

A LIFE OF PURE IMMANENCE

DELEUZE'S "CRITIQUE ET CLINIQUE" PROJECT

Daniel W. Smith

The critical (in the literary sense) and the clinical (in the medical sense) may be destined to enter into a new relationship of mutual learning.¹

Although Essays Critical and Clinical is the only book written by Gilles Deleuze that is devoted primarily to literature, literary references are present everywhere in his work, running parallel, almost, to the philosophical references. These include the books on Proust, Masoch, and Kafka; the long essays on Bene and Beckett and Bene; the chapter in Dialogues "On the Superiority of Anglo-American Literature"; and the profuse literary references in The Logic of Sense and Capitalism and Schizophrenia.

What role do these literary analyses play in Deleuze's philosophical oeuvre? In What is Philosophy, Deleuze and Guattari define philosophy as an activity that consists in the creation of concepts. But philosophy, they add, necessarily enters into variable relations with other domains such as science, medicine, and art. For art is an equally creative enterprise of thought, but one whose object is to create sensible aggregates rather than concepts. Great artists and authors are also great thinkers, but they think in terms of percepts and affects rather than concepts: painters think in terms of lines and colors, musicians think in sounds, film-makers think in images, writers think in words, and so on. Neither activity has any privilege over the other: creating a concept is neither more difficult nor more abstract than creating new visual, sonorous, or verbal combinations; and conversely, it is no easier to read an image, painting, or novel than it is to comprehend a concept. Philosophy, Deleuze insists, cannot be undertaken independently of science and art; it always enters into relations of mutual resonance and exchange with these other domains, though for reasons that are always internal to philosophy itself.²

Deleuze therefore writes on the arts not as a critic but as a philosopher, and his books and essays on the various arts, and on various artists and authors, must be read, as he himself says, as works of "philosophy, nothing but philosophy, in the traditional sense of the word."³ The cinema, for instance, produces images that move, and that move in time, and it is these two aspects of film that Deleuze set out to analyze in The Movement-Image and The Time-Image: "What exactly does the cinema show us about space and time that the other arts don't show?"⁴ Deleuze describes his two-volume study of the cinema as "a book of logic, a logic of the cinema" that sets out "to isolate certain cinematographic concepts," concepts that are specific to the cinema, but that can only be formed philosophically.⁵ Francis Bacon: The Logic of Sensation likewise creates a series of philosophical concepts, each of which relates to a particular aspect of Bacon's paintings, but which also finds a place in "a general logic of sensation."⁶ Essays Critical and Clinical must therefore be evaluated in the same manner, that is, in terms of the concepts Deleuze extracts from the literary works he examines. But if the Cinema volumes deal primarily with space and time, and Francis Bacon with the nature of sensation, Deleuze's writings on literature, it seems to me, are primarily linked with the problematic of Life. "You have seen what is essential for me," Deleuze wrote to one of his commentators, "this 'vitalism' or a conception of life as a non-organic power."⁷

For Deleuze, Life is an impersonal power that goes beyond one's personal life or lived experience, and writing itself, he says, is "a passage of Life that traverses both the livable and the lived."⁸ In one of the last essays he published before his suicide in November 1995, entitled "Immanence: A Life . . .", Deleuze wrote of a scene from Charles Dickens' Our Mutual Friend. A rogue despised by everyone is brought in on the verge of death, and the people tending to him suddenly manifest a kind of respect and love for the least sign of life in the dying Dickens writes: "No one has the least regard for the man; with them all, he has been an object of avoidance, suspicion, and aversion; but the Art and Future Peter Stupples, Jane Venis, 2018-04-18 This selection of essays examines the future of art in a changing world In particular contributors discuss the agency of art in conditions of ecological threats to the natural world to climate change and the effects of globalisation neoliberal economics and mass tourism Following the lead of Chicago based Frances Whitehead whose essay is a key text some contributors take positions on working with local government agencies to embed art thinking within development projects going back to the art thinking at the centre of Kazimir Malevich s work in Vitebsk one hundred years ago in Russia Other papers highlight small scale art interventions that bring ecological issues to public notice and suggest positive responses whilst others discuss large scale problems brought about by the social economic and laissez faire history of the emerging Anthropocene with possible dystopic outcomes

Music and Transcendence Ferdia J. Stone-Davis, 2016-03-03 Music and Transcendence explores the ways in which music relates to transcendence by bringing together the disciplines of musicology philosophy and theology thereby uncovering congruencies between them that have often been obscured Music has the capacity to take one outside of oneself and place one in relation to that which is other This other can be conceived in an absolute sense insofar as music can be thought to place the self in relation to a divine other beyond the human frame of existence However the other can equally well be conceived in an immanent or secular sense as music is a human activity that relates to other cultural practices Music here places the self in relation to other people and to the world more generally shaping how the world is understood without any reference to a God or gods The book examines how music has not only played a significant role in many philosophical and theological accounts of the nature of existence and the self but also provides a valuable resource for the creation of meaning on a day to day basis

Empire's New Clothes Paul Passavant, Jodi Dean, 2004-08-02 The publication of Empire last year created a sensation that spread from academia to the media to cocktail party buzz A book that causes such a scholarly commotion comes along only once every decade or so wrote the New York Times as the book's radical vision of imperial power in the new millennium sparked both histrionic condemnation and serious academic engagement After September 11 this discussion of Empire's political and legal theories was closely linked with the struggle to redefine America's place in a changed world The book was read as a diagnosis of our era and a call for liberatory action while Michael Hardt was acclaimed as the next Jacques Derrida Framing the debate about this landmark work The Empire's New Clothes brings together leading scholars to make sense of Empire's new vocabulary and tackle its claims head on Does the author's vision accurately describe the power structure of today's world Do the processes of globalization today represent a fundamental break from the past Is the book really a communist manifesto for the new age Empire's New Clothes investigates these and other key issues giving academics students and lay readers a handle on a work that touches the most vital themes of current political social and economic life

Human Rights After Deleuze Christos Marneros, 2022-11-03 This book examines the possibility of creating new ways of existing beyond human rights Multiple socio political crises and the dominance of neoliberal and capitalist policies have led legal and political theorists to question the emancipatory promise of human rights and to reconceptualise human rights in theory and practice The possibility of creating new ways of existing beyond human rights has been left significantly under examined until now Having as its starting point the ferocious yet brief critique on human rights of one of the most prominent French philosophers of the 20th century Gilles Deleuze the book argues that Deleuze's critique is not only compatible with his broader thought but that it has the potential to give a new impetus to the current critiques of human rights within the disciplinary borders of legal and political theory The book draws upon Deleuze's broader thought but also radical legal and political theory and continental philosophy In particular it investigates and expands on two of Deleuze's most important notions namely those of immanence and becoming and their relation to the philosopher's critique of human rights In doing so it argues that these two notions are capable of questioning the dominant and dogmatic position that human rights enjoy

The Lure of Whitehead Nicholas Gaskill, A. J. Nocek, 2014-10-01 Once largely ignored the speculative philosophy of Alfred North Whitehead has assumed a new prominence in contemporary theory across the humanities and social sciences Philosophers and artists literary critics and social theorists anthropologists and computer scientists have all embraced Whitehead's thought extending it through inquiries into the nature of life the problem of consciousness and the ontology of objects as well as into experiments in education and digital media The Lure of Whitehead offers readers not only a comprehensive introduction to Whitehead's philosophy but also a demonstration of how his work advances our emerging understanding of life in the posthuman epoch Contributors Jeffrey A Bell Southeastern Louisiana U Nathan Brown U of California Davis Peter Canning Didier Debaise Free U of Brussels Roland Faber Claremont Lincoln U Michael Halewood U of Essex Graham Harman American U in Cairo Bruno Latour Sciences Po Paris Erin Manning Concordia U Montreal Steven Meyer Washington U Luciana Parisi U of London Keith Robinson U of Arkansas at Little Rock Isabelle Stengers Free U of Brussels James Williams U of Dundee

The Testimony of Sense Tim Milnes, 2019 This book offers a new account of the relationship between empiricism and the essay in the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries Exploring topics such as trust testimony virtue and language it offers new perspectives on connections between philosophy and literature empiricism and transcendentalism and Enlightenment and Romanticism

Virtual Diaspora, Postcolonial Literature and Feminism Ashmita Khasnabish, 2022-12-16 This book analyses the resolution of the psychic problem of diasporic existence from a postcolonial feminist perspective by inscribing and defining the meaning of virtual diaspora through the lens of the East India and the West It explores the situation that arises when one leaves one's country and becomes an emigrant immigrant which often causes pain both in the departure from one's motherland and in the adaptation to a new environment The book employs the theory of Deleuze and Guattari and explores the interstices of real and virtual diaspora and the aftermath of diaspora as a mental journey Adding a new interpretation of transcendence taken from the Indian perspective the book examines the Deleuze's theory of immanence and transcendence and the two major concepts of becoming and real virtual The book also examines the works of Helene Cixous J M Coetzee Jhumpa Lahiri Kunal Basu and Tagore in light of the concept of virtual diaspora and from a postcolonial feminist angle It does so by raising the following questions When one has emigrated to a different country can one conceive of that existence as real or virtual or both Do emigrants or diasporic individuals live a life of both real and virtual diaspora This comes from the idea that both real and virtual diaspora under different paradigms may be related to the power struggle and master slave dialectic that affects all of humanity A valuable addition to the study of postcolonial literature the book will also be of interest to researchers in the fields of diaspora studies postcolonial feminist theory postcolonial literature feminist philosophy interdisciplinary studies and Asian Studies in particular South Asian Studies Deleuze and Architecture Helene Frichot, 2013-05-20 Critiques the legacy and ongoing influence of Deleuze on the discipline and practice of architecture This collection looks critically at how Deleuze challenges architecture as a discipline how architecture contributes to philosophy and how we can come to understand the complex politics of space of our increasingly networked world Since the 1980s Deleuze's philosophy has fuelled a generation of architectural thinking and can be seen in the design of a global range of contemporary built environments His work has also alerted architecture to crucial ecological political and social problems that the discipline needs to reconcile Between System and Poetics Thomas A.F. Kelly, 2016-04-08 This is the first book length examination of the work of an important contemporary thinker in the continental tradition William Desmond His thought is a new post modern way of articulating what he calls the between Rooted in Plato and Augustine and advancing through a confrontation with Hegel and Nietzsche Desmond rejects facile scepticism and wins through to a strikingly original and powerfully searching articulation of the human The present volume contains essays on Desmond's work both by emerging scholars and by well established thinkers It also contains a specially written essay on the practices of philosophy by Desmond himself

Being of Two Minds Jonathan Goldberg, 2022-09-20 Being of Two Minds examines the place that early modern literature held in Modernist literary criticism For T S Eliot Virginia Woolf and William Empson the early modern period helps model a literary future At stake in their engagements across time were ontological questions about literature and its ability to mediate between the one and the many the particular and the general life and death the past and the present If reading and writing literature enables the mind to be in two places at once creative experience serves as a way to participate in an expanded field of consciousness alongside mortality Goldberg reads the readings that these modernists performed on texts that Eliot claimed for the canon like the metaphysical poets and Jacobean dramatists but also Shakespeare Milton Montaigne and Margaret Cavendish Ontological concerns are reflected in Eliot's engagement with Aristotle's theory of the soul and Empson's Buddhism These arguments about being affect minds and bodies and call into question sexual normativity Eliot glances at a sodomitical male male mode of literary transmission Woolf produces a Judith Shakespeare to model androgynous being Empson refuses to distinguish activity from passivity to rewrite gender difference The work of one of our leading literary and cultural critics Being of Two Minds spans centuries to show how the most compelling and surprising ideas about mind experience and existence not only move between early modernity high modernism and our own moment but are also constituted through that very movement between times and minds Honeyland Jaimie Baron, Kristen Fuhs, 2022-03-09 The fourth volume in the Docalogue series this book explores the significance of the documentary Honeyland 2019 in relation to documentary ethics the representation of human and animal relations environmental studies genre theory and documentary distribution The film focused on a Turkish speaking woman in Macedonia who cultivates bees to produce honey through an ancient and environmentally sustainable method raises important questions about the place of humans and economic activity within the broader ecosystem The documentary also prompts critical reflection about the relationship between observation and storytelling how the film festival circuit allows certain films to reach a wide audience the ethics of ethnographic representation the relationship between human and insect life and to what extent film can allow us to experience others life worlds By combining five distinct critical perspectives on a single documentary this book acts both as an intensive scholarly treatment of the film and as a guide for how to analyze theorize and contextualize a documentary text This book will be of interest to students and scholars of documentary studies as well as those studying film and media more broadly

The Contemporary Writer and Their Suicide Josefa Ros Velasco, 2023-07-05 This volume is the continuation of the book Suicide in Modern Literature edited by Josefa Ros Velasco Considering the positive reception of this book Ros Velasco launches the second part entitled The Contemporary Writer and their Suicide This time leading representatives of various disciplines analyze the literary philosophical and biographical works of contemporary writers worldwide who attempted to commit suicide or achieved their goal looking for covert and overt clues about their intentions in their writings This book aims to continue shedding light on the social and structural causes that lead to suicide and on the suicidal mind but also to show that people assiduous to writing usually reflect their intentions to commit suicide in their writings to explain how these frequently veiled intentions can be revealed and interpreted and to highlight the potential of artistic philosophical and autobiographical writing as a tool to detect suicidal ideation and prevent its consummation in vulnerable people This book analyzes several case studies and their allusions to their contexts and the socio structural and environmental violence and pressures they suffered expressions of their will and agency feelings of dislocation between the individual reality and existential alienation and literary styles writing techniques and metaphorical language

A Philosophy of Christian Materialism Christopher Baker, Thomas A. James, John Reader, 2016-03-09 A Philosophy of Christian Materialism offers a new religious engagement with the public sphere via means of interdisciplinary analysis and empirical examples developing what the authors call a Relational Christian Realism building upon interaction with contemporary Philosophy of Religion The book argues that the current discourse on public religion is inadequate in addressing the issues now to be faced including material religious practice in the sphere of education the growth of alternative political movements and the developing awareness of environmental concerns and urban social justice Key concepts that support this strategic analysis are entangled fidelities the form of a materialist religious practice the possibility of a relational Christian realism including new developments in how we interpret key categories of doctrine including God and creation salvation and humanity and the post secular public sphere including the emerging phenomenon of postsecular rapprochement namely the coming together of both religious and secular actors in methodologies and politics of pragmatism as well as ethical discourse for the sake of the public commons Co authored by theologians in both the USA and the UK this book represents an exciting contribution to philosophy and practice of religion on both sides of the Atlantic and aspires to be sufficiently interdisciplinary to also appeal to readerships engaged in the study of modern political and social trends
