Russian Literature, 1995-2002 Norman N. Shneidman, 2004-12-15 Writers have a difficult time making a living in contemporary Russia Market driven publishing companies have pushed serious domestic prose to the fringes of their output and few people have money to buy books The disintegration of the Soviet Union in 1991 led Russian society to become polarized between an increasingly prosperous minority and a very poor majority This divide is also mirrored within the writing community with some writers supporting conservative nationalist pro Soviet thinking and others liberal democratic pro Western thought N N Shneidman in the tradition of his previous volumes Soviet Literature in the 1970s Soviet Literature in the 1980s Russian Literature 1988 1994 investigates the Russian literary scene with special emphasis on the relationship between thematic substance and the artistic quality of recently published prose Despite the many challenges besetting it Shneidman argues convincingly that literary activity in Russia continues to be dynamic and vibrant The future development of Russian literature may depend on general economic political and social factors but a new generation of talented writers is fast moving past older forms of ideology and embracing new ways of thinking about Russia The Cumulative Book
