Pull No More Bines Gilda O'Neill, 1990 Pull No More Bines Gilda O'Neill, 1990 Working-Class Organisations and Popular Tourism, 1840-1970 Susan Barton, 2005-05-20 Today many people take the idea of holidays for granted and regard the provision of paid time off as a right This book argues that popular tourism has its roots in collective organisation and charts the development of the working class holiday over two centuries This study recounts how short unpaid and often unauthorised periods of leave from work became organised and legitimised through legislation culminating with the Holidays with Pay Act of 1938 Moreover this study finds that it was through collective activity by workers through savings clubs friendly societies and union activity that the working class were originally able to take holidays and it was as a result of collective bargaining and campaigning that paid holidays were eventually secured for all When the Girls Come Out to Play Katharine Milcoy, 2017-09-07 Filling a long standing gap both in women's history and in the material history of class culture this book is a unique and necessary reassessment of the social and cultural scene during the inter war period in England By combing over the everyday practices of working class girls in 1920s and 30s England including a sharp focus on Bermondsey south east London and oral testimony from women who grew up in the period Milcoy demonstrates the persistence and ingenuity with which these teenagers gained access to the commercial leisure culture of the day from hairstyles and fashionable dress to films music and dances She shows how this access had a startling ripple effect transforming the way young women rehearsed and contested their identities so that play rather than work became the primary mechanism for defining subjectivity and constructing femininity When the Girls Come Out to Play is a refreshing and nuanced take on the social and cultural history of England between the World Wars British Working Class women authors (born before 1962) a list Stefan Szczelkun , 2025-06-07 A collection of Wikipedia articles edited reformatted and with additions In chronological order References and sections on non literary activity are sometimes omitted hopefully not to the point of misrepresenting the author which might include feminist or political activism To my surprise the biographical material on Wikipedia was sometimes mesmerising although it was uneven Where there were gaps I have tried to fill them from other sources Refer back to the wikipedia articles for more context and references in some cases and if you have a verified source of information please update the Wikipedia article Wikipedia is published under a creative commons licence So this compilation also carries a creative commons licence Introduction Looking through Sarah Richardson's Writing on the Line 1996 I was struck by how many of the working class women writers were from North America and how many more were poets Howard Slater had made a list of British working class male novelists and I selected British woman writers from Writing on the Line and found that most of them now have Wikipedia pages I first made a list of links Wanting to take this further I first looked to focus on novels and short story writers but this category started to break up as many writers wrote in many idioms producing fact fiction poetry plays screenwriting and journalism I decided on an arbitrary cut off point of writers born before 1962 When I first made the list I was thinking how few working class women novelists had been published in this period But then the lists of books by each author started to stack up and there s plenty to read and much that I missed even really hearing about Of course it focuses on the most successful others who produced a community published autobiography or self published novel did not get a Wikipedia page and they should really be included every life counts Others only published an autobiography perhaps in the last years of life but were extraordinary writers and people We could also discuss the genre snobbery in literary circles that puts crime young peoples literature romantic and fantasy fiction and perhaps historical based narratives in a lower category than the novel

Rhythms of Labour Marek Korczynski, Michael Pickering, Emma Robertson, 2013-04-25 Whether for weavers at the handloom labourers at the plough or factory workers on the assembly line music has often been a key texture in people s working lives This book is the first to explore the rich history of music at work in Britain and charts the journey from the singing cultures of pre industrial occupations to the impact and uses of the factory radio via the silencing effect of industrialisation The first part of the book discusses how widespread cultures of singing at work were in pre industrial manual occupations The second and third parts of the book show how musical silence reigned with industrialisation until the carefully controlled introduction of Music while You Work in the 1940s Continuing the analysis to the present day Rhythms of Labour explains how workers have clung to and reclaimed popular music on the radio in desperate and creative ways

Gypsies and Travellers in Housing Smith, David M., Greenfields, Margaret, 2013-07-17 This original and timely text is the first published research from the UK to address the neglected topic of the increasing and largely enforced settlement of Gypsies and Travellers in conventional housing It highlights the complex and emergent tensions and dynamics inherent when policy and popular discourse combine to frame ethnic populations within a narrative of movement The authors have extensive knowledge of the communities and experience as policy practitioners and researchers and consider the changing culture and dynamics experienced by ethnic Gypsies and Travellers They explore the gendered social health and economic impacts of settlement and demonstrate the tenacity of cultural formations and their adaptability in the face of policy driven constraints that are antithetical to traditional lifestyles The groundbreaking book is essential reading for policy makers professionals and practitioners working with housed Gypsies and Travellers It will also be of interest to sociologists anthropologists social policy and housing specialists and anybody interested in the experiences and responses of marginalized communities in urban and rural settings Royalties for this book are to be divided equally between the Gypsy Council and Travellers Aid Trust
