Oxford Guide To Literature In English Translation:

The Oxford Guide to Literature in English Translation Peter France, 2000 Translation has been a crucial process in world culture over the past two millennia and more. In the English speaking cultures many of the most important texts are translations from Homer to Beckett, the Bible to Freud. Although recent years have seen a boom in translation studies, there has been no comprehensive yet convenient guide to this essential element of literature in English. Written by eminent scholars from many countries, the Oxford Guide to Literature in English Translation meets this need and will be essential reading for all students of English and comparative literature. It highlights the place of translation in our culture, encouraging awareness of the issues raised, making the translator more visible. Concentrating on major writers and works, it covers translations out of many languages from Greek to Korean, from Swahili to Russian. For some works, e.g. Virgil's Aeneid, which have been much translated, the discussion is historical and critical, showing how translation has evolved over the centuries and bringing out the differences between versions. Elsewhere, with less familiar literatures, the Guide examines the extent to which translation has done justice to the range of work available. The Guide is divided into two parts. Part I contains substantial essays on theoretical questions, a pioneering outline of the history of translation into English, and discussions of the problems raised by specific types of text, e.g. poetry, oral literature. The second, much longer part consists of entries grouped by language of origin; some are devoted to individual texts, e.g. the Thousand and One Nights, or writers, e.g. Ibsen, Proust, but the majority offer a critical overview of a genre, e.g. Chinese poetry, Spanish Golden Age drama, or of a national literature, e.g. Hungarian, Scottish Gaelic. There is a selective bibliography for each entry and an index of authors and translators.

The Oxford Guide to Literature in English Translation Peter France, 2000 The Oxford Guide to Literature in English Translation Peter France, 2005 Literary Translation Ida Klitgaard, 2006 This volume of Angles on the English Speaking World discusses the intriguing inter-relatedness between the concepts and phenomena of world literature and translation. The term worlding, presented by Stru Eysteinnsson in this collection, is coined by Sarah Lawell in her book Reading World Literature 1994, where it denotes the reader's pleasurable reading of the meeting of worlds in a literary translation, i.e. the meeting of the different cultural environments embodied in a translation from one language into another. Through such reading, the reader in fact participates in creating true world literature. This is a somewhat unorthodox conception of world literature conventionally defined as great literature shelved in a majestic canonical library In the opening article sparking off the theme of this collection Eysteinsson asks Which text does the concept of world literature refer to It can hardly allude exclusively to the original which the majority of the work's readers may never get to know On the other hand it hardly refers to the various translations as seen apart from the original It seems to have a crucial bearing on the border between the two and on the very idea that the work merits the move across this linguistic and cultural border to reside in more than two languages Picking up on this question at issue all the essays in this collection throw light on the problematic mechanics of cultural encounters when reading the world in literary translation i e in the texts themselves as well as in the ways in which they have become institutionalised as world literature Routledge Handbook of East Asian Translation Ruselle Meade, Claire Shih, Kyung Hye Kim, 2024-09-05 Routledge Handbook of East Asian Translation showcases new research and developments in translation studies within the East Asian context This handbook draws attention to the diversity of scholarship on translation in East Asia and its relevance to a variety of established and emerging fields It focuses on hitherto less explored interactions such as intra Asian translation encounters translation of minority languages and translation between East Asian and non European languages while also contributing to a thriving body of historical scholarship on East Asian translation traditions Contributions reflect a growing awareness of the cultural and linguistic heterogeneity within nations and the reality of multilingualism and plurilingualism among many communities in East Asia A wide variety of translatorial practices are discussed including the creative use of Chinese in Japanese language novels the use of translation to evade censorship online community theatre translation and translation of picture books The volume also includes contributions by practitioners who reflect on their experiences of translation and of developing training programmes for community interpreters This handbook will appeal to researchers and students of translation and interpreting studies Chapters are likely to be of value to those working not only in East Asian studies but also disciplines such as literary studies global cultural studies and LGBT studies Routledge Encyclopedia of Translation Studies Mona Baker, Gabriela Saldanha, 2019-09-20 The Routledge Encyclopedia of Translation Studies remains the most authoritative reference work for students and scholars interested in engaging with the phenomenon of translation in all its modes and in relation to a wide range of theoretical and methodological traditions This new edition provides a considerably expanded and updated revision of what appeared as Part I in the first and second editions Featuring 132 as opposed to the 75 entries in Part I of the second edition it offers authoritative critical overviews of additional topics such as authorship canonization conquest cosmopolitanism crowdsourced translation dubbing fan audiovisual translation genetic criticism healthcare interpreting hybridity intersectionality legal interpreting media interpreting memory multimodality nonprofessional interpreting note taking orientalism paratexts thick translation war and world literature Each entry ends with a set of annotated references for further reading Entries no longer appearing in this edition including historical overviews that previously appeared as Part II

Eurocentrism, Qur'anic Translation and Decoloniality Ahd Othman, 2024-05-22 Eurocentrism Qur anic Translation and Decoloniality contributes to the understanding of Eurocentrism in Translation Studies and engages with the concept through the lens of scholarship on Arabic and Qur an translation This book calls for a deeper consideration of Eurocentrism as essential for several debates in the discipline including its scientific character and future development It claims that the angle of Arabic and Qur an translation is a valuable and nearly unexploited area where tensions in translation scholarship can play out in revealing ways The book also draws connections between Eurocentrism Qur an translation and decolonial thought in order to highlight decoloniality as a useful framework for imagining a post Eurocentric discipline The book will appeal to scholars and postgraduate students and researchers interested in Translation Studies particularly within the areas of Arabic Qur anic Islamic and religious translation
