criticisms That creative outlet helped me to be able to talk to my family I vowed as I grew older and worked through my issues that I would help another family do the same This is a workbook designed to bridge the gap in between children struggling with lack of self esteem and self confidence and parents yearning to understand and help With engaging activities and discussion parents and children can strengthen their bond and grow closer together This is about helping to identify underlying issues and address them through dialogue and creative expression Having low self esteem and confidence is terrible but it s even worse when you have to do it alone Stronger families lead to stronger children strong children lead to stronger communities This workbook is a step in the right direction Child Self-esteem and Family Functioning Fiona Jane Serensen, University of Southern Queensland.
