I Dare to Say Hilda Twongyeirwe, 2012-02-01. Featuring the real-life experiences of contemporary African women who tell of atrocities, pain, motherhood, marriage, love, and courage in their daily life, this gripping collection brings greater awareness to a continuing struggle. Denied a voice by their own culture for centuries, these women speak out for the first time, sharing poignant tales of abuse and womanhood, revealing their methods of survival and divulging their dreams for themselves and their children. A girl describes hiding under a blanket from the Lord's Resistance Army in search of child brides; a woman speaks of her family abuse and rejection followed by the deaths of her child and partner, only to learn later that the father of her child was already married with eight children and had AIDS. Dramatic, sometimes heartbreaking, often inspiring, this is the first book to truly show what it means to be a 21st-century African woman.

Over 600 poets have been given voice in this series, which was started five years ago, making it an important archive of new African poetry. Every year, space is given to as many poets as can be accommodated; it takes at least 10 years to make a poet. Many poets have gone on to publish their first collection, and more several have won prizes all over the world; some have become academics, some influential performers of their work, and some have travelled all over the world presenting their work. This year's Best New African Poets 2019 Anthology features 197 poems from more than one hundred poets, including collaborations, writing in English, Portuguese, French, and a whole host of African indigenous languages. Featured are poems which deal with love, relationships, politics, governance, spirituality, existence, identity, and place.
