A moving, beautifully written biography. National Review. From the beginning, L. Brent Bozell seemed destined for great things. An extraordinary orator, the young man with fiery red hair won a national debate competition in high school and later was elected president of Yale's storied Political Union, where his debating partner was his close friend William F. Buckley Jr. In less than a decade after graduating from Yale, Bozell helped Buckley launch National Review, became a popular columnist and speaker, and most famously wrote Barry Goldwater's landmark book The Conscience of a Conservative. But after setting his sights on high political office, Bozell took a different route. In the 1960s, he abruptly moved his family to Spain, founded a traditional Catholic magazine, Triumph, that quickly turned radical, repudiated on religious grounds the U.S. Constitution, and made it his mission to transform America into a Catholic nation. He led the nation's first major anti-abortion protest, featuring a militant group known as the Sons of Thunder. He severed ties with his erstwhile friends from the conservative movement, including Buckley, who was also his brother-in-law. By the mid-1970s, Bozell had fallen prey to bipolar disorder and alcoholism, leading a life as if manacled to a roller coaster. Biographer Daniel Kelly tells Bozell's remarkable story vividly and with sensitivity in Living on Fire. To write this book, Kelly interviewed dozens of friends and family members and gained unprecedented access to Bozell's private correspondence. The result is a richly textured portrait of a gifted, complex man, his triumphs as well as his struggles.

Feeling Sick: The Early Years of AIDS in Spain Dean Allbritton,2023-04-15 An Open Access edition of this book is available on the Liverpool University Press website and the OAPEN library as part of the Opening the Future project with COPIM The earliest traceable accounts of the AIDS outbreak in Spain began to emerge during its political transition to democracy with small clusters of cases appearing as early as 1981 HIV AIDS would go on to shape Spain throughout its pivotal period as a fledgling democracy underpinning the cultural explosions of the Movida a sharp rise in intravenous drug use and the struggles of a coalescing LGBT community Feeling Sick The Early Years of HIV AIDS in Spain examines the cultural history of these early years of HIV AIDS in Spain as it has been told through television and print media ephemeral products of visual culture fiction film and the so called risk groups that lived through the epidemic The book draws on the work of Raymond Williams to characterize this emergent period within a structure of feeling sick and thus defined by discordant voices disagreement and meaning making in a period of history in formation Through close readings of Spanish visual culture and media alongside analysis of historical and medical documents it asserts that a structure of feeling sick begins to coalesce around the emergence of HIV AIDS and traces out a distinctive sense of living through history as it unfolds

By critically evaluating a selection of cultural materials this book claims that the earliest years of the HIV AIDS epidemic in Spain reveal common fears about global connectivity the proliferation of vulnerable ties to others and the potential of cultural and physical contaminations Ultimately Feeling Sick challenges the dominant narratives in which life and disease are seen as separate and unequal and in which illness is only destructive and devastating An Open Access edition of this book is available on the Liverpool University Press website and the OAPEN library as part of the Opening the Future project with COPIM
