Community Gerard Delanty, 2013-09-13 The increasing individualism of modern Western society has been accompanied by an enduring nostalgia for the idea of community as a source of security and belonging and in recent years as an alternative to the state as a basis for politics Gerard Delanty begins this stimulating introduction to the concept with an analysis of the origins of the idea of community in Western Utopian thought and as an imagined primitive state equated with traditional societies in classical sociology and anthropology He goes on to chart the resurgence of the idea within communitarian thought the complications and critiques of multiculturalism and its new manifestations within a society where new modes of communication produce both fragmentation and the possibilities of new social bonds Contemporary community he argues is essentially a communication community based on new kinds of belonging No longer bounded by place we are able to belong to multiple communities based on religion nationalism ethnicity life styles and gender

Governing Paradoxes of Restorative Justice George Pavlich, 2013-01-11 Restorative justice is the policy of eschewing traditional punishments in favour of group counselling involving both victims and perpetrators Until now there has been no critical analysis of governmental rationales that legitimize restorative practices over traditional approaches but Governing Practices of Restorative Justice fills this gap and addresses the mentalities of governance most prominent in restorative justice The author provides comprehensible commentary on the central images of this discursive arena in a style accessible to participants and observers alike of restorative justice 'I am Here', Abraham Said Nigel Rapport, 2024-04-01 Emmanuel Levinas's philosophical work on the Other offers a challenge to the discipline of anthropology that claims knowledge of the human For Levinas the secrecy of subjectivity a fundamental facet of the human condition demands an ethics of ignorance and not knowing the mystery of otherness is only to be approached through inspiration Can anthropology meet a Levinasian challenge if it would define itself as a science as well as a humanistic documentation of social life This book endeavours to take Levinasian and anthropological precepts equally seriously and offers a radical conclusion A Companion to Museum Studies Sharon Macdonald, 2011-08-24 A Companion to Museum Studies captures the multidisciplinary approach to the study of the development roles and significance of museums in contemporary society Collects first rate original essays by leading figures from a range of disciplines and theoretical stances including anthropology art history history literature sociology cultural studies and museum studies Examines the complexity of the museum from cultural political curatorial historical and representational perspectives Covers traditional subjects such as space display buildings objects and collecting and more contemporary challenges such as visiting commerce community and experimental exhibition forms Social Identity Richard Jenkins, 2004-08-02 Without social identity there is no human world Without frameworks of similarity and difference people would be unable to relate to each other in a consistent and meaningful fashion In the second edition of this highly successful text Richard Jenkins develops his argument that identity is both individual and collective and should therefore be considered within one analytic framework Using the work of major social theorists such as Mead Goffman and Barthes to explore the experience of identity in everyday life Jenkins considers a range of different issues including embodiment categorization and boundaries the institutionalizing of identities identity and modernity and the significance of identity in modernity Voluntas Militum: Community, Collective Action, and Popular Power in the Armies of the Middle Republic (300-100 BCE) Dominic M. Machado, 2023-06-20 Scholars military men and casual observers alike have devoted significant energy to understanding how the armies of the Roman Middle Republic 300 100 BCE were able to function so effectively examining their organization hierarchy recruitment tactics and ideology in close detail But what about the concerns interests and goals of the soldiers who powered it The present study argues that the military forces of the Middle Republic were not simply cogs in the Roman military machine but rather dynamic and diverse social units that played a key role in shaping an ever changing Mediterranean world Indeed the soldiers in the armies of this period not only developed connections with one another but also formed bonds with non military personnel who traveled with as well as inhabitants of the places where they campaigned The connections soldiers developed while on campaign gave them significant power and agency as a group Throughout the third and second centuries BCE soldiers took collective actions ranging from mutiny to defection to looting to ensure that their economic social and political interests were advanced and protected Recognizing the communities that Roman soldiers formed and the power that they exerted not only reframes our understanding of the Middle Republic and its armies but fundamentally alters how we conceptualize the turbulent years of the Late Republic and the massive social political and military changes that followed Community Identity and Archaeology Naoise Mac Sweeney, 2011-10-25 Community Identity and Archaeology explores the concept of community identity and its application in archaeology using the modern Turkish sites of Aphrodisias and Beycesultan as case studies to illustrate the formation and dissolution of communities over time The concept of the community is vital to the way we understand human societies both past and present and the last decade has seen widespread interest in communities from both the popular and academic spheres The concept is also central to archaeology where the relationship between sites and communities remains controversial Naoise Mac Sweeney aims to take the debate one step further setting out a comprehensive framework for the archaeological investigation of community identity encompassing theoretical approaches for its conceptualization practical methodologies for its investigation and detailed case studies in Anatolia to test and illustrate its arguments This book contributes to discussions in archaeological theory and material culture studies and is particularly relevant to archaeologists working on different types of cultural identity Community Identity and Archaeology's readership will include undergraduate and graduate students as well as academic specialists In addition the book contains material of direct historical interest for Classics and Near Eastern departments It includes valuable new research relevant for those working on Aegean Mycenaean or Early Greek antiquity as well as specialists in Anatolia including scholars working on the Hittite Phrygian and Lydian empires Weaving Women's Spheres in Vietnam, 2015-11-30 Weaving Women's Spheres in Vietnam offers an in depth study of the status of women in Vietnamese society through an examination of their roles in the context of family religious and local community life from anthropological historical and sociological perspectives

Unlike previous works on gender issues relating to Vietnam which focus on women as passive subjects and are restricted to specific spheres such as family this book through a series of case studies and life stories not only examines the suppressive gender structure of the Vietnamese family but also demonstrates Vietnamese women's agency in appropriating that structure and creating alternative spheres for women which they have interwoven in between the dominant realms of public and private spheres in the areas of family religious practice community organizations and politics including their participation in the re construction of national identity Accordingly this volume is expected to become an important new benchmark relating to gender issues in Asian societies especially in the context of so called transitional societies such as China and Vietnam

Geographies of Post-Industrial Place, Memory, and Heritage Mark Alan Rhodes II, William R. Price, Amy Walker, 2020-11-23 All industrialization is deeply rooted within the specific geographies in which it took place and echoes of previous industrialization continue to reverberate in these places through to the modern day This book investigates the overlap of memory and the impacts of industrialization within today's communities and the senses of place and heritage that grew alongside and in reaction to the growth of mines mills and factories The economic and social change that accompanied the unchecked accumulation of wealth and exploitation of labor as the industrial revolution spread throughout the world has numerous lasting impacts on the socioeconomics of today Likewise the planet itself is now reeling The memory and heritage of these processes reach into the communities that owe the industrial revolution their existence but these populations also often suffered adverse impacts to their health and environment through the large scale and rapid extraction of natural resources and production of goods Through the themes of memory community and place working post industrial landscapes and the de romanticization of industrial pasts this book examines the endurance and decline of these communities the spatial processes of industrial byproducts and the memory and heritage of industrialization and its legacies While based in the traditions of geography this collection also draws upon and will be of great interest to students and scholars of cultural anthropology archaeology sociology history architecture civil engineering and heritage memory museum and tourism studies Using global examples the authors provide a uniquely geographic understanding to industrial heritage across the spaces places and memories of industrial development

Religion and Community in the New Urban America Paul David Numrich,Elfriede Wedam,2015 Religion and Community in the New Urban America examines the interrelated transformations of cities and urban congregations The authors ask how the new metropolis affects local religious communities and what role those communities play in creating the new metropolis Through an in depth study of fifteen Chicago congregations Catholic parishes Protestant churches Jewish synagogues Muslim mosques and a Hindu temple both city and suburban this book describes congregational life and measures congregational influences on urban environments Paul D Numrich and Elfriede Wedam challenge the view held by many urban studies scholars that religion plays a small role if any in shaping postindustrial cities and that religious communities merely adapt to urban structures in a passive fashion Taking into account the spatial distribution of constituents internal traits and external actions each congregation s urban impact is plotted on a continuum of weak to moderate to strong thus providing a nuanced understanding of the significance of religion in the contemporary urban context Presenting a thoughtful analysis that includes maps of each congregation in its social geographic setting the authors offer an insightful look into urban community life today from congregations to the places in which they are embedded Research Handbook

Shenila Khoja-Moolji,2023 Over the course of the twentieth century Shia Ismaili Muslim communities were repeatedly displaced How in the aftermath of these displacements did they remake their communities Shenila Khoja Moolji highlights women s critical role in this rebuilding process and breaks new ground by writing women into modern Ismaili history Rebuilding Community tells the story of how Ismaili Muslim women who fled East Pakistan and East Africa in the 1970s recreated religious community jamat in North America Drawing on oral histories fieldwork and memory texts Khoja Moolji illuminates the placemaking activities through which Ismaili women reproduce bonds of spiritual kinship from cooking for congregants on feast days and looking after sick coreligionists to engaging in memory work through miracle stories and cookbooks Khoja Moolji situates these activities within the framework of ethical norms that more broadly define and sustain the Ismaili sociality Jamat and religious community more generally is not a given but an ethical relation that is maintained daily and intergenerationally through everyday acts of care By emphasizing women s care work in producing relationality and repairing trauma Khoja Moolji disrupts the conventional articulation of displaced people as dependent subjects
