration of immigrants from the Indian sub continent in particular provided the basis for the vision and eventual reality of a unified although structurally unequal South African population This book fits into the growing field of Mobility Studies which seeks to understand and document the migration of people both within and across national borders while exploring the origins of those borders In addition to nationality and citizenship it touches on African pass laws the origins of the Public Protector the scheme importing Chinese labour to the gold mines the development of internal bureaucratic legality and India South Africa intra imperial relations With its attention to the role of law in state building and its understanding of the central place of implementation and administrative law in migration policy this book offers a distinctive focus on the relationship between migration and citizenship

Making Matters Leigh Gruwell,2022-04-15 Craft is a process oriented practice that takes seriously the relationships between bodies both human and nonhuman and makes apparent how these relationships are mired in and informed by power structures Making Matters introduces craft agency a feminist vision of new materialist

rhetorics that enables scholars to identify how power circulates and sometimes stagnates within assemblages of actors and provides tools to rectify that uneven distribution To recast new materialist rhetorics as inherently crafty Leigh Gruwell historicizes and locates the concept of craft both within rhetorical history as well as in the disciplinary history of writing studies Her investigation centers on three specific case studies craftivism the fibercraft website Ravelry and the 2017 Women s March These instances all highlight how a material ecological understanding of rhetorical agency can enact political change Craft agency models how we humans might work with and alongside things nonhuman sometimes digital sometimes material to create more equitable relationships Making Matters argues that craft is a useful starting point for addressing criticisms of new materialist rhetorics not only because doing so places rhetorical action as a product of complex relationships between a network of human and nonhuman actors but also because it does so with an explicitly activist agenda that positions the body itself as a material interface

Multiculturalism in Latin America David Lehmann, 2016-09-19 This book presents a challenging view of the adoption and co-option of multiculturalism in Latin America from six scholars with extensive experience of grassroots movements and intellectual debates It raises serious questions of theory method and interpretation for both social scientists and policymakers on the basis of cases in Mexico Brazil Argentina Bolivia and Ecuador Multicultural policies have enabled people to recover the land of their ancestors administer justice in accordance with their traditions provide recognition as full citizens of the nation and promote affirmative action to enable them to take the place in society which is theirs by right The message of this book is that while the multicultural response has done much to raise the symbolic recognition of indigenous and Afro-descendant peoples nationally and internationally its application calls for a profound reappraisal in spheres such as land gender institutional design and equal opportunities Written by scholars with long term and in depth engagement in Latin America the chapters show that multicultural theories and policies which assume racial and cultural boundaries to be clear cut overlook the pervasive reality of racial and cultural mixture and place excessive confidence in identity politics
