Making Of The Australian Creative Imagination:

The Making of the Australian Literary Imagination Richard Nile, 2002 In this controversial and engrossing study Richard Nile debunks some of the powerful myths of cultural nationalism and observes its passing in favour of the celebrity author He explores the power of nationalism as a governing force in the creation and ultimate demise of Australian literature In a clear and accessible way Nile invokes the stylistic possibilities of narrative history and creative non fiction playfully blurring the lines between them The Making of the Australian Literary Imagination moves from literary London to the delights of Australian bookshops gets inside Angus and Robertson and interrogates the politics of reputation It investigates censorship and patronage paperback heroes and the able bodied writer and explores cinema and literature in the century that quite clearly belonged to the novelist

Story/telling Bronwen Ann Levy, Ffion Murphy, 2001 Story telling is an eclectic and fascinating collection of stories and stories about stories With passion and verve some of Australia's finest writers range through vast territory exploring new directions in film and media enigmas and creativity histories of mothering narratives of indigenous and migrant experience folk country and multicultural music traditions and dilemmas of interpretation These writers appreciate the power of stories for good and ill They interrogate narratives of Australia's past and present and call for new stories for changing times We hear voices raised one moment subdued the next as if we were sitting in the Forum tent at the Woodford Festival knowing that here and just beyond in paint dance music and words stories are happening in delicious abundance

Imagination for Inclusion Derek Bland, 2016-02-12 Imagination for Inclusion offers a reconsideration of the ways in which imagination engages and empowers learners across the education spectrum from primary to adult levels and in all subject areas Imagination as a natural expedient and exciting learning tool should be central to any approach to developing and implementing curriculum but is increasingly undervalued as learners progress through the education system this disregards not only imagination's potential but its paramount place in informing truly inclusive approaches to teaching and learning This book presents a new theory of imagination and includes discussion about its application to teaching and learning to increase the engagement of disaffected students and reinvigorate their relationships with curriculum content Chapters include key ideas and discussion surrounding the benefits of introducing imaginative practices into the classroom for learners from a range of marginalised backgrounds such as young people with disabilities and adult learners from socio economically disadvantaged environments In exploring imagination in the practice of inclusive education the book includes chapters from researchers and practitioners in education who have fresh ideas about how learners and teachers have benefited from introducing imaginative pedagogies The diverse collection featuring writers with backgrounds from early childhood to adult education will be essential reading for academics and researchers in the fields of education inclusive education social policy professional development teacher education and creativity It will be of particular interest to current and pre service teachers who want to develop inclusive practice and increase the engagement of all students with formal education The Creative Retrieval of Saint Thomas Aquinas W. Norris Clarke, 2009-08-25 W Norris Clarke has chosen the fifteen essays in this collection five of which appear here for the first time as the most significant of the more than seventy he has written over the course of a long career Clarke is known for his development of a Thomistic personalism To be a person according to Saint Thomas is to take conscious self possession of one's own being to be master of oneself But our incarnate mode of being human involves living in a body whose life unfolds across time and is inevitably dispersed across time If we wish to know fully who we are we need to assimilate and integrate this dispersal so that our lives become a coherent story In addition to the existentialist thought of Etienne Gilson and others Clarke draws on the Neoplatonic dimension of participation Existence as act and participation have been the central pillars of his metaphysical thought especially in its unique manifestation in the human person The essays collected here cover a wide range of philosophical ethical religious and aesthetic topics Through them sounds a very personal voice one that has inspired generations of students and scholars The Imaginary Australian Miriam Dixson, 1999 Examination of the nature of Australian national identity includes reference to Aborigines discussed in terms of violence racism guilt remorse and memory questions the characterisation of race relations through forgetting and silence Stanner and violence Rowley argues that simplified historical narratives about race relations impede reparative energy in race relations psychological understanding of racism theories of the nation crisis of history and time in Australia and its impact on identity Fostering Imagination in Higher Education Joy Whitton, 2018-04-24 Imagination and creative teaching approaches are increasingly important across all higher education disciplines not just the arts Investigating the role of imagination in teaching and learning in non arts disciplines this book argues that a lack of clarity about what imagination looks like in higher education impedes teachers in fostering their students creativity Fostering Imagination in Higher Education tells four ethnographic stories from physics history finance and pharmaceutical science courses analytically observing the strategies educators use to encourage their students imagination and detailing how students experience learning when it is focussed on engaging their imagination The highly original study is framed by Ricoeur's work on different forms of imagination reproductive and productive or generative It links imaginative thinking to cognitive science and philosophy in particular the work of Clark Dennett and Polanyi and to the mediating role of disciplinary concepts and social cultural practices The author's discussion of models graphs strategies and artefacts as tools for taking learners thinking forward has much to offer understandings of pedagogy in higher education Students in these case studies learned to create themselves as knowledge producers and professionals It positioned them to experience actively the constructed nature of the knowledge and processes they were learning to use and the continuing potential of knowledge to be remade in the future This is what makes imaginative thinking elemental to the goals of higher education Imagination and the Creative Impulse in the New Literatures in English , 2021-11-01 Imagination and the Creative Impulse in the New Literatures in English brings together the proceedings of a symposium organised by the editors at the University of Trento in 1990 At a time when the study of the post colonial literatures is gaining more widespread recognition scholars based mainly at universities in Italy and Germany were invited to address the manner in which writers are giving literary expression to the complexity of contemporary post colonial and multicultural societies and to consider from their differing perspectives on the new literatures central questions of formal experimentation linguistic innovation social and political commitment textual theory and cross culturality Focusing on such major writers such as Achebe Soyinka and Walcott as well as on lesser known figures such as Jack Davis Witi Ihimaera Rohinton Mistry and Manohar Malgonkar the contributors take up many themes characteristic of the new literatures the challenge posed to traditional authority the expression of national identity the role of literature in the liberation struggle modes of literary practice in multicultural societies the relationship of the new literatures in English to that of the former metropolitan centre and the complex intertextuality characterizing much of the literary production of post colonial societies South Australian Institutes' Journal, 1900

Imagination Eva T. H. Brann, 2016-11-28 In this book Eva Brann sets out no less a task than to assess the meaning of imagination in its multifarious expressions throughout western history The result is one of those rare achievements that will make The World of the Imagination a standard reference Imagining Sustainability Julie Cidell, 2017-03-16 Cities rather than nations have become the key sites for enacting environmental policies This is due to the combination of growing urban populations and increased action on the part of local governments generally attributed to national governments failure to act on climate change Imagining Sustainability seeks to understand how actors in local government conceptualize sustainability and their role in producing it and what difference that understanding makes to their physical political and social environments now and in the future International comparisons can uncover new ideas and possibilities Chicago and Melbourne are prime candidates for such a comparison they are cities of the same age they have similar historical trajectories as interior gateways followed by industrial growth and then deindustrialization and they have demonstrated the same recent desire to be global champions of sustainability Based on qualitative fieldwork in these two cities this book uses Karen Barad's methodology of diffraction to read these case studies through each other This methodology helps to understand not only what differences exist between these two places but what effects those differences have on the urban environment This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of urban studies urban planning and environmental policy and governance Children's Play, Pretense, and Story Susan Douglas, Lesley Stirling, 2015-12-21 At the heart of this volume is the recognition that children's engagement with play and story are intrinsically and intricately linked The contributing authors share a passionate interest in the development and well being of children in particular through their use of imagination and adaptation of the everyday into play and stories Following these principles the volume explores the connections between play story and pretense with regard to many cultural and contextual factors that influence the way these elements vary in children's lives In a departure from earlier collections on play and story the authors take a particular focus on normative as compared with atypical development This collection begins with an approach to understanding the developmental relationship between play and story which recognizes their similarities while acknowledging their differences Much of the collection addresses pretend play and story in children with autism spectrum disorder an understudied but important group for consideration as these dimensions of their lives and development have often been considered problematic The volume also includes sections on play and story in classroom settings and play and story across cultures including non English speaking environments such as Israel Romania China and Mexico It concludes with a discussion of how play differs across sociocultural and economic contexts making a unifying claim for the importance of play in children s lives but also calling for an understanding of what play means to very different groups of children Baz Luhrmann Tom Ryan,2014-11-05 Though he has made only five films in two decades Strictly Ballroom William Shakespeare s Romeo Juliet and the Oscar nominated films Moulin Rouge Australia and The Great Gatsby Australian writer director Baz Luhrmann is an internationally known brand name His name has even entered the English language as a verb as in to Baz things up meaning to decorate them with an exuberant flourish Celebrated by some loathed by others his work is underscored by what has been described as an aesthetic of artifice and is notable for both its glittering surfaces and recurring concerns In this collection of interviews Luhrmann discusses his methods and his motives explaining what has been important to him and his collaborators from the start and how he has been able to maintain an independence from the studios that have backed his films He also speaks about his other artistic endeavors including stage productions of La Bohème and A Midsummer Night s Dream and his wife and collaborative partner Catherine Martin who has received two Academy Awards for her work with Luhrmann
