Joseph F. Hair,Robert P. Bush,David J. Ortinau,2003 Headhunters William Finlay,James E. Coverdill,2018-10-18 Headhunters are third party agents paid a fee by companies for locating job candidates perform a unique sales role The product they sell is people matching candidates with jobs and companies with candidates Headhunters affect the professional lives of thousands of employees every day and their work has a profound though hidden effect on the employment picture in the United States William Finlay and James E Coverdill draw on interviews with and observations of headhunters and on analysis of headhunting training seminars lectures industry newsletters and a mail survey of headhunting firms The result is a frank and sometimes unsettling portrait of the aims attitudes and tactics of practitioners The payment of fees has shifted from candidates to employers and recruiters now find people to fit jobs rather than the other way around Finlay and Coverdill address what they feel is a serious lack of research about the work headhunters do and how they do it Their book is built around three major questions What advantages do employers derive from using third party agents to handle candidate search and recruitment How are headhunters able to accomplish the double sale selling candidates to employers and employers to candidates What criteria do headhunters use for selecting candidates In the process Finlay and Coverdill link their findings to larger issues of institutional and historical context revealing the economic and political reasons clients use headhunters demonstrating how headhunters manipulate clients and candidates and assessing the impact of headhunters actions on hiring decisions

The Oxford Handbook of Strategic Sales and Sales Management David W. Cravens, Kenneth Le Meunier-FitzHugh, Nigel F. Piercy, 2012-11-22 The Oxford Handbook of Strategic Sales and Sales Management is an unrivalled overview by leading academics in the field of sales and marketing management Sales theory is experiencing a renaissance driven by a number of factors including building profitable relationships creating delivering brand value strategic customer management sales and marketing relationships global selling and the change from transactional to customer relationship marketing Escalating sales and selling costs require organisations to be more focused on results and highlight the shifting of resources from marketing to sales Further the growth in customer power now requires a strategic sales response and not just a tactical one The positioning of sales within the organisation the sales function and sales management are all discussed The Handbook is not a general sales management text about managing a sales force but will fill a gap in the existing literature through consolidating the current academic research in the sales area The Handbook is structured around four key topics The first section explores the strategic positioning of the sales function within the modern organisation The second considers sales management and recent developments The third section examines the sales relationship with the customer and highlights how sales is responding to the modern environment Finally the fourth section reviews the internal composition of sales within the organisation The Handbook will provide a comprehensive introduction to the latest research in sales management and is suitable for academics professionals and those taking professional qualifications in sales and marketing
