The Pursuit of Harmony Gustav Heldt,2010-02-28 The Heian court of the late ninth and early tenth centuries represents one of the most innovative and influential periods in the history of Japanese poetry It witnessed the creation of entirely new forms of verse in poetry matches screen poems and officially sponsored anthologies none of which had a precedent in earlier times At the apex of these phenomena lay compilation of the Kokin wakashu Collection of Poems Ancient and Modern whose status as the first imperial anthology of native poetry would make it integral to Japanese court culture for centuries afterward Despite the enormous historical significance of these new forms of poetry and the marked interest displayed by powerful individuals in patronizing them however little sustained attention has been paid to the ties between the practices of producing and performing verse and processes of economic ideological political and social change in this period This book is intended to address such issues through an investigation of the ways in which different members of the court community deployed poems in the pursuit of power

Negotiated Power in Late Imperial China Jennifer Rudolph, 2010-02-28 Negotiated Power in Late Imperial China: The Zongli Yamen and the Politics of Reform explores the nature and functioning of reform during the nineteenth century of China's Qing dynasty, 1644-1911. By analyzing the bureaucratic modes of management that developed around the creation and evolution of the Zongli Yamen or Foreign Office, 1861-1901, the book demonstrates the vitality of not only the Chinese State but also the institutional traditions of its Manchu rulers. Drawing on precedent and the flexibility of the administrative system in their efforts to manage the conduct of foreign affairs, high Qing ministers transformed opportunities for institutional dynamism into the reality of a functioning central Zongli Yamen with a foreign affairs field administration supporting it in the provinces. In the process they altered the governmental hierarchy and changed the definition of institutional power in the multi-faceted area of foreign affairs and more generally for the Qing bureaucracy. As the most significant example of institutional development in China's critical period of the nineteenth century, the Zongli Yamen's experience serves as valuable background for understanding reform efforts in late imperial China and beyond.

Portrait of a Suburbanite Seung-Ja Choi, 2015-01-31 This volume is a translation of Choi Seung-ja's 1991 anthology titled Portrait of a Suburbanite. Published in the series of 100 Prominent Korean Poets by Mirae Press, the poems in this volume were selected from four of Choi's previous works: Love of This Age (1981), Merry Diary (1984), House of Memory (1989), and the subsequently published My Tomb Green (1993). Speaking with a fierce sense of equality and independence, Choi Seung-ja's poetry battled ossified forms of language not only on the political but also the personal front. Like her male colleagues, Choi parodied and critiqued the idol of the father but even further she insightfully explored irreverent content to reveal the gendered constraints of the lyric form. In particular, Choi exposed the idolatrous power of the lover, the basis of exploitation and injustice at the most intimate level. On top of their political disempowerment as citizens, the private and domestic alienation of women as daughters, lovers, and wives form a deep stratum of repression. When Choi's women personae broke this long silence of compliance nurtured by the traditional lyric and voiced themselves as exploited and traumatized yet fearless and tenacious human beings, the shock of this transgression shook the nation. In turn, it demonstrates how long and how powerfully the gender constrictions had been imposed on Korean women.

Traces in the Way Noel J. Pinnington, 2010-03-31 Traces in the Way is simultaneously a critical interpretation of the writings of noh playwright and thinker Komparu Zenchiku (1407-1470), a refutation of received views of Japanese traditional arts, noh, and an analysis of medieval Japanese uses of texts. The disciplinary approach is broadly that of cultural studies combining close reading social contextualization and drawing on multiple fields The study is organized through the five elements that Konishi Jin ichi s identified as essential to michi specialization transmission conformity universality and authority Each of these is examined critically and revised providing a basis from which Zenchiku s works can be elucidated This new approach makes it possible to solve much that in conventional studies has remained puzzling about Zenchiku s works including the principles behind the works of classification the purposes that resulted in the rokurin ichiro works and the ideology present in the fragmentary work Meishukushu It becomes clear that Zenchiku far from being a docile recipient of his teacher Zeami s legacy combined Zeami s texts with those of other michi to radically reposition his own practice in the cultural fields of his day Zenchiku drew on a range of legitimating styles to fashion a new rationale for performance one adequate to changing patronage requirements and appropriate to the circumstances of his troupe In this position taking Zenchiku was strikingly successful as is witnessed by the survival of the Komparu line through the chaotic century after his death With this book we come to know a good deal about sarugaku s transmission in the fifteenth century enough to remedy a facile idealization of Japanese michi

Stateless Subjects Petrus Liu, 2012-01-31 Known in the West primarily through poorly subtitled films Chinese martial arts fiction is one of the most iconic and yet the most understudied form of modern sinophone creativity Current scholarship on the subject is characterized by three central assumptions against which this book argues first that martial arts fiction is the representation of a bodily spectacle that historically originated in Hong Kong cinema second that the genre came into being as an escapist fantasy that provided psychological comfort to people during the height of imperialism and third that martial arts fiction reflects a patriotic attitude that celebrates the greatness of Chinese culture which in turn is variously described as the China complex colonial modernity essentialized identity diasporic consciousness anxieties about globalization or other psychological and ideological difficulties experienced by the Chinese people
