Non-Violence Domenico Losurdo, 2015-04-09 We know of the blood and tears provoked by the projects of transformation of the world through war or revolution Starting from the essay published in 1921 by Walter Benjamin twentieth century philosophy has been committed to the criticism of violence even when it has claimed to follow noble ends But what do we know of the dilemmas of the betrayals of the disappointments and tragedies which the movement of non violence has suffered This book tells a fascinating history from the American Christian organizations in the first decades of the nineteenth century who wanted to eliminate slavery and war in a non violent way to the protagonists of movements Thoreau Tolstoy Gandhi Capitini M L King the Dalai Lama who either for idealism or for political calculation flew the flag of non violence up to the leaders of today s color revolutions

Tibetan Buddhists in the Making of Modern China Gray Tuttle, 2005-04-26 Over the past century and with varying degrees of success China has tried to integrate Tibet into the modern Chinese nation state In this groundbreaking work Gray Tuttle reveals the surprising role Buddhism and Buddhist leaders played in the development of the modern Chinese state and in fostering relations between Tibet and China from the Republican period 1912 1949 to the early years of Communist rule Beyond exploring interactions between Buddhists and politicians in Tibet and China Tuttle offers new insights on the impact of modern ideas of nationalism race and religion in East Asia After the fall of the Qing dynasty in 1911 the Chinese Nationalists without the traditional religious authority of the Manchu Emperor promoted nationalism and racial unity in an effort to win support among Tibetans. Once this failed, Chinese politicians appealed to a shared Buddhist heritage. This shift in policy reflected the late nineteenth century academic notion of Buddhism as a unified world religion rather than a set of competing and diverse Asian religious practices. While Chinese politicians hoped to gain Tibetan loyalty through religion, the promotion of a shared Buddhist heritage allowed Chinese Buddhists and Tibetan political and religious leaders to pursue their goals. During the 1930s and 1940s, Tibetan Buddhist ideas and teachers enjoyed tremendous popularity within a broad spectrum of Chinese society and especially among marginalized Chinese Buddhists. Even when relationships between the elite leadership between the two nations broke down, religious and cultural connections remained strong. After the Communists seized control, they continued to exploit this link when exerting control over Tibet by force in the 1950s. And despite being an avowedly atheist regime, with the exception of the Cultural Revolution, the Chinese communist government has continued to recognize and support many elements of Tibetan religious, if not political, culture. Tuttle's study explores the role of Buddhism in the formation of modern China and its relationship to Tibet through the lives of Tibetan and Chinese Buddhists and politicians, and by drawing on previously unexamined archival and governmental materials as well as personal memoirs of Chinese politicians and Buddhist monks and ephemera from religious ceremonies.

War in Modern China Harold M. Tanner, 2025-09-30. This book offers comprehensive coverage of China's military history from the Qing dynasty (1644-1912) to present. China has become one of the great world powers of the twenty-first century. As a result, Chinese leaders and observers outside of China alike seek to explain China's strategic thought and action. In doing so, they routinely refer to China's military history. This volume examines this history beginning with the Qing dynasty's era of imperial expansion and subsequent decline, continuing with the wars against foreign aggression and internal uprisings of the nineteenth century, the revolutionary overthrow of the Qing in 1911, and seemingly constant wars of the first half of the twentieth century, and concluding with the Chinese Communist Party's use of military power from 1950 to present. This history is generally presented as a narrative of imperial greatness followed by a century of national humiliation, followed by a recovery of national wealth and power under Communist Party leadership. While acknowledging this narrative, Harold Tanner digs deeper to reveal a fundamental continuity of interests underlying Chinese strategic thinking from the Qing to the present, while also showing how the theory and practice of war in China changed over time as Chinese political and military leaders wrestled with tremendous challenges, drawing on foreign sources as well as their own cultural heritage to seek new solutions. Both engaging and timely, War in Modern China: A Military History is essential reading for students, scholars, and enthusiasts of Chinese and global military history.

construction of narratives and policies capable of convincing Tibetans of their membership in a wider political community As Weiner shows however early efforts to gradually and organically transform a vast multiethnic empire into a singular nation state lost out to a revolutionary impatience demanding more immediate paths to national integration and socialist transformation This led in 1958 to communization then to large scale rebellion and its brutal pacification Rather than joining voluntarily Amdo was integrated through the widespread often indiscriminate use of violence a violence that lingers in the living memory of Amdo Tibetans and others
