Selecting International Executives:

Selecting International Executives Manuel London, Valerie I. Sessa, 1999 Organizations looking to establish and maintain a proactive global presence have executive selection requirements that go beyond traditional leadership skills These requirements also include cross cultural experience in negotiating developing and maintaining partnerships with other businesses worldwide Because the globalization of organizations is relatively new little is known about how to identify and select executives who have the skills to operate effectively in a global environment This book for practitioners and human resources professionals summarizes the most current information about the skills needed to successfully lead a global organization and defines a framework for identifying executives who possess those skills

Choosing Executives Jennifer J. Deal, Valerie I. Sessa, Jodi J. Taylor, 1999 Failure rate for senior executives is high consider the frequent stories in the press about yet another CEO who has been fired or has resigned prematurely Hypothesizing that the selection process is inadequate CCL researchers used the Peak Selection Simulation to ask 621 decision makers specific questions about how they use interviews HR information and search firm reports to select top level candidates This report containing thirty figures and tables and a comprehensive reference list documents this research and provides useful insights that can lead to better selection outcomes

Human Resource Management Practices in Selected Ethiopian Private Companies: A Study to Increase Employee Productivity in Ethiopia Dirk J. van Wasbeek, 2004-09-24 This dissertation examines how human resources are managed at selected Ethiopian private companies how Ethiopian human resource management practice is evolving and how it can be improved The examination is qualitative and exploratory since no comparative research on human resource management has yet been conducted at Ethiopian profit or non profit organizations An understanding of Ethiopian human resource management practice makes it possible to improve Ethiopian human resource management practice and thus to increase employee productivity The study took place at four manufacturing and four service companies in Addis Ababa all representative of their sector The research claim is that Ethiopian human resource management practices differ from human resource management practices in the West due to differences in cultural factors economic systems political systems and legal and industrial relations For this reason Ethiopia s culture politics economy and legal and industrial relations have been analyzed The main finding of this study is that the importance of human resource management is not uniformly understood at all the case study companies Although the multinational companies based in Ethiopia see their human resources as the companies most important asset as human capital the local companies generally do not The fact that respondents claim that Ethiopia has limited experience in industrialization might explain why human resource management in Ethiopia is rudimentary and still has a long way to go With this dissertation the researcher wants to contribute to improving Ethiopian human resource management practice Moreover this dissertation may be used as a framework for similar research in other sectors or for more specific in depth research This dissertation may also serve as a knowledge base for company managers business consultants academics and government officials of countries with a national culture similar to Ethiopia s for example Kenya Tanzania and Zambia countries undergoing or which have undergone a recent transition to a free market economy and countries facing similar macro economic developments
