behind on objects and believes that most of them need to be handled extremely carefully and if at all possible destroyed The harmless ones she sells at Vancouver's Chinatown Night Market to scrape together a living but even that fills her with trepidation Meanwhile in another part of town Harriet hoards thousands of these treasures and is starting to make her neighbors sick as the overabundance of heightened emotions start seeping through her apartment walls When the two women meet Harriet knows that Ev is the only person who can help her make something truly spectacular of her collection A museum of memory that not only feels warm and inviting but can heal the emotional wounds many people unknowingly carry around They only know of one other person like them and they fear the dark effects these objects had on him Together they help each other to develop and control their gift so that what happened to him never happens again But unbeknownst to them the same darkness is wrapping itself around another dragging them down a path that already destroyed Ev's family once and threatens to annihilate what little she has left The Memory Collectors casts the everyday in a new light speaking volumes to the hold that our past has over us contained at times in seemingly innocuous objects and uncovering a truth that both women have tried hard to bury with their pasts not all magpies collect shiny things sometimes they gather darkness

Craig, 2010-07-19 Cinema After Fascism considers how postwar European films glance ambivalently backward from the postwar period to the fascist era and delves into issues of gender certainties and spectatorship In this period of film familiar structures of epistemology and historiography reappear as ghostly imprints on postwar celluloid and the remnants of fascist subjectivity walk the streets of postwar cities Through new perspectives on the films of Roberto Rossellini Billy Wilder Carol Reed Alain Resnais and Marguerite Duras this book examines the ways in which filmmakers acknowledge the fascist past Siobhan S Craig reveals that the attempts to reconfigure the idioms of cinema are never fully naturalized and remain highly precarious constructions

Anthony Lockwood's story is at the heart of the Georgian Navy though the man himself has never taken centre stage in its history His naval career described by himself as twenty five years incessant peregrination followed a somewhat erratic course but almost exactly spanned the period of the French wars and the War of 1812 Lockwood was commended for bravery in action against the French was present at the Spithead Mutiny shipwrecked and imprisoned in France appointed master attendant of the naval yard at Bridgetown Barbados during the year the slave trade was abolished and served as an hydrographer before beginning his three year marine survey of Nova Scotia and the Bay of Fundy Against the odds he managed to finesse a treasury appointment as Surveyor General of New Brunswick and became the right hand man of the Governor General Smyth Deeply ingrained in his character however was a democratic determination that was out of step with the authoritarian character of the Navy and the aristocratic one of New Brunswick His expectation of social justice verged on madness and when he finally succumbed to lunacy it was in the defence of democracy The turbulence of the times inspired Lockwood to stage a one man coup d'etat which ended with him being jailed and shipped back to London to live out his days as a pensioner and mental patient Truly a dramatic rise and a tragic fall Twice In A Lifetime Clare Lydon, 2018-01-27 Summer on Seashell
