Making Of Pakistan:

The Making of Pakistan Khursheed Kamal Aziz, 1967 The Making of Pakistan Khursheed Kamal Aziz, 1967 The Making of Pakistan Richard Symonds, 1976 Empire and Islam David Gilmartin, 1988 The tensions inherent in the structure and ideology of colonial organization thus provide the backdrop for the study Gilmartin's extensive use of private papers, biographies and autobiographies of prominent as well as less prominent political leaders helps give this study a balanced viewpoint. He also draws on a range of popular and private Urdu materials that lend the book an authentic voice.

Economic Factors in the Making of Pakistan (1921-1947) Naureen Talha, 2000 This book traces the economic history of the Muslims from the fall of the Mughal Empire to Independence. It shows how, with the coming of the British, a new economic structure emerged in the Indian subcontinent under which the Muslims lost not only their political power but also their economic standing, and then shows how fear of continued economic deprivation fueled the demand for Partition.

Jinnah, Linlithgow and the Making of Pakistan Tilak Raj Sareen, 2010-01-01 During the last sixty years, historians have made efforts to explain the circumstances which led to the making of Pakistan. There is no dearth of those who have blamed the Indian National Congress and its leaders for its creation. The burden of evidence, however, suggests that it was Jinnah, President of All India Muslim League, who got direct and indirect support from the Viceroy when the war began for achieving his aim of making a separate homeland for the Muslims. In this volume, the author has shown, by documentary evidence, as to how this was achieved by Jinnah. The documents collected from archival repositories in India and abroad shed considerable light on what transpired between Jinnah and Lord Linlithgow when the war started and how both conspired to prepare a separate scheme to counter the claim of the Congress, which became the basis of Pakistan. The documents also reveal how keen was the Viceroy that the scheme should be unanimously approved by the Muslim League at its Lahore Session in March 1940. For cooperation with the British during the war, Jinnah was given the assurance that in any constitutional change in India during or after the war, the Muslims will have the right to decide their own destiny, as per the Lahore or also known as the Pakistan Resolution. With an introduction and explanatory notes, the author has done a commendable job of placing the
