

WHY KIDS SHOULD LEARN SELF DEFENSE

Self-defense training for children offers a fun way to improve physical health and learn a practical way to enhance personal safety. But there are many other benefits as well.

Self-Protection

Through self-defense training, children learn to assess situations and protect themselves when needed to ward off muggings, bullying, and other threats they encounter in their neighborhood or at school.

Increased Self-Esteem

When a child feels self-confident, they possess greater self-esteem. Self-defense increases a child's ability to feel in control of dangerous situations instead of being victimized by them.

Enhanced Physical Health

Self-defense training is physical activity that builds body strength. Children who feel strong physically generally feel strong mentally as well. They take greater pride in their physical health, which sets the stage for a more active, healthy lifestyle.
