Daoism in History Benjamin Penny, 2006-04-18 Over the last decade there has been a marked increase in the study of Daoism especially in Japan China and the West with a new generation of scholars broadening our understanding of the religion Including contributions from the foremost scholars in the field Daoism in History presents new and important research These essays honour one of the pioneers of Daoist studies Emeritus Professor Liu Ts un yan His major essay Was Celestial Master Zhang a Historical Figure addresses one of the pivotal questions in the entire history of Daoism and is included here as the final essay In addition a Chinese character glossary bibliography and index conclude the book The first in an exciting new series this book presents brand new thinking on Daoism a field now recognized as one of the most vital areas of research in Chinese history and the history of religions Selected Papers from the Hall of Harmonious Wind Tsun-jen Liu, 1976 Asceticism in Early Taoist Religion Stephen Eskildsen, 1998-10-01 Using a wide variety of original sources this book brings to light how and why asceticism was carried out by Taoists during the first six centuries of the common era It examines the practices of fasting celibacy self imposed poverty wilderness seclusion and sleep avoidance and it discusses the beliefs and attitudes that motivated and justified such drastic actions Asceticism in Early Taoist Religion demonstrates that although Taoist ascetics pursued austerities that were extremely rigorous they did not seek to mortify the flesh Through their austerities they almost always sought to improve their physical strength and health because they aspired toward physical longevity as well as spiritual perfection Even though they sometimes taxed their bodies severely they believed that their strength and health would eventually be restored if they persevered The highest goal was to ascend to divine realms in an immortal body However certain beliefs that emerged during this period particularly those influenced by Buddhism may have caused some Taoist ascetics to virtually abandon their concern with longevity and to focus disproportionately upon the perfection of the spirit Such ascetics were more likely to purposely harm and neglect their bodies contradictory as this may have been to the cherished ideals of the Taoist religion Eskildsen traces how this problem may have emerged and how it was viewed and dealt with by those who maintained the ideal of longevity Fictionality and Reality in Narrative Discourse Li-fen Chen, 2000-01-20 This dissertation is an attempt to define a Chinese modernism exemplified by the narrative practices of four major writers in Taiwan today from the perspective of comparative literature and recent development of literary theory I propose that modernity of Taiwanese fiction is not so much a result of Western influences as an evolution of Chinese narrative tradition itself To argue my point I delineate a poetics of Chinese narrative from which I devise a method of reading and a criterion of evaluation for contemporary Taiwanese fiction in defining its achievement and historical significance This study of Taiwanese fiction also aims at providing a better understanding of fundamental aesthetic assumptions of Western modernism in the context of its own literary tradition Chapter One Introduction investigates the theoretical foundation and its line of development in Western and Chinese poetics respectively It first examines the Platonic view of mimesis and Aristotelian aesthetic view of fictionality and their influence on the critical tradition the continuity of the ancient battle between philosophy and poetry as seen in the structuralist and deconstructionist theories then the relationship between subjective fictionality and ironic objectivity in Chinese poetics the continuity of the dilemma in the Chinese novelists in their dual allegiance to the ideal and the real A final section gives a critical overview of the literary scene in Taiwan The following four chapters provide examples of the internal tension between fictionality and ironic awareness in the Taiwanese modernist texts I suggest that instead of stretching the metaphorical potential of fiction to a highly intellectualized abstraction or playing down the interpretive claims of fiction by dramatizing its vulnerability like their Western counterpart the Taiwanese modernists create their texts on the borderline between the high and the low Self assertive as well as self denying each of them confronts his own intellectual vision with paradox and ambivalence In Ch en Ying chen this is expressed as a battle between a lyrical vision of ideological values and an instinctive self clowning in Ch i teng Sheng as a form of competition between pattern and contingency in Wang Chen ho as a celebration and abuse of the fictionality of fiction and in Wang Wen hsing an intense self parody I conclude that the sensitivity to the irrational and contradiction inherent with a resistance to didacticism constitutes the best part of the Chinese humanistic tradition which is continuously enriched with new dimensions by the contemporary Taiwanese writers

Wang,2023-11-20 Lineages Embedded in Temple Networks explores the key role played by elite Daoists in social and cultural life in Ming China notably by mediating between local networks biological lineages territorial communities temples and festivals and the state They did this through their organization in clerical lineages their own empire wide networks for channeling knowledge patronage and resources and by controlling central temples that were nodes of local social structures In this book the only comprehensive social history of local Daoism during the Ming largely based on
