Making Customers Count:

CUSTOMER SEGMENTATION, CLUSTERING, AND PREDICTION WITH PYTHON Vivian Siahaan, Rismon Hasiholan Sianipar, 2023-07-04 In this book we conducted a customer segmentation clustering and prediction analysis using Python We began by exploring the customer dataset examining its structure and contents The dataset contained various features such as demographic behavioral and transactional attributes To ensure accurate analysis and modeling we performed data preprocessing steps This involved handling missing values removing duplicates and addressing any data quality issues that could impact the results We also split the dataset into features X and the target variable y for prediction tasks Since the dataset had features with different scales and units we applied feature scaling techniques This process standardized or normalized the data ensuring that all features contributed equally to the analysis We then performed regression analysis on the PURCHASESTRX feature which represents the number of purchase transactions made by customers To begin the regression analysis we first prepared the dataset by handling missing values removing duplicates and addressing any data quality issues We then split the dataset into features X and the target variable y with PURCHASESTRX being the target variable for regression We selected appropriate regression algorithms for modeling such as Linear Regression Random Forest Na ve Bayes KNN Decision Trees Support Vector Ada Boost Catboost Gradient Boosting Extreme Gradient Boosting Light Gradient Boosting and Multi Layer Perceptron regressors After training and evaluation we analyzed the performance of the regression models We examined the metrics to determine how accurately the models predicted the number of purchase transactions made by customers A lower MAE and RMSE indicated better predictive performance while a higher R2 score indicated a higher proportion of variance explained by the model Based on the analysis we provided insights and recommendations These could include identifying factors that significantly influence the number of purchase transactions understanding customer behavior patterns or suggesting strategies to increase customer engagement and transaction frequency Next we focused on customer segmentation using unsupervised machine learning techniques K means clustering algorithm was employed to group customers into distinct segments The optimal number of clusters was determined using KElbowVisualizer To gain insights into the clusters we visualized them 3D space Dimensionality PCA reduction technique was used to plot the clusters on scatter plots or 3D plots enabling us to understand their separations and distributions We then interpreted the segments by analyzing their characteristics This involved identifying the unique features that differentiated one segment from another We also pinpointed the key attributes or behaviors that contributed most to the formation of each segment In addition to segmentation we performed clusters prediction tasks using supervised machine learning techniques Algorithms such as Logistic Regression Random Forest Na ve Bayes KNN Decision Trees Support Vector Ada Boost Gradient Boosting Extreme Gradient Boosting Light Gradient Boosting and Multi Layer Perceptron Classifiers were chosen based on the specific problem The models were trained on the training dataset and evaluated using the test dataset To evaluate the performance of the prediction models various metrics such as accuracy precision recall F1 score and ROC AUC were utilized for classification tasks Summarizing the findings and insights obtained from the analysis we provided recommendations and actionable insights These insights could be used for marketing strategies product improvement or customer retention initiatives

Making Customers Count David Clutterbuck, Sue Kernaghan, 1991 Making Customers Count started as a collection of case studies of companies which had introduced programmes of customer care But what began as an attempt to identify best practice rapidly became an intensive study of why the majority of customer care schemes go wrong and most importantly how to ensure that schemes do succeed

The Top Books of the Year Making Customers Count The year 2023 has witnessed a noteworthy surge in literary brilliance, with numerous captivating novels enthralling the hearts of readers worldwide. Lets delve into the realm of popular books, exploring the captivating narratives that have captivated audiences this year. The Must-Read : Colleen Hoovers "It Ends with Us" This heartfelt tale of love, loss, and resilience has captivated readers with its raw and emotional exploration of domestic abuse. Hoover expertly weaves a story of hope and healing, reminding us that even in the darkest of times, the human spirit can prevail. Uncover the Best : Taylor Jenkins Reids "The Seven Husbands of Evelyn Hugo" This intriguing historical fiction novel unravels the life of Evelyn Hugo, a Hollywood icon who defies expectations and societal norms to pursue her dreams. Reids absorbing storytelling and compelling characters transport readers to a bygone era, immersing them in a world of glamour, ambition, and self-discovery. Making Customers Count : Delia Owens "Where the Crawdads Sing" This mesmerizing coming-of-age story follows Kya Clark, a young woman who grows up alone in the marshes of North Carolina. Owens crafts a tale of resilience, survival, and the transformative power of nature, entrancing readers with its evocative prose and mesmerizing setting. These popular novels represent just a fraction of the literary treasures that have emerged in 2023. Whether you seek tales of romance, adventure, or personal growth, the world of literature offers an abundance of engaging stories waiting to be discovered. The novel begins with Richard Papen, a bright but troubled young man, arriving at Hampden College. Richard is immediately drawn to the group of students who call themselves the Classics Club. The club is led by Henry Winter, a brilliant and charismatic young man. Henry is obsessed with Greek mythology and philosophy, and he quickly draws Richard into his world. The other members of the Classics Club are equally as fascinating. Bunny Corcoran is a wealthy and spoiled young man who is always looking for a good time. Charles Tavis is a quiet and reserved young man who is deeply in love with Henry. Camilla Macaulay is a beautiful and intelligent young woman who is drawn to the power and danger of the Classics Club. The students are all deeply in love with Morrow, and they are willing to do anything to please him. Morrow is a complex and mysterious figure, and he seems to be manipulating the students for his own purposes. As the students become more involved with Morrow, they begin to commit increasingly dangerous acts. The Secret History is a exceptional and thrilling novel that will keep you wondering until the very end. The novel is a warning tale about the dangers of obsession and the power of evil.
