nation by Aileen Christianson which explores the work of twentieth century Scottish and Irish women writers The book also explores masculinities in both English and Scottish writing from Berthold Schoene which deploys sexual difference as a means of testing postcolonial theorizing A different perspective on the notion of marginality is offered by addressing Englishness in relation to migrant writing in prose concerned with India and England after Independence The second part of the book focuses on a wide range of new poetry to question simplified margin centre relations It discusses a historicising perspective on the work of cultural studies and its responses to the relationship between ethnicity and second generation Irish musicians from Sean Campbell The comparison of contemporary Irish and Scottish fiction which identifies similarities and differences in recent developments is also considered In each instance the writers take on the task of examining and assessing points of connection and diversity across a particular body of work while moving away from contrasts which focus on an English norm
