Dykes, Mark Mulligan, John Wainwright, 2015-07-16 The Times Obituaries 4 August 2008 reported that John Thornes was one of the most eminent and influential physical geographers of his generation John's keen interest in understanding landform processes and evolution was furthered through a variety of methods and informed across a range of disciplinary boundaries In particular he pushed for better integration of monitoring theoretical and simulation modelling field and laboratory experimentation and remote sensing techniques Although dominated by an interest in the Mediterranean region and problems of land degradation his research activities ranged across a number of time scales and with other environmental perspectives This collection of papers reflects this wide range of John's interests through the recent work of scientists and professionals most strongly influenced by his rigorous training or leadership The thematic focus of the book which runs through all of the main contributions is the integration of different methodologies and the application of this approach to improved understanding of natural systems and the development of appropriate strategies for environmental and resource management Short overviews of John's contributions to geomorphological research are also presented to provide context for the origins of this book Resources in Education, 1987-04 Counter Revanchist Art in the Global City Leah Modigliani, 2023-08-31 Through analyses of public artworks that have taken the form of blockades and barricades since the 1990s this book theorises artists' responses to global inequities as cultural manifestations of counter revanchism in diverse urban centres This book is the first to analyse artworks as forms of counter revanchism in the context of the rise of the global city How do artists channel the global spatial conflicts of the 21st century through their behaviours actions and constructions in and on the actually existing conditions of the street What does it mean for artists the very symbol of freedom of personal expression to shut down space To refuse entry To block others' passage The late critical geographer Neil Smith's influential writing on the revanchist city is used as a theoretical frame for understanding how contemporary artists engender the public sphere through their work in public urban spaces Each chapter is a case study that analyses artworks that have taken the form of walls and barricades in China USA UK Ukraine and Mexico In doing so the author draws upon diverse fields including art history geography philosophy political science theatre studies and urban studies to situate the art in a broader context of the humanities with the aim of modelling interdisciplinary research grounded in an ethics of solidarity with global social justice work Collectively these case studies reveal how artists' local responses to urban revanchism since the end of the Cold War are productive reorientations of social relations and harbingers of worlds to come By using plain language and avoiding excessive academic jargon the book is accessible to a wide variety of readers It will appeal to scholars and graduate students in the fields of studio art modern and contemporary art history performance studies visual culture and visual studies especially in relation to those interested in conceptual practices performance art site specificity public art political activism and socially engaged art Cultural geographers and urban theorists interested in the social and political ramifications of temporary and everyday urbanism will also find the analysis of artworks relevant to their own studies
